LAVAL THANKS U. S.; SAILS

BRITAIN TO FIX OWN FUTURE AT ELECTION TODAY

Predict Victory for MacDonald Forces.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Great Britain will write its future tomorrow when the voters will elect a new house of commons.

Tomorrow's election's issues, in which [illegible] voters will participate, are regarded as the gravest in British history. They are all important in the face of the national crisis which forced the Labor government to make way for a coalition cabinet to [illegible].

Will the country stand for a protective tariff or not? This is one of the paramount questions the voters must answer.

The result is not in doubt. No one hesitates to predict a triumphal victory for the supporters of the national government. By how much, however, is still a mystery. The stock exchange is now betting on a 200 seat majority for the National party, while the Laborites predict 100 or less. Leaders of the Conservative party [illegible] are claiming 330 to 350 seats out of a total of 615, giving the Tories control of the house without the aid of either the National Labor or the National Liberals. There are [illegible] candidates.

Fate of Six at Stake.

Chief interest centers around six seats for which leaders of the various political parties are fighting hard. All of them are in doubt. The only safe one is Stanley Baldwin of the Conservative party, who has been returned unopposed from the Bewdley division in Worcestershire. In the northern mining district Prime Minister MacDonald is fighting for political existence against the Labor party machine. At the last election he had a majority of [illegible], with the support of the Labor party. Today this machine is opposing him with great bitterness as a renegade. He has won [illegible] since beginning the campaign, but no one knows if it is enough. His friends predict that he may win by a majority of 1,000 votes, while the Laborites are confident he will be defeated. Even so, he will find a safe seat somewhere else undoubtedly and will continue as prime minister.

Premier Visits 28 Villages.

It was close to midnight when Mr. MacDonald called a finish to his campaign. He ended his drive for votes among 28 miners' communities. He spoke from village greens, halls, [illegible] and streets corners. He was greeted as if he were king.

Mr. MacDonald told his audience that when the work of the national government is finished and the financial and economic emergency is a thing of the past, the leaders of that government will go back to their respective parties.

MacDonald Answers Heckler.

"You won't be in any party then," a heckler cried.

At Derby, Mr. MacDonald's friend and colleague, J. H. Thomas, secretary for the dominions, is fighting an equally bitter battle against the Labor party and the railway trades union man[illegible] with a slightly better chance of success than Mr. MacDonald, while at Darwen Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal leader, is facing defeat.

Arthur Henderson, head of the Labor party, is also in danger at Burnley. He became ill at the last moment and was forced to abandon his campaign. Sir John Simon, leader of the National Liberals, may be forced to bow to defeat at Spen Valley, while Sir Donald McLean, another Liberal leader, may lose in Cornwall.

National Party Is Favored.

Two great factors favor the National government's candidates. The first is the steady reduction in unemployment since the emergency national government was formed. Two weeks ago the decrease was 33,000, last week [illegible], and this week it is estimated at [illegible]. The other is the disclosure that the postal savings bank, in which the savings of most of the poor are deposited, was faced with bankruptcy [illegible] months ago because of excessive loans to the unemployment fund.

[illegible] returned to London from [illegible] today to hear the [illegible] results.

Al Capone will know at 2 p. m. today whether he goes to Leavenworth penitentiary tonight, remains indefinitely in the county jail, or gets out on bond pending his appeal from a sentence to eleven years' imprisonment for income tax fraud.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday allowed the gang chief an additional twenty-four hour respite from the bars of Leavenworth prison by deferring action until today on Capone's motion for a writ of supersedeas and bail.

Court Gives No Hint of Plan.

No definite indication as to what the ruling of the court will be was seen in the observations of the three judges, sitting en banc, but federal prosecutors said:

1. They would not be surprised if Capone were granted a supersedeas.

2. They would be surprised if he were granted bail.

If the prosecutors are correct in their conjecture Capone will stay in the county jail, where he has been since Saturday, pending his appeal. A supersedeas does not release a defendant from custody. It merely stays the execution of judgment, and Capone would get no credit on his sentence for the time spent in jail.

Fink Files the Petition.

Defense Attorney Albert Fink petitioned the judges of the Appellate court for a supersedeas and bail, Defense Attorney Michael Ahern not being present. Thomas D. Nash of the firm of Nash & Ahern was there, but took no part in the proceeding.

The hearing was held in the chambers of Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler and Judges Will M. Sparks and Evan A. Evans were called in. One judge has power to pass upon such a motion, but the rule of this court is for at least two to sit.

The session was marked by references to Capone as a persistent law violator and a man with plenty of money to flee from the country, by Assistant United States Attorney Jacob I. Grossman.

Judges Concern Is for Justice.

Judge Alschuler, who recently observed from the bench that he had never heard of Al Capone, chaffed the prosecutor about the relation of evidence to notoriety and all the judges indicated a greater concern for the proper administration of justice than for Al Capone.

"Your honors," Mr. Fink began, "unless this court intercedes the defendant is to be taken to Leavenworth tonight. I see no reason why he should be denied bail pending the disposal of his case any more than any one else."

"You have to have a supersedeas first," said Judge Alschuler. "What are your principal assignments of error?"

Attorney Gives Arguments.

Then Mr. Fink recounted the argument unsuccessfully relied upon before Judge James H. Wilkerson on a motion in arrest of judgment. He said the three felony counts of which Capone was convicted were insufficient, couched in the generic terms of the statutes, and did not give the defendant enough specific information to prepare his defense.

He argued that the letter submitted to revenue agents by Capone's tax expert, Lawrence P. Mattingly, in which income was confessed, was pure hearsay and should not have been admitted as evidence at the trial.

The defendant had told certain raiders that he owned a gambling house, he had spent some money, and that was about all the government could show, according to Fink. He said that no evidence of net income was adduced; that the whole case was based upon circumstances and conjecture.

U. S. Prosecutor Replies.

Prosecutor Grossman replied that Capone had admitted to Florida authorities that his business was gambling, that Jack Guzik was his financial secretary and business associate. He pointed out that gambling house records had proved Capone's connection with the management.

Profit checks made out to Guzik had been spent by Capone, according to the evidence. About $80,000 had been transmitted to Capone in Florida by Western Union, and this was sent by Guzik and other attaches of the Cicero gambling houses, Mr. Grossman said.

They were sent from the Lexington hotel, where Capone maintained "an organization," and paid the bills for

THE TWO PROMOTERS AND THE MELANCHOLY AUTUMN DAYS

Assure Cash for Portion of Teachers' Pay

The first actual cash for Chicago's unpaid school teachers and other employés was assured yesterday when the Chicago Surface Lines agreed to buy $2,250,000 of 1930 and 1931 tax anticipation warrants.

At the same time, Lewis E. Myers, president of the school board, prepared a list of local taxpayers whose individual assessments exceed $100,000, to whom he will try to sell $6,965,000 in school warrants held by the city if other measures fail. Only 70 such taxpayers would be required to solve the problem. Mr. Myers pointed out that the warrants could be used in payment of taxes and would, during their retention, pay interest.

Move to Raise Interest.

Another move to dispose of these warrants held by the city was effected yesterday by the administrative committee of the school board, which adopted a resolution raising the interest rates on tax warrants from 4 to 6 per cent. The interest increase, which it is hoped will stimulate purchases, must be ratified tomorrow by the full school board to become effective.

The action of the Surface Lines was authorized by the board of operations. Guy A. Richardson, general manager, was named to carry out details of the purchase. As planned, the company will buy $1,500,000 worth of 1930 warrants, and $750,000 worth of 1931 warrants, divided among the city, county, and school board. It was estimated roughly that the county will receive $270,000; the city, including various divisions, nearly $1,000,000, and the school board about $750,000. The Surface Lines will hold the warrants and apply them on taxes when due.

Through this plan, the educational and building funds of the school board, and the library, municipal tuberculosis sanitarium and pension funds of the city, will be benefited, as will certain branches of the county.

Meet With Bankers Today.

Further action to alleviate the city's financial situation will be attempted today when a committee of bankers will meet with City Controller M. S. Szymczak. At the conference will be discussed plans for the sale of warrants to other large taxpayers. Negotiations of a promising nature have already been started with several corporations in this regard, former Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch said last night. Mr. Busch is chairman of the conference called last week by Judge Philip J. Finnegan to dispose of the $6,965,000 in warrants for the back payments of teachers.

Among those who have been invited to attend the parley today are Silas H. Strawn, under whose direction $74,000,000 in warrants were sold last year; Attorney Alfred S. Austrian; D. F. Kelly, head of the Fair, and Bertram M. Winston, real estate executive.

Meanwhile, Ald. Barnet Hodes [7]th, chairman of a special city council committee designed to speed collection of $125,000,000 in delinquent taxes, sent out invitations to taxing bodies in the county to meet Thursday in the council chambers.

Creditor Takes County Bonds.

The John Sexton company, a wholesale grocery concern which has furnished food supplies for county poor relief, yesterday accepted payment of a bill amounting to $525,824 in poor relief bonds instead of cash. Most of the bill has been overdue for 12 months. The bonds are the first of the $2,000,000 issue voted by the last session of the legislature which the county has sold.

HUSBAND OF PRINCESS MARY SELLS HIS TOWN HOUSE; TAX TOO HIGH

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The earl of Harewood, husband of Princess Mary, has sold his famous town house, Chesterfield House, and rented his country estate, Goldsborough Hall, Yorkshire, owing to the increased income tax he must pay as one of the Britain's richest men.

Both Lord Harewood and Princess Mary are making rigid all round economies, but are endeavoring to see that none of their employés is thrown out of work as a result. Although Lord Harewood has already sold some of his race horses, he now is considerably curtailing his Newmarket racing establishment, planning to sell some of his finest horses.

It was also learned today that Lord Sackville is selling two famous Reynolds portraits of George III. and Queen Caroline, hanging in the great hall at Knole, his palatial seat at Seven Oaks, likewise because of heavy taxation.

Only "Dry" City in Poland Votes to End Prohibition

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 26.—Pruskop, Poland's only city with enforced prohibition, in a public vote yesterday decided to abolish the dry law. About 72 per cent of the population voted wet. The vote was decided on because drunkenness had increased tremendously under prohibition.

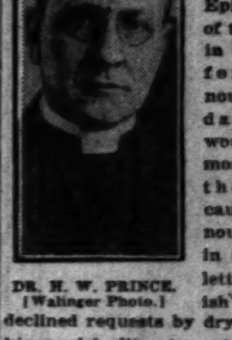

Hootch 30 Cents a Pint; Seller Is Sent to Jail

Gunner Gunderson, 50 years old, 1140 West Adams street, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to serve 60 days in the bridewell yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli when two men testified the defendant had sold them moonshine for 30 cents a pint.

Rector Quits Prohibition as Futile Cause

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

DR. H. W. PRINCE.

Expressing this belief, the Rev. Dr. Herbert W. Prince, rector of the fashionable Episcopal church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, formally announced yesterday that he would devote no more efforts to the prohibition cause. The announcement was in the form of a letter to his parish in which he declined requests by dry forces to use his parish literature to advertise a series of dry massmeetings.

Dr. Prince declared himself a dry and a teetotaler, but he asserted that the prohibition cause had become so involved with politics that the church could not participate without being partisan.

Rector Explains Stand.

"I respect the people," said Dr. Prince in his letter, "who are working in an orderly and legal fashion for the repeal of the amendment if they conscientiously believe repeal to be better for the country, and provided they are abiding by the law meanwhile. Such people should not be wet meanwhile. While working for the repeal they should be upholders of the law; otherwise their motives are impugned and their case given away."

"Consent of Nation Needed."

The rector then pointed out that "moral law" has always had the consent of the nation. Though it is frequently broken, he continued, it can be enforced in a fairly satisfactory way if it has the consent of the nation.

"Prohibition has not the consent of the nation," Dr. Prince declared as he compared that law with moral law.

"The only way for the 18th amendment to be successful is for the nation to desire it," he said. "Therefore the liquor problem is one of education and not one of enforcement. Probably two generations will have to be sacrificed to chaos before a dry nation emerges."

The Gold Coast Club: or a Tale of a Poor Loser

It seems too bad, when one considers the redeemed reputation of our city, that a gentleman and his lady from the wicked city of New York, here bent on a holiday, should find their way into that gilded spot known as the Continental Gold Coast club, at 19 Cedar street.

It is likewise unfortunate, from a civic standpoint, that the gentleman and his lady should have to depart from Chicago, as they must today, with a feeling in their minds that Chicago harbors welshers, or in plainer language, people who renege on their gambling losses.

Alas for Civic Pride.

And this, alas, is the burden which Ben Marden and his Continental Gold Coast club have cast upon our civic conscience. For it appears, as this tale shall relate, that Mr. Marden and his gambling associates are not averse to taking profits from the roulette wheel, but they are quite the contrary when faced with losses.

It should be stated that this is the club, situated in a residential territory, which the police for the last few days have been trying to close, or so it is reported.

The gentleman in the case is Lyman Irish, a wealthy New York broker, and his lady is Mrs. Margaret Johnson Irish. It might be said that Mrs. Irish might have known her Chicago better, for she is the daughter of Caleb Johnson, founder of the Palmolive Soap company. Until several years ago she was herself a well known Chicagoenne.

The Irishes Come to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Irish came to Chicago for a holiday, stopping at the Hotel Ambassador East. On Saturday evening they entertained Mr. and Mrs. John K. Byrne of Kenilworth, old friends. Mrs. Irish had been beguiled by some well meaning Englishman with tales of what a smart place had been set up at 19 Cedar street.

"Really," the Englishman said, "it's the last word in the well known class of speakeasies as they go over here."

The Englishman had painted such an alluring picture of the Gold Coast club, its handsome bar, clever servants, rich furnishings, and what not, that Mrs. Irish was determined to look in.

So the Irishes and the Byrnes went over, and although Mrs. Irish, having seen a thing or two in New York, was disappointed and thought the place much overrated, they tarried awhile.

Mr. Irish Tries His Luck.

Mr. Irish, lucky as his name, had a fling at the roulette wheel. He seldom gambles, but when he does play he does it earnestly. In no time he won $3,950.

The croupier advanced him $950 in cash, and a check for $3,000. The check was drawn on a blank form, in which the name "I. C. Trust and Savings bank" was inserted, and the signature on the check was "M. J. Jacobson."

Mr. Irish had his friend, Attorney Edward Woods, cash the check. At this point it may be stated that yesterday, when Mr. Woods presented the check for payment, it was discovered that the name of the bank was incorrectly written, and that while one "M. J. Jacobsen" did have an account at the I. C. Bank and Trust company, the account was not nearly equal to satisfying a withdrawal of $3,000.

Unaware of this on Sunday evening, Mr. Irish, again in the company of

CALLS PARLEY WITH HOOVER HELP TO WORLD

Know Where We Stand, He Says.

World Studies Plan

NEW YORK.—Premier Laval, in farewell speech before sailing, says conference with President was full success.

WASHINGTON.—Concessions granted by President Hoover on war debts threaten break in Republican party.

BERLIN.—Germany plans to ask reduction of reparations.

PARIS.—France skeptical of results of conference.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Premier Pierre Laval of France, smiling genially and vibrating with energy, is sailing for home with confidence that the mission which had brought him on his five-day visit to the United States had been successful, even if he and President Hoover had not signed a single sheet of paper, or fixed a program for the coöperation which is their object.

The sailing of the Ile de France was delayed that Josee, the premier's daughter, might enjoy a night club evening. It will leave at 5 o'clock.

In his last public appearance of a day filled with sightseeing and reception—at a dinner given by the French Chamber of Commerce of New York at the Waldorf-Astoria—the premier thanked America, from President Hoover down, for its courtesies to him, and told all that he thought was proper for him to say about his negotiations with the President.

Both countries now understand each other, he said, and know what to expect. He has served the cause of peace, he felt, without sacrificing the fundamental interests of France, and the two governments, by seeking means to restore economic well-being, had advanced the cause of international harmony.

2,000 Crowd Ballroom.

Two thousand persons crowded the grand ballroom to cheer M. Laval in farewell, and fully half of them, it seemed, were members of the French colony of New York.

"I have just completed an important mission," he said, speaking in French. "In accepting President Hoover's invitation so soon after the meetings in London and Berlin, I have fulfilled one of the most important responsibilities of my position.

"The duty of statesmen is to neglect no practical method of coöperation for the common good—as we declared yesterday in Washington. While respecting their national traditions and laws they should seek means to protect every home against poverty and our civilization against the dangers to which it is exposed.

Know Where Each Stands.

"This is the ideal which guided us during our conversations. We fixed no program; we drafted no protocol; we were animated by the mutual desire to examine thoroughly in the course of a free and frank discussion, the various problems which the present crisis raises.

"Our effort has not been in vain. We have come to know one another better. Our countries are far apart, separated by a vast ocean. Our democracies have not the same constitutional basis. Our political traditions, often differing, suffice to explain certain misunderstandings which from time to time have grown up between us. Henceforth we know where we stand, we know what we want, we know what we can expect and what may be expected of us.

Confident of Duty Done.

"Coöperation between our two countries will thus become closer, since our governments will have a clearer understanding of their respective interests and their common duties. Thus, even if the conversations in Washington had not other results, they would have fulfilled great hopes. This is the moral benefit of our meeting.

"But we have accomplished more by seeking the most constructive methods for restoring economic stability and confidence and we have done our duty in the cause of international solidarity.

"You will appreciate, I am sure, that on this occasion I cannot comment further on the scope and results of our conversations. I desire first fully to inform the government of my country. But here and now I wish to express my satisfaction with the results."

The gathering which surrounded the French premier was distinguished. Among the premier's compatriots were Marshal Henry Petain, the hero of Verdun; General Count de Chambrun, descendant of Lafayette and a great soldier in his own right; Ambassador Paul Claudel, Admiral Descottes-Genon, commander of the French warships Duquesne and Suffren, now in New York harbor.

Noted Americans included Undersecretary of State William R. Castle Jr., Gen. Pershing and Acting Secretary of War Frederick Payne.

Mr. Castle, bidding M. Laval goodby on behalf of the American government, spoke in somewhat the same vein as the premier.

Following the dinner the premier surrounded by a gold braided entourage of hundreds of his fellow countrymen living in this city departed for the French line piers and boarded the Ile de France to sail for home.

Shown Sights by Al Smith.

The premier had arrived in New York from Washington accompanied by his daughter at 6 a. m. and, with the exception of a short interval of rest during the afternoon, spent the day sightseeing, with ex-Gov. Al Smith as guide; attending receptions in his honor and getting his final impressions of New York. He was full of admiration for this country and spoke almost with awe of his impression of New York as viewed from the top of the Empire State building. Mlle. Laval equally was enthusiastic.

"I love America," was the declaration he made to a group of newspaper men on his visit to the Empire state building. "I am struck with profound admiration for your great and beautiful country."

Late in the afternoon Premier Laval conferred in his suite at the Waldorf-Astoria with Thomas W. Lamont, banker and partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., who remained with the premier for nearly a half hour. No information was given out as to the purpose and nature of this conference.

POLISH ENVOY PRAISES BORAH FOR "COURAGE"

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The interest of some of the guests assembled last night at Ambassador Claudel's reception for Premier Laval centered around a conversation between the Polish ambassador, Tytus Filipowicz, and Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

The ambassador congratulated the senator on his "moral courage" in admitting his lack of knowledge of conditions prevailing in central Europe. He said that the senator's declarations would serve as an encouragement and stimulus to the nationalist elements in Europe and might drive them to an armed aggression against their neighbors.

Senator Borah, doubting that his words could produce such results, reiterated that his knowledge of actual conditions in Poland and in central Europe was very limited.

JURY WILL HEAR EX-OFFICIAL IN LIGHT POST QUIZ

Michael J. Kennedy, former commissioner of gas and electricity, was subpoenaed yesterday to appear before the grand jury this afternoon. He will be questioned in connection with charges that officials of the previous city administration authorized Harry Johnson, an electrical contractor, to violate the specifications of his contract to install street lights.

Johnson, who is president of the Electrical Contracting company, and John Muerling, city engineer in charge of the light installations, also have been subpoenaed for the same time. The subpoenaes were issued at the request of Assistant State's Attorneys Homer Dodge and John Gallagher, who are in charge of the investigation.

CONCESSIONS BY HOOVER ON WAR DEBT STIR G. O. P.

Party Schism Begins to Be Evident.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—President Hoover's agreement with Premier Laval of France opening the way to repudiation of the 11 billions of dollars of war debts owed the United States by Europe has blown the lid off the political situation.

The President's abandonment of the policy of refusing to link the war debts owed us with the reparations owed by Germany and of making war debt reduction contingent upon reparations reductions is the sensation of the hour in the capital. Evidence is not lacking that it has split the Republican party and raised an issue that will trouble the Democrats also in the formulation of their party creed in the presidential election next year.

Republican Attitude Ominous.

The attitude of Republican party leaders was ominous. None would consent to be quoted on the Hoover debt revision program. None would indorse it. Some said they preferred to await a further development of the President's views on the question. Others privately denounced or otherwise criticized Mr. Hoover's concession to the European powers which have been striving for years to link war debts with reparations.

More than one Republican leader deplored the injection of the debt repudiation issue into the presidential election, in which it is felt it cannot fail to embarrass Mr. Hoover. The fact that the President had taken this step on the eve of the election was cited as further proof of his lack of political judgment.

Offer Defense for Hoover.

Administration defenders of the President pronounced his position unassailable. They cited the language of the Hoover-Laval statement as evidence that it is only for the period of the world economic depression that the President contemplates a reduction of reparations and war debts. They opined that the American people will indorse any measures of this character that will save Europe from bankruptcy and thereby help the restoration of prosperity.

From an administration source came the observation that in any revision of the war debts the capacity of each debtor to continue payment will be judged in the light of its financial and economic situation at the time. Thus Great Britain, which obtained a 30 per cent cancellation of its debt at the time of the refunding, might be given the largest reduction because of its present impoverished condition, while France, which got a 60 per cent cancellation, might receive no further reduction because of its present prosperity. Likewise, it might be judged that Italy, which was forgiven 80 per cent of its debt, possesses ample capacity to pay the remainder.

May Clarify Situation.

One administration official ventured the opinion that the President will seize an early opportunity to clarify his agreement with M. Laval on the subject of reparations and war debts in order to forestall criticism when congress meets in December, when it is expected the vials of speech will be poured out upon the project to compel the American taxpayers to pay part, if not all, of the eleven billions of debts owed by Europe. The borrowings of the allied governments which were funded at a principal value of eleven billions bearing interest for 62 years are calculated to have a present value of more than five billions. This represents a 50 per cent cancellation of the original borrowings.

There is rather a general assumption among administration officials that Europe will not delay long in taking the initiative for revision of reparations and war debts in the manner contemplated by Mr. Hoover and M. Laval. It is expected that Germany will start the ball rolling by asking for the appointment of the commission provided by the Young plan to examine the capacity of the reich to continue payment of the annuities.

If this procedure is expedited it is possible that the appeals of America's debtors for a revision of war debts commensurate with the revision of reparations will get before congress at the coming session. Mr. Hoover promised M. Laval that he would recommend favorable action by congress on such pleas. It is understood that M. Laval expects early action in the matter in order to obtain an adjustment of reparations before the expiration of the Hoover moratorium June 30 next.

In quarters critical of the President the view appears to prevail that he fell an easy victim to the wiles of the French premier. By such critics it is pointed out that until he talked with M. Laval he had no notion apparently of conceding any diminution of the war debts except in return for a reduction of armaments by Europe. He came out of the conference having failed to obtain any promise of armament reduction at that or any other price short of entering a security pact and agreeing to a reduction of war debts in consideration of a reduction of reparations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Regular Republicans on Capitol hill were backward today about commenting on the results of the Hoover-Laval conference. Among those now in Washington only Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut could be found who was willing to give his opinion of yesterday's joint statement.

The silence of the regulars was in contrast to the willingness of Democrats and insurgent Republicans to let it be known that the agreement between President Hoover and Premier Laval concerning intergovernmental debts sounded much like a first step toward repudiation.

Bingham Approves Program.

Some of the comments were as follows:

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.]—I am in entire accord with the position expressed in the communique, and I believe it will be greatly to the advantage of the United States to listen with friendly feeling to any new study of the European situation. If the President should request congress to authorize another commission on interallied debts I should be heartily in favor of such a procedure. I feel sure that the visit of Premier Laval and the contacts he made with leading members of the administration and with Senator Borah will be most helpful in eventually arriving at a settlement mutually beneficial to both countries.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.]—As at present advised, I can see nothing to cause me to change my previously expressed opposition to any reduction of war debts.

Senator Robert M. La Follette [Radical Rep., Wis.]—The statement as published indicates no tangible accomplishment. I still am opposed to the extension of the moratorium as I stated last June.

Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.]—I see in the proposal the first phase of a well laid plan for the cancellation of war debts. It looks as though our government is making moves in the interest of holders of foreign bonds and investments. For this reason, I do not approve of the movement, and believe the proposition will cause a clash when it comes up in congress.

Sees Repudiation Ahead.

Senator Cordell Hull [Dem., Tenn.]—It was a question of choice on the part of this country between economic isolation and cancellation of debts. We can not practice the policy of economic isolation—high tariffs and restrictions on international trade—and expect these debts to be paid. These talks and proposals concerning moratoriums are but steps leading to repudiation and, surely, cancellation. This is part of the price the American people pay for these restrictions. Before I would aprove or disapprove of the plan I would first have to learn whether the German government will make any requests such as those suggested in the announcement, and whether or not Germany will seek postponement under the Young plan. It also would be necessary as I see it, to learn whether or not the Hitler group in Germany will be in power there this winter as if so they may ignore the proposition.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart [Radical Rep., Ia.]—I gather the impression that it is pretty largely a J. Pierpont Morgan deal to attempt to make good the foreign bonds held by New York banks. So far as I am concerned, I do not favor a government subsidy—which is what cancellation of the debts would amount to—in order to get the banks out of their predicament. They got into it themselves; it is not up to the government to get them out. It appears that Mr. Laval did not want to discuss disarmament. Apparently France has given up any idea of disarming. And, of course, this country is not going to enter into any such entanglement as a security pact. It is time that we concentrated on domestic relief.

Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] preferred not to comment, saying that his position as chairman of the Republican national committee would cause any statement of his to be interpreted as a purely political utterance.

King Terms It "Harmful."

Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah]—The reference in the joint statement to international governmental obligations will in my opinion encourage Germany to demand a prolonged moratorium and strengthen the purpose of many of her nationals to resist paying any further reparations. In that event the statement will prove harmful. It will encourage debtors whether individual, corporate, or national, to demand moratoriums and cancellation of obligations, thus creating confusion and uncertainty in business and financial domains.

Dispute Over Language.

What happened in those three hours was said today to have been due to the insistence of M. Paul Claudel, the French ambassador, a noted authority in the use of his native language that the joint communique should be clothed in perfect literary French. This caused trouble even between the French representatives themselves.

The chronology of the incident dates back to Saturday when a tentative draft of the proposed joint communique was made in French. Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, made a translation of this into English and took his English text to the French representatives who thereupon retranslated it back into French. When he got to the White House yesterday for the final conference Ambassador Claudel expressed dissatisfaction with the literary character of the final text.

One of those familiar with what took place at the White House said today that the circumstances recalled Mark Twain's literal French translation of his famous story, "The Jumping Frog of Calaveris," into literal English and the retranslation of the English text into literal French.

BARON, HEIR TO $250,000, STILL AMONG ABSENT

Baron Giorgio Mario Suriani remained missing yesterday although an inheritance of $250,000 awaited him. The baron, said to be in needy circumstances, is being sought by Attorney Leslie G. Agasim, 134 North La Salle street, who wishes to inform him that he is heir to the estate of his uncle, Giacinto D'Nels, continental orchestra leader, who died in Naples some months ago.

The baron was last seen in Chicago at the annual fashion show given by the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital at the Stevens hotel a week ago. He and his wife, Mlle. Mildred Monette, staged an exhibition dance as part of the program.

Baron Suriani came to this country ten years ago. Money grew short in 1928 and he offered his hand and title to any woman who would provide a dowry of $100,000. There were no takers and the baron became a haberdashery salesman in a State street store. Later he took up professional dancing and married Mlle. Monette, a dancer.

Hold Up Owner, Patrons of Calumet City Roadhouse

Two armed men last night held up the Plantation café, a roadhouse at Schrum road and Burnham avenue, Calumet City, robbed the proprietor and two patrons of a total of $353 and fled in an automobile owned by one of the patrons. Tony Zaleski, the owner of the café, lost $53. Ray Bangshardt, Calumet City, was robbed of $200, and Leonard Diuszak, also of Calumet City, gave up $100 and his car.

BERLIN PREPARES TO ASK FOR CUT IN REPARATIONS

Plans to Act When Laval Returns to Europe.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—"It is up to Europe to take the initiative to get together a program to straighten out the debt and reparations tangle," a spokesman of the German foreign office said tonight when asked Germany's opinion of the result of the Washington conference between President Hoover and Premier Laval of France.

Germany is seriously considering the advisability of taking the initiative in asking for a reduction in reparations under the provisions of the Young plan immediately after Premier Laval returns to Europe, but a decision will not be taken until details of the Franco-American conversations reach Germany through official channels.

See Ray of Hope.

The foreign office sees a ray of hope in the Washington statement that America and France will jointly seek measures of relief. Part of the German press, however, does ont share the official optimism, pointing out that "Germany again is delivered to the mercy of the most powerful nation of the world—France, Shylock of all Shylocks, armed to the teeth, and with a host of vassals equally well armed."

The public is now asking that Chancellor Bruening proceed to America to complete the circle of callers at Washington and personally report the German situation to President Hoover, as officials declare the German financial situation is too uncertain to allow Bruening to leave his post at present.

Pleased with Duce's Speech.

Those who fear a tussle with France over reparations are seeking consolation in the speech which Premier Mussolini made at Naples yesterday, in which he advocated revision of the peace treaties and fair disarmament.

Mussolini's emissary, Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, in conference with President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Bruening has succeeded in furthering the Italo-German rapprochement and has agreed on common action for revision of the treaties as soon as the results of the Washington conference and the British elections are known, an official communique said tonight at the conclusion of the second day of Gandhi's visit. What form this action will take was not revealed.

FRANCE IS RELIEVED

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 26.—News of the results of the Hoover-Laval conversations was received with varying degrees of enthusiasm or lack of it by French opinion, but everywhere is apparent relief that the Young plan remains intact and that Laval did not give anything away.

Although it is pointed out in many quarters that the results were not worth the trouble, Avenir, political organ, says philosophically:

"The trip only cost us $12,000. I know other trips which have cost us much more."

Senator Borah is still getting the lion's share of the comment, much of which is sarcastic. The Journal des Debats remarks that Laval's voyage was not in vain if he "learned something of America. He has been aided by Senator Borah, who has given him a good idea of what separates Idaho and Auvergne."

CENTRAL EUROPE VEXED

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Oct. 26.—Smarting under the financial and military heel of France, Austria and Hungary have received with deep disappointment the news of the outcome of the Washington conversations between President Hoover and Premier Laval.

These countries had hoped the President might bring up the question of treaty revision, or at least try to loosen France's tightening stranglehold on Central Europe. Tonight Vienna and Budapest interpreted the Washington conversations as meaning American support for France's military and financial domination of Europe and for France's refusal to consider revision of the peace treaties, which have turned central Europe into chaos.

London Calls It "Washout."

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The British government has received no communications from its ambassadors at Washington and Paris or from the American and French governments concerning the results of the Hoover-Laval conversation, and so no comment was made at the foreign office.

Such unofficial opinions as are available in London are unfavorable. The view is that the Hoover-Laval meeting seems to be the most fruitless and disappointing washout of all the international parleys on which the world has been basing vain hopes for the last thirteen years.

According to the British view the only definite thing agreed upon was that America and France should remain on the gold standard, which does not bring much solace to countries off the standard and having no gold.

Party Leaders in Today's British Election

David Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party, who is urging support of Liberal candidates, but expresses preference for Labor candidates to National Conservatives who favor abolition of free trade.

Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labor party forces which refused to follow the lead of Ramsay MacDonald and are now engaged in an attempt to overthrow the coalition government.

Ramsay MacDonald, premier, who is fighting to retain his seat in the Seaham district and is also leading the combination of Labor and Conservative members known as "National Conservatives."

Josee Visits Night Club; Delays Sailing of the Ile de France

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Mlle. Josée Laval, 19 year old daughter of the French premier, waved her hand tonight over a silver globe atop the Empire State building and the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor was bathed in light.

As a farewell gesture of good will before sailing for home, the French girl turned on a new flood lighting system which increases the illumination of the famous statue, a gift from the people of her nation 45 years ago Wednesday.

Josée, who termed the ceremony a "thrilling climax to a magnificent day" of sightseeing, was accompanied by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and by Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely and other military attaches.

As If by Magic.

A flare bomb from an army plane momentarily lighted the harbor around the statue of the goddess, as a signal for Josée to pass her hand over the globe.

Then, as if by magic, myriads of lights suddenly engulfed the statue. Its unsightly shadows, the double chin, and crow's feet, which marred its beauty under the old lighting system, had disappeared. The new equipment will enable the statue to be seen great distances, even on foggy nights.

Josée and her companions saw its glow clearly.

Magic by no means had a part in the apparatus. The silver sphere, an extremely sensitive device, operated a photoelectric cell in the goddess' hand. The cell in turn flashed on the floodlights.

Then Josée spoke a few sentences over a national radio hookup. The whistle of a 60 mile wind mingled with her voice in the microphone.

"I wish to take this opportunity," she said, "to thank the people of the United States for their good wishes and I only regret, that because I am sailing for home tonight, I will not be able to visit all parts of your wonderful country."

"I think 5th avenue is a dream," she exclaimed. "It is beautiful and lively."

Josee admitted that during the afternoon she had slipped away to a newsreel theater and had seen motion pictures of her arrival in New York last week.

Dances with Mayor

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The bright lights of New York so attracted Mlle. Josee Laval, daughter of the French premier, that she remained at a night club long after the scheduled sailing time of the Ile de France tonight. The liner remained at her pier. Her party was joined by Mayor James Walker.

Josée was given full reign. Men besieged her for dances. Long after Josée was due to leave the mayor asked her for a dance and to the tunes of "Cupid on the Birthday Cake" they glided about the polished floor.

SUPREME COURT OF U. S. DENIES RONGETTI PLEA

Must Serve Prison Term for Girl's Death.

The Supreme court of the United States yesterday refused the plea of Dr. Amante Rongetti, Chicago physician, for a review of the Illinois Supreme court's decision affirming his conviction on a charge of manslaughter.

DR. RONGETTI.

Rongetti was convicted in August, 1930, of causing the deaths of Loretta Enders and her unborn child by an illegal operation. It was the third time he had been tried on the same set of facts. The first trial, on a charge of murder, resulted in conviction and a death sentence, but the Illinois Supreme court ordered a retrial. The second trial, on a charge of manslaughter, resulted in a disagreement.

The death of the Enders girl occurred in 1927. Rongetti, testifying in his own behalf at the third trial, claimed that the operation which killed her had been performed by another physician and that he had only taken measures later in an attempt to save her life.

His sentence, which he must now serve, is one to ten years in the penitentiary.

Rongetti operated the Ashland Boulevard hospital. He has been accused many times of performing illegal operations. Only a few weeks ago he was convicted in the federal court of violating the anti-narcotic acts, and on Oct. 2 was sentenced to serve three years in the Leavenworth penitentiary.

NINA PUTNAM, HUSBAND HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Santa Barbara, Cal., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—While en route from Hollywood to San Francisco, Nina Wilcox Putnam, novelist, and her new husband, Arthur James Ogle, were severely shaken and bruised and Mrs. Ogle's son, John Francis Putnam, 14 years old, was more seriously injured in an automobile crash on the coast highway, ten miles north of here this afternoon. Officer L. H. Ellis of the state highway patrol administered first aid to the injured youth. He was thrown from the rumble seat through the rear window.

2 BANDITS TRY TO ROB COPS; 1 SHOT, BOTH CAPTURED

One of two young bandits was shot and both were captured when they attempted to hold up two policemen in Milwaukee avenue, near Belle Plaine avenue, last night.

They are Louis Elsold, 18 years, of 1650 Roscoe street, and Henry Urhauses, 19, of 4530 Lincoln avenue. Elsold was shot in the right shoulder, and taken to the Bridewell hospital. Their captors were Motorcycle Policemen Henry Lartigue and John J. Hylan, attached to the North Robey street station.

Earlier Lartigue and Hylan put their motorcycles away because of wet streets, and resumed work in an automobile. A tire of their car was punctured, and the policemen halted in Milwaukee avenue to change tires. While engaged on this task, Urhauses and Elsold drew up in another machine, later found to have been stolen, and ordered them to hold up their hands. Lartigue shot Elsold, and Hylan captured Urhauses.

Two other boys, who said they were employed as messengers in a loop bank, were arrested later on stories given by Elsold and Urhauses. They are William Kuscha, 15, of 4130 North Oakley avenue and Edward Zelman, 15, of 1701 North Leavitt street. Kuscha said he participated in 25 robberies in the last five days, receiving $20 as his share. A .45 caliber automatic pistol was found in Zelman's home.

SNOW HITS WEST; MIDWEST TO GET SHOWERS TODAY

With sections of the far west in the grip of snow and wind storms last night, Chicago and parts of the middle west are also marked for the first autumn storms. Rain, followed by much cooler temperatures, rather than snow, will prevail in this region, however.

Readings last night indicated that Chicago's summerlike spell, which has endured over much of September and October, will be broken tomorrow. Today will be warmer, with showers. Light showers fell yesterday. Tomorrow will be generally fair, but much cooler, according to C. A. Donnel, government weather forecaster.

A cloudburst hit Quincy, Ill., yesterday, flooding the city with two inches of rain within 35 minutes. Automobiles were swept off the roads and sewers overflowed.

Reports from Denver said that Yellowstone park and the Jackson hole country were covered by deep snow. In Wyoming the storm attained blizzard proportions, hindering telegraph and highway communication. Airplane service was delayed also.

Gunmen Spurn Saxophone; It Irritates Neighbors

Roman Wojcik of 3935 South Kedzie avenue, a saxophone player, started out in his car for downtown last night. He laid the saxophone on the rear seat. At State and 15th streets he halted because of a puncture. Two armed Negroes pounced upon him. They took $17 from Wojcik. Then they searched the car. They came upon the saxophone. "Keep it," remarked the robbers, walking away. "That's one of those things that get the whole neighborhood sore at you."

HOOVER APPEALS FOR AMPLE NAVY AS DEFENSE ONLY

Praises Efficiency of the Personnel.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The vital importance of maintaining an army and navy of sufficient strength to guarantee the country against invasion by a hostile power was stressed by President Hoover tonight in a special message issued at the White House as his contribution to the nation-wide observance of Navy day tomorrow.

The President spoke in the highest terms of the officers and men now serving in the American navy, asserting that its personnel has never been excelled in the country's history. "Navy day," the President said, "offers a special opportunity for a national consideration of our defense and an opportunity to express national appreciation to the body of men who give so high a service to the nation."

Salve for Wood's Words.

Coming so quickly after Chairman Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.] of the house appropriations committee had issued his statements excoriating certain naval officers as cheap propagandists who had circulated "pure damn lies" in an attempt to defeat the President's economy program, the President's high praise of the naval personnel was interpreted in many quarters as indicating a narrowing of the White House-navy rift over naval economies.

No mention was made by the President of his current row with naval officers over the question of how much the naval establishment could be slashed without impairing the American fleet to the point where it could no longer fulfill its mission. The President did, however, attempt to justify his national defense economies with the statement that maintenance of too large a navy would do "economic injury to our people."

"The first necessity of our government is the maintenance of a navy so efficient and strong that, in conjunction with our army, no enemy may ever invade our country," the President said. "The commanding officers of our forces inform me that we are maintaining that strength and efficiency.

Force for Defense.

"Ours is a force of defense, not offense. To maintain forces less than that strength is to destroy national safety; to maintain greater forces is not only economic injury to our people but a threat against our neighbors and would be righteous cause for ill-will amongst them.

"Our problem is to assure the adjustment of our forces to the minimum based upon the outlook in the world; to strive for lower armament throughout the whole world; to promote good will among nations; to conduct our military activities with rigid economy; to prevent extremists on one side from undermining the public will to support our necessary forces, and to prevent extremists on the other side from waste of public funds.

"We are fortunate in having a navy with long, high spirited tradition. It possesses a personnel of officers and men who have never been excelled in our whole history. The nation has reason for confidence in their ability."

It became known today that two moves were made by the navy department to tone down the programs arranged for navy day exercises before high officials of the Hoover administration were satisfied that no offense would be made to President Hoover. About two weeks ago officials of the navy department sent out a message advising navy day speakers among its commissioned personnel not to stress controversial topics.

Last Tuesday, following a hurried conference among naval officers, a second letter went forth canceling the original suggestions for Navy day topics and directing speakers to stick to safe subjects. It is understood this order went forward after President Hoover had talked the matter over with Secretary Adams.

PROTEST BARES CHANGE IN CITY BUILDING CODE

Consent Provision Altered, Officials Find.

In protesting against the construction of a gasoline filling station property owners in the vicinity of Devon avenue and Rockwell street yesterday discovered a change in the city code that had escaped the notice of city officials for several months.

The disclosure was made after the fire prevention bureau had issued a permit to Guy Bush, Cubs' baseball player, to install gasoline storage tanks in a lot near the southeast corner of Devon and Rockwell.

Bush's permit was issued on Sept. 19. His petition showed that he had complied with a requirement of the old city code that he first obtain the consent of the owners of a majority of the total frontage in a prescribed area around the proposed location.

But the property owners found that when the new city code was adopted last July a change was made requiring consents to be granted on the basis of square footage rather than frontage.

The protesting property owners declare that Bush's petition does not comply with the new law, lacking about 30,000 square feet of the total area required. They have asked Chief Graves of the fire prevention bureau to revoke the permit.

Chief Graves declared that he cannot revoke the permit, as it was issued in good faith. He stated that the new law was not brought to his attention until after the permit was issued. A number of other permits based on the old frontage consent requirement have been issued since the passage of the new code, he said, and they would have to be revoked also.

Princess Cantacuzene Has Censure for Lady Astor

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant, at a meeting of the Republican women of Pennsylvania today denounced Lady Astor for accepting Russia's invitation to visit the soviet last summer and "finding nothing to criticize there." She said "Lady Astor's actions were humiliating to all women."

TWO SPEEDERS IN BLOOD STAINED AUTO CAPTURED

Two men with blood stained hands, pistol and automobile were seized early this morning while traveling 65 miles an hour in Harrison street, Bellwood. The machine had been stolen.

They are Rudolph Rubis, 24 years old, of 1430 South 49th avenue, Cicero, and Joe Stec, 21, of 4712 West 13th street, Cicero. They were arrested by Motorcycle Policemen Albert Wolf and Henry Merkel of the Bellwood force. Rubis had a revolver. The pair carried $264 in cash.

Rubis and Stec were speeding west in Harrison street when Wolf and Merkel took after them. A short chase, in which the machine struck 70 miles an hour, ended with the pair's surrender. Examination disclosed apparently fresh blood stains on the outside and inside of the car. Neither man was wounded.

A few hours before the arrests Gustave Brunke of Richardson, Ill., six miles southeast of Sycamore, and three men who were riding with him were held up by two men in an automobile near St. Charles, Ill. Brunke was slugged with a revolver and terribly beaten when he put up a fight. He was robbed of a sum of money. A few minutes later four men in an automobile came along, put him in their car and took him to his home. They also robbed him of money the first gang had overlooked. In all he lost $540. Brunke believes the two gangs were working together. Bellwood police are trying to connect their captives with the Brunke robbery.

ARIZONA SEEKS A SPEEDY RETURN OF MRS. JUDD

Extradition Hearing Will Be Held Today.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The state of Arizona today prepared for a speedy return to Phoenix of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd to face trial for the murder of Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Lerol, whose bodies she stuffed in a trunk and shipped to Los Angeles.

While Mrs. Judd, pale and trembling, appeared in Municipal Judge Wilbur Curtis' court for arraignment on a fugitive murder complaint, Sheriff James R. McFadden of Phoenix was here on his way to Sacramento to present extradition papers to Gov. James Rolph Jr. A hearing on the extradition will be held tomorrow and Arizona authorities are confident they will be on their way back to Phoenix with the confessed slayer by Wednesday. Attorneys will not contest the extradition. The hearing on the fugitive murder charge was set for Nov. 9.

Outside the courtroom 1,000 persons struggled to get in. About 500 succeeded in entering when the case was called. Men and women stood in the aisles, in the jury box and in all available space in the courtroom.

Escorted by Her Brother.

Mrs. Judd, attired in black, close fitting dress, turban and tweed coat, entered the courtroom escorted by her brother, Burton J. McKinnell, university law student. When her brother arrived at the jail to comfort her, she cried, "O, Burton, where have you been! Why didn't you come to see me?" As the woman slayer and her brother, accompanied by officers, passed the jail door, Dr. William C. Judd, her husband met them. "O, doctor," she cried, and kissed him.

Jailerswomen said that Mrs. Judd slept little during the night, frequently calling for her husband. They said she voiced anguished inquiries to other women prisoners and nurses, asking them repeatedly: "Don't you think I was justified? Don't you think they'll believe my story in Phoenix? Do you think they will hang me?"

It was revealed at the usual physical examination at the jail by Dr. Benjamin Blank, jail physician, Mrs. Judd was asked if she used narcotics. After refusing to answer, she finally said, "Doctor, you have been good to me. I did use narcotics one time, but I was ill then." But she made no further explanation.

Sheriff Voices an Opinion.

Sheriff McFadden of Phoenix said he was positive that Mrs. Judd would be returned to Arizona for trial. He explained that he knew her well, Mrs. Judd having nursed Mrs. McFadden through an illness. He voiced the opinion that the wound in Mrs. Judd's head, which she said was inflicted by Mrs. Samuelson, occurred when one of the shots fired by Mrs. Judd pierced Mrs. Samuelson's body and came out, the bullet then lodging in Mrs. Judd's head.

From Phoenix came word today that J. J. Halloran, wealthy lumberman, whose name became linked in the case through his friendship for the three women before the bodies of the slain nurses were sent to Los Angeles, that he had no knowledge of the killings.

"The grievousness of my deeds consists of no greater a fault than having been indiscreet," Halloran said. "That this indiscretion has become related to so important a matter is the only reason it has become magnified."

A split between her counsel resulted in the court's demanding Mrs. Judd to name whom she desired to defend her. Mrs. Judd told the court that "My husband, Dr. Judd, has informed me that former Judge Russell shall be my attorney."

The court then recognized Judge Russell, who had arisen to declare himself in court as representative of Mrs. Judd. At this juncture Attorney Milan Wedogovich, partner of Richard Cantillon, who also was on his feet with a similar declaration that he and Cantillon were representing Mrs. Judd, announced Cantillon's withdrawal from the case. Cantillon, in a later statement explaining his withdrawal, made it known for the first time he and Judge Russell had differed as to the line of defense to be entered for Mrs. Judd.

For Vice President

MRS. ALICE LONGWORTH.
[Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A vice presidential boom for Alice Roosevelt Longworth was reported today by Representative Williamson.

The South Dakota Republican said a large number of his party colleagues in South Dakota were discussing the possibility of the candidacy of Mrs. Longworth in the event Vice President Curtis did not seek reelection.

"The Alice Roosevelt Longworth boosters seem to think that she would add color and pep to the race," Williamson said, who has just returned from spending the summer in his home state.

TWO AUTOS HIT SAME TREE; ONE KILLED, TWO HURT

Accidents on No. Shore Occur Hour Apart.

A woman was killed and two men were probably fatally injured yesterday afternoon in two separate automobile accidents which occurred an hour apart on the same curve of Green Bay road a mile west of Lake Bluff. Both cars skidded on the rain swept pavement and crashed into the same tree on the estate of Philip D. Armour III.

Mrs. Bessie Blank, 51 years old, of Fremont, Wis., died at the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest two hours after the sedan in which she was riding was demolished against the tree. Her cousin, James Hines, Fond du Lac, Wis., who was driving, was unconscious and suffering from fractures of the skull and both arms.

Another Car Hits Tree.

P. L. Gropper, 1609 Sheridan road, North Chicago, a chief petty officer at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, was the third victim whose automobile also careened into the tree. He suffered a skull fracture and was taken to the training station hospital. His wife, who was riding with him, escaped with minor bruises.

J. Richard Schoen, 29 years old, 2716 Hampden court, was killed, and his wife, Gladys, was critically injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding was wrecked in a head-on collision with another car on state route No. 18, near Earlville, Ill. Two men riding in the other car were only slightly hurt.

Truck Hits Trolley; 1 Dies.

One man was killed, one probably fatally injured, and a half dozen others shaken up and bruised early this morning when the trailer of a truck loaded with celery from Michigan struck a street car at State and 43d streets. The truck driver, Marvin Etterbeek of Hamilton, Mich., became drowsy at the wheel, he told the police, and veered over on the wrong side of the street. Suddenly he saw a street car coming at him head-on. He swerved his car, but the trailer did not clear the track in time and collided ith the street car.

Louis Pinton, 35 years old, of 4449 Greenwood avenue, a bakery wagon driver, was sitting near the front of the street car and his neck was broken by the impact. He was dead when taken to the Provident hospital. Robert Hill, colored, 4244 Wabash avenue, also was taken to the hospital, and it was said his injuries might be fatal.

County's Toll Now 1,025.

Two other deaths in Cook county yesterday brought the toll since Jan. 1 to 1,025. The victims:

Louis Weglarz, 33 years old, 2458 South Western avenue. Died at the County hospital from injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was run down at 23d street and Western avenue. The driver, David Ziotnik, 1110 Marquette road, was held.

Theodore E. Nelson, 28 years old, 1210 Granville avenue. Died in St. Francis hospital, Evanston, from injuries received last Sunday when his automobile collided with another driven by William D. McKay, 2333 Lincoln street, Evanston, at Chicago avenue and Lake street, Evanston.

Peter Cerra, 19 years old, 2443 Arthington street, driver of the automobile which struck and killed Mrs. Ellen T. Kearns, 60 years old, 1622 Arcade place, at Loomis and Harrison streets, on Sunday night, was arrested last night by the Maxwell street police. He admitted the accident and said he left the scene because he was frightened.

JUDGE SUSTAINS DEFENSE PLEA IN FLOOD FUND SUIT

Judge Robert E. Gentzel in the Superior court yesterday sustained the demurrer of the defense in the suit brought to compel an accounting of the Mississippi flood relief fund collected under the last city hall administration. The court held that the contributor to the fund who brought the action, Charles Smith, lost all control over his donation once it had been placed in the fund.

A week ago in forecasting his ruling Judge Gentzel said informally that Attorney General Carlstrom is the official to start action if the fund has been improperly handled. The attorney general, several days ago, said he had under consideration the question whether he will start new proceedings.

GRAIN RISE GIVES TRIBUNE SHIP A CARGO OF WHEAT

Carrying 80,000 Bu. on Trip East.

Capt. F. V. McIntyre, skipper of the S. S. New York News, one of THE TRIBUNE fleet of freighters, has never seen a market ticker in his life and regards the bulls and bears as so much live stock.

Despite his lack of interest in the speculative markets the captain was regarding the recent rise in the price of wheat with considerable satisfaction last night. That spurt in wheat had brought him a cargo.

Brings Cargo of Paper.

The New York News steamed into the river mouth early yesterday with 1,450 rolls of paper from THE TRIBUNE mills at Thorold, Ont. It was a sizeable but not exactly profitable cargo, the paper being destined for THE TRIBUNE'S own presses.

Moreover, the captain expected to return to his home port with an empty ship, a prospect which disturbed his thrifty Scotch disposition. This was his first trip to Chicago since last April, when the New York News beat her sister ship, Thorold, in a race down the St. Lawrence and through the Great Lakes with the first spring shipment of newsprint.

But another Scotchman, Harry A. Laird, traffic manager of THE TRIBUNE, was engaged in an effort to spare Capt. McIntyre disappointment. Mr. Laird had noted the 12 cent rise in wheat in the last few weeks. He had also noted a reported shortage of that grain in the Danubian region. He found that the Grain Stabilization corporation, agency of the federal farm board, which owned millions of bushels of wheat, would be shipping some grain.

Carries 80,000 Bushels.

Hence, early this morning the New York News with Capt. McIntyre at the helm steamed out of the river mouth and down the lake shore to Calumet harbor, there to take aboard 80,000 bushels of wheat at the elevators of the Rosenbaum Grain company, to be stored at Quebec for eventual shipment to Europe.

"It's verra gratifying," Capt. McIntyre observed. "The cargo of grain will give a profit of about $3,500 for the trip."

Seized Here on Colorado Charge of Realty Fraud

A three year search by Colorado authorities ended yesterday in the arrest of E. B. Dill, 1375 Greenleaf avenue, on the charge of participating in a $2,000,000 real estate swindle in Denver. Dill said after his arrest that he would waive extradition proceedings and return to Denver to face the charges.

St. Lawrence Low; Larger Ships Barred from Canals

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Due to the present scarcity of water in the St. Lawrence river, vessels drawing more than 13 feet 3 inches will not be permitted to navigate the St. Lawrence canals until further notice, under instructions issued by the department of railways and canals.

JAPAN SPECIFIES FIVE DEMANDS IN ROW WITH CHINA

Tokio Outlines Her Views to the World.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 27.—[Tuesday.]—The Japanese government issued a statement for world consumption last midnight, pointing out the Japanese stand regarding the league of nations and China.

The statement explains that the small contingent of Japanese soldiers in Manchuria outside the South Manchurian railway zone is necessary in view of the danger to which the large population of Japanese is exposed. The statement declares that the presence of "such a limited number of troops is quite incapable of being represented as a means of Japan's terms for the settlement of the present difficulties."

Says Rights Are Undermined.

"Unfortunately," the statement reads, "the so-called 'recovery of right' movements in China have recently attained extravagant developments, while feelings antagonistic to Japan have been openly encouraged. In defiance of treaties, a vigorous agitation has been carried on with the object of undermining the rights and interests of Japan.

"As things stand, a complete withdrawal of troops under a mere assurance of protection would expose the Japanese to the gravest dangers. The risk of such danger is clearly evidenced by past experience and conditions actually obtaining now in China.

Asks Direct Negotiations.

"Japan is persuaded that the safety of her subjects in Manchuria can hardly be assured without a provision to remove national antipathies and suspicious. With this end in view, she has expressed readiness to enter into direct negotiations. The basic principles Japan has in mind are:

ONE—Mutual repudiation of aggressive policy and conduct. TWO—Respect for China's territorial integrity. THREE—Complete supression of all organized movements interfering with freedom of trade and stirring up international hatred. FOUR—Effective protection throughout Manchuria of all peaceful pursuits undertaken by Japanese. FIVE—Respect for treaty rights of Japan in Manchuria.

Explains Action in Geneva.

"The refusal of the Japanese representative, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, to lay these points before the league of nations council was due to the consideration that they should properly form the subject of negotiations between the parties directly involved.

"With the future welfare of both nations in mind, Japan feels an urgent need for arriving at a solution by cooperation between the two countries. The willingness remains unaltered and unabated to open direct negotiations."

LLOYD'S SETTLES $2,000,000 CLAIM FOR BANK THEFT

Lloyd's, the London underwriters, settled the $2,000,000 claim of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company yesterday on the $3,866,929 embezzlement for which Walter Wolf, former coupon clerk of the bank, has been sent to prison.

P. L. Willett, assistant vice president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company of New York, brought a $2,000,000 check here and handed it to James R. Leavell, president of the Continental bank, in payment of the claim. Lloyd's had previously established credit for the sum of the check through Barclay's Bank, Ltd., of London.

Officials of the Continental bank reiterated that the bank will recover every dollar of Wolf's defalcations. In addition to the $2,000,000 insurance the bank has already recovered $369,724 in cash and securities from one of Wolf's brokerage accounts and has obtained a court order sequestering $372,000 of another account.

The sequestered sums will be turned over to the bank shortly upon completion of legal formalities, bank officials said. This leaves a balance of $925,655 to be recovered, a sum which is more than covered by claims the bank has filed against various brokerage houses and individuals through whom Wolf speculated in the market.

EXPOSE CAPONE GANG'S POWER AMONG POLICE

Transfer Request Found on D'Andrea.

Evidence which A. P. Madden, chief of the federal intelligence unit in Chicago, regards as an example of the political influence and police power of Al Capone was made public yesterday.

Mr. Madden revealed that when Capone's bodyguard, Philip D'Andrea, was arrested during Capone's income tax trial and found to have been carrying a loaded revolver as he sat beside his chief in front of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, D'Andrea had in his possession a written request to have a policeman transferred to the detective bureau.

A. P. MADDEN. [Tribune photo.]

He also carried a courtesy card issued to him by Capt. William Schramm of the west park police and an expired membership card in the Illinois Police association.

Papers Show Gang Power.

These documents, together with the expired credentials and star of a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court, were said to have been used by D'Andrea to ward off trouble as he guarded Capone. The transfer request was regarded as showing that Capone and D'Andrea had the power to get policemen shifted to suit gang needs.

The transfer notation was on a piece of yellow paper such as is used in all police stations and at the detective bureau. It read:

"Request of a transfer from 19th district to the detective bureau or 1-2-3 district of Thomas Featherstone of 19th district. Star 5286."

Record of Featherstone.

Featherstone worked at the detective bureau two years ago and was sent from there to uniformed duty at Pekin station. The Pekin district extends south from 22d street to 31st street, east of Stewart avenue—Capone territory. Last June the policeman was transferred to the 19th district, the Deering station.

"I don't know D'Andrea," said Policeman Featherstone yesterday. "I didn't ask him or any one else to have me transferred. I am working in plain clothes under Capt. Michael Hughes, and I am content to stay where I am. If I wanted to be transferred I would probably ask Ald. Thomas Doyle or County Treasurer Joseph McDonough. But I don't. I can think of no reason why D'Andrea, Capone or any one else would want me moved from Deering."

No Request to Allman.

Police Commissioner Allman said no request had been made to him to have Featherstone transferred. Featherstone has received seven creditable mentions since he joined the force in 1922 and had been given $180 additional pay for meritorious service.

"I don't know D'Andrea from Adam," said Capt. Schramm. "I don't know at whose request I gave the courtesy card to him. We haven't been keeping such records, but we will in the future. I didn't suspect he was a gangster because he gave an address in a good neighborhood, 8200 Paxton avenue. I didn't know who he was until he was arrested."

Federal officials said significance in the possessions of Capone's bodyguard was added when it was remembered that a year ago a list of names of the men to be arrested was found under the pillow of a Capone gangster who was seized by federal officials. The list had been "lost" at the detective bureau and a new list had been prepared with the names of eight Capone men eliminated, officials said.

D'Andrea is to appear before Judge Wilkerson this morning, at which time he may be tried on the contempt of court charge arising from his possession of the revolver in court.

SLAYING SUSPECT IS FREED.

Richard Fishman, 24 years old, whom the police questioned upon the murders of three men, was dismissed by Judge John Prystalski yesterday when the prosecution announced that there was no evidence against the man.

CASE OF CAPONE ALLY REFUSED BY HIGH COURT

The United States Supreme court yesterday declined to review an order of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago, under which Phil Collenger, reputed representative of Al Capone in northern Indiana, must be retried on dry law conspiracy charges.

John Antonean, convicted with Collenger in March, 1930, in the federal district court at Hammond, was denied a similar review. Their convictions were reversed by the Appellate court and their cases remanded for a new trial.

Collenger and Antonean were indicted in a huge conspiracy case involving some 300 bootleggers, police, and public officials of northern Indiana in 1929.

KILLED BY GAS FUMES.

Arthur H. Evans, 57 years old, a salesman, was killed by gas fumes from his automobile in a garage in the rear of his home at 1532 Juneway terrace last night. When his wife discovered the body all the garage doors were tightly closed.

Court Padlocks Capone Vice Resort for a Year

The Harlem inn, 4225 South Harlem avenue, Stickney, a Capone vice dive for years and mentioned in the recent income tax trial of Al Capone, was ordered padlocked for one year by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday.

Judge Feinberg granted the decree when Assistant State's Attorney Edgar B. Elder presented evidence showing that in the last year the place has been raided three times and 31 convictions have followed.

a suite of rooms, the evidence showed. These circumstances, together with the Mattingly letter, constituted a sound case, and no supersedeas or bail should be allowed, Mr. Grossman declared.

A Question of Flight.

"And there is the question whether this man will be likely to appear if allowed bail and his conviction is affirmed," continued the prosecutor. "The evidence showed that the defendant maintained an organization, that he was in the gambling business. During the trial he was accompanied by an armed man who sat at counsel's table.

"These things should have some bearing on whether he would appear."

JUDGE ALSCHULER — Doesn't that bear mainly on the amount of bail that should be fixed?

MR. GROSSMAN—I think there is more than a possibility that he would not appear. He is under sentence of eleven years' imprisonment and he has plenty of money. He might decide to leave the country.

A Question of Benefit.

JUDGE ALSCHULER—The question then arises as to whether he or the country would benefit.

MR. GROSSMAN—Well, he's a member of a gang, and I think the court should take that into consideration.

JUDGE ALSCHULER—What is the evidence of that?

MR. GROSSMAN—And another thing to consider is the effect of setting this man free upon society. He has been a persistent law violator and if enlarged on bail he probably would continue to violate the laws.

JUDGE ALSCHULER—Well, why don't you catch up with him and punish him?

MR. GROSSMAN—We've been trying to do that for years.

During the hearing Judge Alschuler observed that a supersedeas, if granted, would not entail bail, explaining that the defendant could still be held in custody. Mr. Fink merely replied that the court had power to allow bail also.

The defense attorneys have intimated that if Capone is denied bail and granted a supersedeas, he would prefer to remain in the county jail pending his appeal even though he receives no credit on his sentence. There is no labor requirement in the jail, and the defense lawyers have expressed confidence in obtaining a reversal as to the felony counts on appeal. The appeal, they believe, can be put through within two or three months.

You Can Save 20% on Your Automobile Insurance

Automobile insurance is one of the benefits available to members of the Chicago Motor Club. Every year this department returns a cash saving to subscribers.

Last year this return amounted to $798,030.12. The Inter-Insurance Exchange always has returned 20% of the amount paid the "exchange" for insurance coverage.

The "valued form" policy is still another feature that accounts for the growth of the "exchange." In the event of total loss, you are paid the face value of your policy, the amount upon which you have paid insurance. The policy issued covers you anywhere in the United States or Canada.

Other benefits of the club are: Emergency road service, home district service, accident prevention work, travel service, and bail bond service.

Sixty-two branches: 33 downstate; 29 in Cook county. There is a branch in your neighborhood. It costs only $15 to join. Mail the coupon for further information.

DEPORT 200 IN CHICAGO WAR ON SMUGGLING RING

Seize Alleged Leader for Inquiry.

More than 200 aliens who entered the United States illegally have been rounded up in Chicago and the surrounding territory in the past month and sent back to the countries from which they came.

The disclosure was made yesterday by agents of the United States department of labor. These agents have in the past few days been going systematically through foreign colonies, particularly on the far south side, and investigating the unauthorized presence in the country of hundreds of other persons.

Three Held in Jail.

About 125 Mexicans were questioned at the South Chicago police station yesterday and three were held in jail. Others who promised to show their passports were given until today to find them. Other racial groups, it is intimated, are to be called in within a few days.

Thirty immigration agents came into Chicago in September under command of Murray W. Garsson, special assistant to Secretary of Labor Doak, to probe the operations of a so-called "million dollar smuggling ring" which brought aliens into the country without formality and at highly profitable rates.

Seize Greek Leader.

Nicholas Kokinis, 804 West Van Buren street, a former president of the Chicago Greek society, was taken into custody by the agents yesterday and turned over to the police. He is to be arraigned in the Felony court today on a charge of embezzlement, growing out of his alleged smuggling of human freight, and later will be brought into federal court, it was said.

The complainant against Kokinis is Leandros Manilos, 3550 West Chicago avenue, who alleged that the man under arrest accepted $187.50 from him and guaranteed for this payment to bring a daughter of Manilos into this country from the island of Crete.

The bargain was not kept, according to Manilos, and his demands for repayment have been ignored. It was intimated that the charge in the state court was made to insure the presence of Kokinis while further investigation is being made.

Reports Progress in Washington.

Mr. Garsson, who went to Washington last week to report progress of his detail of undercover agents, is expected back in a few days. When he came to Chicago in September it was disclosed that the smuggling ring, operating on a nation-wide scale, had brought tens of thousands of aliens into the country and that a regular price for the different classes of applicants was made by the operators; those who were sick or otherwise undesirable having to pay more heavily than others. Those regarded as difficult were sometimes charged as much as $1,000 each.

It has also been alleged that the ring racketeers extorted money from some of the smuggled, threatening to have them sent back to their homelands unless they paid.

Chilean Senate Accuses Former Dictator Ibanez

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 26.—The senate today voted a formal accusation against former President Carlos Ibanez for violation of the constitution during his dictatorship. The vote was 33 to 1. The senate will now send all the documents to the courts and a court minister will be appointed to sentence Ibanez, who will have no appeal.

DAGO MANGANO PUT IN CELL DESPITE HIS DICKER WITH POLICE

Dago Lawrence Mangano, head of the west side gambling syndicate and Capone henchman, occupied a cell at the detective bureau last night despite his protests that an attorney had "fixed everything" with Chief of Detectives Schoemaker.

Mangano's attorney, whose name was not revealed, came to see Schoemaker Saturday afternoon. "We want to coöperate," the attorney said. "If you want Mangano for anything I'll bring him in to you." "Never mind," said Chief Schoemaker. "When we want him we'll bring him here."

The gangster was having a haircut in a barber shop at Harrison and Halsted streets yesterday afternoon when a detective bureau squad arrested him. "Why, boys," Mangano said in a hurt tone, "my lawyer talked with Chief Schoemaker and everything is all right. The chief doesn't want to see me." But apparently Chief Schoemaker did want to see him, for he conversed with Mangano a few minutes and then ordered him into a cell.

Flying Conditions on Chicago Routes

Following are the flying conditions along the various air routes from Chicago as given out at 3 a. m. by the United States serological station at the Chicago airport:

Chicago-Kansas City—Overcast; ceiling, 3,000 feet; visibility, 3 miles; wind west, 8 miles an hour.

Chicago-Cleveland-Detroit—Overcast; ceiling, 2,000 feet; visibility, 7 miles; wind southeast, 8 miles an hour.

Chicago airport—Broken clouds; ceiling, 5,000 feet; visibility, 12 miles; wind south, 7 miles an hour; temperature, 56 degrees; dew point, 42; barometer, 29.82.

Flying at an average speed of about 200 miles per hour from Chicago to Washington, D. C., yesterday morning, Pilot L. A. Steward or Continental Airways, Inc., established a new record for transport planes of 3 hours 10 minutes. The plane was a Lockheed Orion, powered by a Wasp motor. It carried four passengers. The scheduled time is 3 hours 45 minutes.

During the first nine months of this year 1,000,000 more miles were flown over the New York-Chicago-Pacific coast route of United Air Lines than during the same period last year. The total mileage over the 2,776 mile airway for the year will be 5,750,000, it is estimated. Air mail carried by United Air Lines averaged 411,074 pounds a month for the period, compared to an average of 394,818 pounds a month during the same period last year.

Russell Boardman and John Polando, flying the plane in which they established a new long distance record last July by a nonstop flight from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, are expected to arrive at Chicago airport next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. They intend to bring the designer of their plane, Guiseppe Bellanca, with them.

START PICKING JURY TO DECIDE BELL'S SANITY

Judge Denies Delay After Change of Venue.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Carl Forsle and George Brown, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Walter Stanton.

Sigurd Sorens, murder, sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary by Judge Harry Fisher.

Selection of a jury to decide upon the sanity of Frank Bell, condemned slayer who was saved from death in the electric chair by a last minute writ on Oct. 16, was begun before Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court yesterday. In starting the hearing, Judge Prystalski overruled the plea of Bell's attorneys for a continuance.

FRANK BELL.

Bell, accompanied by his attorneys, Ralph Sharp and Stanley M. Doyle, appeared in court in the morning and asked for a change of venue from Judge James J. Kelly, who had granted the sanity hearing. They charged that the judge was "too prejudiced." Judge Kelly characterized the petition for the change of venue as "scandalous," but stated that he was compelled to grant it under the statute.

The men who had signed the petition, John Kozel and John Slavsky, admitted under examination that they knew nothing about the case, Judge Kelly or the defendant, but were friends of Sharp.

Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court reassigned the case to Judge Prystalski.

When the hearing before Judge Prystalski began, Attorney Sharp immediately made a motion for a ten days' continuance in order to allow an examination of his client by Dr. Alfred B. Yudelson, professor of psychiatry at Northwestern university.

Judge Prystalski denied the motion. "You said in your petition," the judge asserted, "that this man is insane. You didn't say you believed or had reason to believe that he was insane, but you said absolutely that he was. There is no reason why this hearing should not be held at once."

Bell lost his temper when newspaper photographers tried to photograph him as he was going to the courtroom and tried to throw a chair at them.

HELD AS BOWLER ROBBER.

Edward Jennings, 30 years old, 404 South Western avenue, who is alleged to have robbed Thomas J. Bowler, sanitary district trustee, and his wife of $3,000 worth of jewelry on Sept. 9, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $50,000 by Municipal Judge Samuel H. Trude in the Felony court yesterday.

U. S. AGENTS RAID WALTON CLUB; SEIZE LIQUOR

Smartly attired men and women patrons of the Walton club, 69 East Walton place, were interrupted in their after-theater cocktails early this morning by the unexpected appearance of a squad of policemen and Deputy Prohibition Administrator A. E. Hamilton.

The raiders assured the guests they would not be molested and searched the elaborately decorated night club. They confiscated quantities of absinthe, champagne, annisette, and less aristocratic liquors, such as whisky, gin, and beer. All the guests were then permitted to depart, but the raiders arrested the owner and three patrons. They were:

Mrs. Elizabeth Tully, 34 years old, the owner; Burth Clarke, 48 years old, the doorman; John Fields, 50 years old, a waiter, and another man, also a waiter, who refused to give his name. The four were taken to the South State street station.

Legion Members Seize One, Destroy Red Headquarters

Council Bluffs, Ia., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—George Papcun, organizer for the Trade Unity Union league, communistic organization, was forcibly removed from the city council chambers here tonight by members of the American Legion and driven twenty miles out of town and ordered never to return. The Legion members then raided the organization's headquarters, stripped it of its equipment, which was thrown into the street and set on fire. Papcun was seized when he called city officials a bunch of hypocrites in answer to a report that stated no evidence was found to substantiate the League's charges of improper and unfair treatment of the poor.

Bankruptcy Plea Filed by Evanston Contractor

CHIEF WITNESS IN RALPH CAPONE CASE VANISHES

Assistant United States Attorney Victor E. La Rue yesterday announced the disappearance of the government's principal witness in the dry law conspiracy case against Ralph Capone and seventeen of his Cicero men.

The witness, whose name Mr. La Rue withheld, was said to be a former rum runner who used an airplane to bring liquor from Canada to Detroit, supplying the Capone gang, whose trucks hauled the booze to Chicago. He turned informer when special prohibition agents caught up with him, came to Chicago, and worked with the agents in Cicero, obtaining evidence against the gang at the Cotton club and the Montmartre.

The case is to be set for trial by Federal Judge John P. Barnes today and Mr. La Rue will ask a sufficient delay to enable the special dry agents to find the witness, if he is alive.

GET INTO YOUR NEW Fighting Clothes

—AS AMERICA'S BEST MADE CLOTHES GO FORWARD TO HIGHER QUALITY PEAKS—AND PRICES GO BACK TO 15 YEARS AGO

There is nothing that puts fight and courage into a man more than good clothes

So give away your old clothes. They've gone as far as they need to

For prices—Hart Schaffner & Marx prices, at least—have been suddenly, sharply jammed back to the prices of 15 years ago! Radical? Sure! And in the same bold stroke, the quality of the clothes (already good) has been stepped up: you are now able to buy more honest-to-goodness value than you've bought for fifteen years

More than once in our own fifty years we've had to choose between catering to a flash-price market and banking on America's refusing to stay licked or even look licked for any length of time. Always we have believed that America would buy the highest quality at the lowest price. We have always won out. We shall win out this time

Throw away—or give away—your old, shiny clothes. You can't afford to be seen in them now—with prices back where you want them. Get into the new suits that will give you nerve and backbone and confidence—and save you money in the purchase. Trust your own good appearance. Trust the clothes that make it good. BOYS WHO WORK ALL NIGHT ARE SCHOOL PROBLEM

Find Many Child Workers Go Hungry.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4158 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

There is night life—and there is night life. There is the gay crowd going homeward from some late party; and then there is the group of heavy lidded youngsters hunched over a pile of newspapers under a friendly street light, until the small hours. Motley elementary school at Chicago avenue and Ada street, it developed yesterday, has more than its share of these underprivileged boys, who spend their daytime hours at their studies and their nights selling papers.

Of the more than 1,000 students in classes at Motley, fully 50 per cent cannot afford a noon meal, yet there is no lunchroom, and virtually no room to install one. The children have no gymnasium. The boys have an inadequate playground, and the girls none at all. Part of the street is roped off at recreation time. But it is the lunch situation that matters most.

Tells of Boy Workers.

"Without exaggerating, I can say that I know definitely that some of these children are actually starving," said Mrs. Genevieve Payne, truant officer. "Take the case of Walter and John R——, 13 and 11 years old, who sell papers from seven at night until 3 o'clock in the morning.

"They are smart, nice boys, but they never come to school except when I go to their home and rout them out of bed. Then they come for a couple of days and the first thing I know they're gone again. What can they do? It isn't possible to work all night and study in the daytime, and their mother, who has six children and was deserted by her husband, simply has to have their help. No one else is working, and these boys make only fifty cents a night.

"Their home is desperately poor, and I'm certain the two don't get one square meal a week. I have been there when their mother poured warm water over tea leaves that had been used three days before and dried, and the boys had that, with dry bread, and seemed to relish it. I have tried, without avail, to get help for them."

Ask Aid from Principal.

One by one, the needy boys and girls filed into the office of Miss Margaret Urquhart, the principal, to tell their stories. There was Frank, 13 years old, who came to request a pair of shoes. His battered footwear showed great rents, and the soles were torn away from the uppers. The boy did not own a coat, and had no clothes but the shabby ones in which he stood. One brother, 17 years old, earns $9 a week making lamp shades, which supports a family of eight with help from the county.

Wallace R——, small and keen, told of the aid the county gives since his father, a waiter, has been out of work for a year and a half. Wallace has twin baby brothers and is one of ten children. Their clothes also came from the county.

"Sometimes we get different rations," he explained. "My father looked everywhere for work, but he couldn't find a job."

John K——, 11 years old, is another of the juvenile newsdealers whose night work prevents his attendance at school. John's father also deserted the six children in that family, and the mother, with three small children to keep her at home, cannot earn anything. John applied for a pair of shoes last week, and before his request was handled, had settled his own problem by selling a pile of junk and old newspapers, for which he received 60 cents. The money went into a pair of tennis shoes.

"We are now receiving some sandwiches each day from a settlement in this area," Miss Urquhart explained, "but we have no milk to give the children.

These and similar emergencies are the special objects of the Hungry School Children's Fund being raised by THE TRIBUNE.

Relief work throughout the state is moving rapidly according to reports reaching the governor's commission on unemployment and relief.

Elgin, reported that its community chest fund had been oversubscribed by $12,000. Sterling, Ill., reported that its estimated figure for relief work has been subscribed. More than twenty communities stated that no relief work will be necessary.

Urge Governor to Act.

The Chicago Church federation meeting in the Central Y. M. C. A. yesterday urged that the call for a special session of the legislature to be made Thursday by Gov. Emmerson should include the asking of $10,000,000 for relief in Cook county in addition to the $8,800,000 now being sought by the joint relief committee. That such a call would be made was predicted by Dr. M. H. Bickham. He stated the appropriation should be spent for special work.

By that means, Dr. Bickham explained, it will be possible to care for 125,000 families instead of about 50,000 now given assistance. He urged the pastors to coöperate with the present efforts by organizing groups in their churches to provide work through property repairs. Dr. Bickham stated the special work committee would pay for the labor if the churches would furnish the materials.

Equal numbers of union and nonunion men would be sent to each job, and union wages should prevail. Dr. Bickham stated the plan had worked successfully in a number of churches where it had been tried.

Hold Suitor Who Caused Fatal Fire for Murder

A coroner's jury investigating the deaths of three persons from the incendiary fire Wednesday night at 160 West Oak street recommended yesterday that Henry Thompson, 1943 Larrabee street, who hired two boys to set the fire, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder by arson. One of the boys, Angelo Barone, 18 years old, 865 Milton street, was held on similar charges. Thompson has confessed he started the fire because he was jealous of Mrs. Mary Boehm and wanted to drive her out of the house. The victims were Aubrey Lay, manager of the building; Doris Boehm, 5 years old, daughter of Mrs. Boehm, and Gideon Frizen. The last named died early yesterday.

SET $15,000 AS PRICE TO CLEAN FEDERAL BLDG.

Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs and custodian of the federal building, yesterday forwarded to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ferry K. Heath estimates of contractors stating that the exterior of building can be given a steam bath for approximately $15,000. The building was constructed of gray Vermont granite, but the city grime deposited during the last twenty-seven years has turned its walls black. Congressman Fred A. Britten has agreed to seek an appropriation for the cleaning job when congress meets in December, and if it is granted the work will be done next spring, Mr. Czarnecki said.

ASTHMA DISAPPEARS

Recovery Due to Discovery of Basic Cause of Disease.

Indianapolis—Mrs. Lucy Harvey of Springfield, Ill., has written a letter of intense interest to all who suffer from Bronchial Asthma. In it she tells how the discovery of the basic cause of Bronchial Asthma and Hay Fever by the celebrated Dr. Fugate resulted in the complete disappearance of her Bronchial Asthma. Mrs. Harvey began using Dr. Fugate's Remedy in March, 1927. Almost a year later she wrote:

"I am still feeling fine. I had Bronchial Asthma for 25 years and had used all kinds of medicine and doctored with doctors, but nothing helped me as much as your medicine. All winter I felt fine. I sleep all night, and go out in the cold any time I want to, and it don't hurt me. I do all my own work. I get up in the morning singing, where I used to get up coughing. Dr. Fugate's Remedy is the best Bronchial Asthma medicine I ever got hold of. It is worth its weight in gold.

"MRS. LUCY HARVEY."

Copies of similar letters from others who formerly suffered from Bronchial Asthma, together with an important booklet on Dr. Fugate's discovery of the cause of Bronchial Asthma and Hay Fever, will be sent free by The Fugate Co., Dept. 7708, 126 S. Meridian St., Indianapolis, Ind. No matter how serious your case, write for this free booklet.

"PEPPER" MARTIN Says:

VITALEX Tonic Increases Vigor, Vitality, Pep and Power

"Pepper" Martin, whose split-second thinking, amazing speed and run-counting hits thrilled America in the last World's Series, is a perfect example of the priceless value of perfect health. . . . Here's what appeared in the Chicago Tribune: "Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 20.— (AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, told Temple university students today the St. Louis Cardinals were the better team in the recent world series and deserved to be the world champions. Mack drew a parallel of the fine physical condition required of present day ball players and the stamina and vigor persons in the business world must have to survive." . . . Good health is glorious! Achieve good health and the world is yours to command. Vitalex Tonic can help you.

The Value of Vitalex

Vitalex is not a miracle medicine. Yet one grateful user recently wrote: "Send me another bottle of Vitalex. Two weeks ago I set my crutches aside for the first time in seven years and am walking with a cane now." Vitalex has proven to be an ideal food supplement tonic laxative and body builder for hundreds of thousands of people. Its makers, the famous I. S. Johnson Laboratories of Boston (over 110 years old) guarantee that Vitalex—either tablet or liquid form—contains no strong stimulants, no powerful drugs, no heart depressants and no opiates. Vitalex is safe, satisfying and above all delightfully effective.

HIS RECORD—In 1931 World's Series—Batted .500—12 hits in 24 times at bat, tying World's Series record; scored 5 runs; batted in 5 runs; stole 5 bases; fielded 1.000.

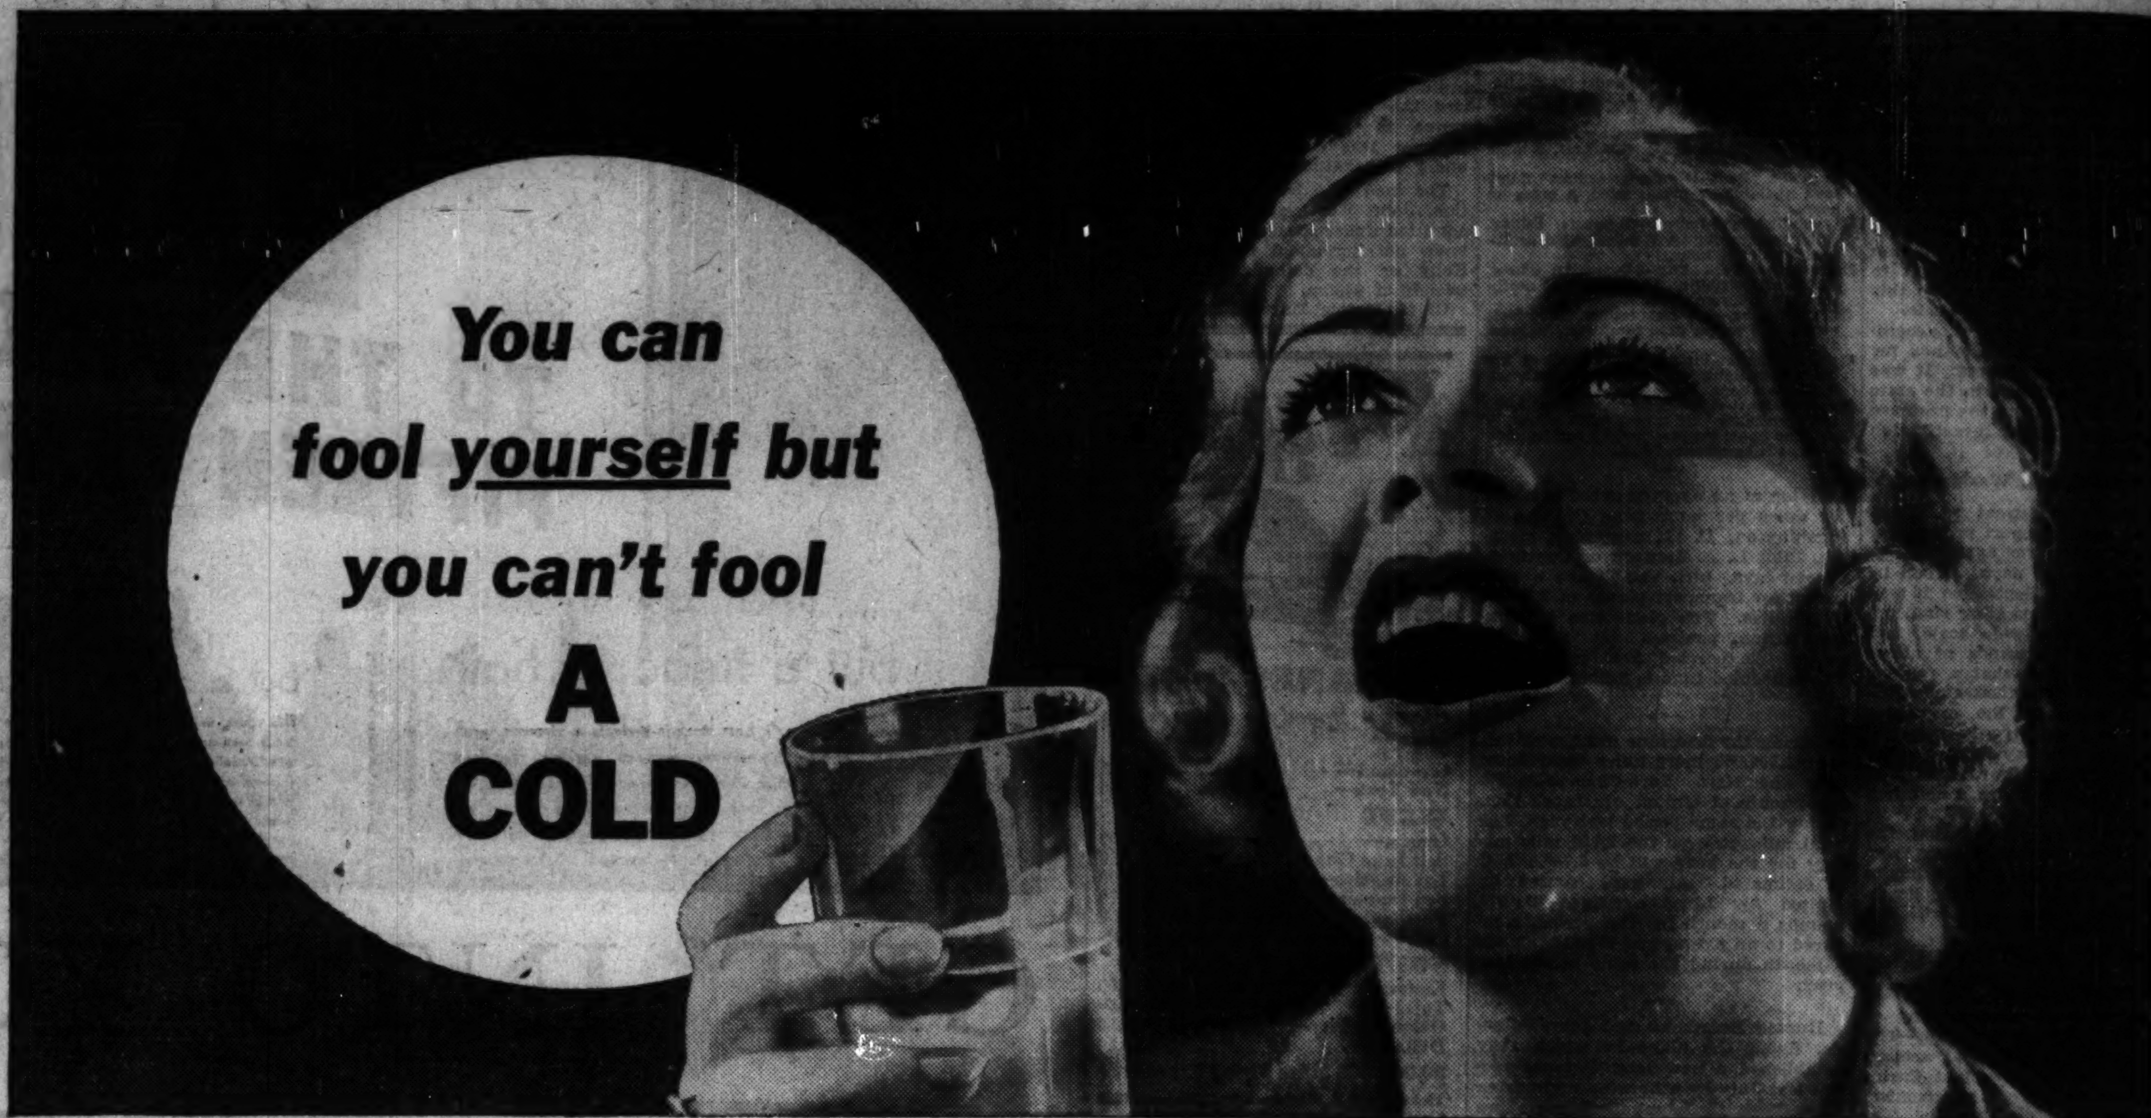

Four Health Secrets Revealed

Vitalex Tonic in either liquid or tablet form brings you the four things necessary to good health—keen appetite, normal digestion, restful sleep and regular bowel action. Men! Women! If you are troubled with headaches, gas, bad breath, indigestion, sallow complexion; if you lack pep or your nerves are "shot to pieces"

Millions gargle uselessly while colds hang on

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that must be used full strength. We've discovered a new antiseptic that, even when diluted with two parts of water, kills germs in 10 seconds.

A NATION of garglers! Lusty garglers. Gambling—75% of them—with mouth antiseptics that can't kill germs when mixed with water. You may fool yourself that way. But always remember — you can't fool a cold. You can't fool sore throat. You can't fool bad breath. If you dilute your antiseptic — as 3 out of 4 do — you must choose one that still kills germs when diluted with water.

A radical new antiseptic discovery

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic from 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 1 or even 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in your fight against colds!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis*)
Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and throat irritations. For at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember P.A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

New security against bad breath (Halitosis*)

And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for colds you are doing double duty by also fighting bad breath. For Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use—95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs remains reduced by 80%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics.

$3 worth for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix such antiseptics with water is a waste of money. Pepsodent Antiseptic, contrariwise, can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size the cheaper per ounce.

Combating a cold and checking bad breath are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool a cold.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

Cold in Head	After Shaving
Throat Irritations	Minor Cuts
Voice Hoarseness	Blisters
Bad Breath	Loose Dandruff
Cold Sores	Checks Under-Arm Perspiration
Canker Sores	Tired, Aching Feet
Mouth Irritations

Three Little Ads went to Market

...but one was seen by 133% more men and 50% more women, than either of the others!

[On the basis of strictly comparable units of circulation]

One of these ads did a more than 133% better job for its employer.

It got itself read by 133% more men and 100% more women than one of its brothers—and by 367% more men and 50% more women than the other!

That ad was the smaller ad. It appeared in LIBERTY. The others appeared in two of the country's largest weeklies. And the facts about them were gathered in the process of making the first census of reader interest ever conducted to determine exactly what magazine readers see and read.

The Gallup Tests

For years, you have been used to magazine presentations based on circulation and editorial content. But in the final analysis, it is not circulation nor editorial analyses, but readers-per-advertisement that make advertising profitable. No magazine, in itself, can sell goods. That is the advertisement's job. All the magazine can do is bring your advertisement to the reader's attention.

Following this line of thought, Dr. George Gallup, professor of Advertising and Journalism, Northwestern University, took his trained investigators into Springfield, Mass.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Greensboro, N. C.; Columbus, Ohio; Topeka, Kans., and Sioux Falls, S. D.

With current copies of the four leading magazines under their arms, they pushed 15,000 doorbells. Talked to who ever answered. Checked over, page by page, what had been seen, what had been read in each one of the four magazines in those households where a current copy of any one was found.

No Reader Votes—No Opinions

No opinions were asked. No votes taken. Merely a tabulation of both editorial articles and advertisements actually seen and read in each of the four magazines.

Much of the actual interrogation and tabulation was under the direct observation of representatives of the Association of National Advertisers.

When the investigators had finished with their six separate studies they found that on the basis of equal circulation units (say 1000 copies) the average page advertisement had been seen in LIBERTY by...

- 73% more women and 32% more men than in magazine A
- 33% more women and 15% more men than in magazine B
- 153% more women and 85% more men than in magazine C

Translate this into cost, and the facts are even more interesting. For LIBERTY'S page costs, following commodity prices, have dropped 35%. So every dollar the advertiser invested in LIBERTY got his page advertisement seen by:

- 168% more women and 107% more men than in magazine A
- 77% more women and 54% more men than in magazine B
- 188% more women and 109% more men than in magazine C

Other space units are proportionately as effective, which means that regardless of space used, as much as a 367% variation in the power of your advertising lies in your space buyer's hands!

A Modern Publishing Formula

We have long suspected this greater reader interest in LIBERTY. Now it is established. The reasons are clear to those who know LIBERTY and how it was scientifically planned to be a more effective advertising medium:

1. Its handy size is a factor.
2. Advertising-next-to-complete-story (no run-overs) is a factor.
3. 99% single copy circulation, bought only when wanted, is a factor.
4. And 100% newsy, concise, dramatic editorial appeal, keyed to rapid-fire, post-war state of mind, by artists and writers famous for that type of work, is a factor.

Write for Gallup Report

If you're buying space on a bread-and-butter basis today, you're interested in readers-per-ad as a basis for your spending. Now, for the first time, such an analysis of the four mass weeklies can be offered. We will be glad to present a copy to executives of advertisers and advertising agents.

THE GOLD COAST CLUB: OR, A TALE OF A POOR LOSER

his friend, Mr. Byrne, went once more to the ornate club of Mr. Marden.

He played and lost, and before long he had given a check to Mr. Marden for several thousand dollars, to cover his losses. Mr. Marden was all affability.

Then Mrs. Irish and Mrs. Byrne came upon the scene. Mrs. Irish brought with her the fair Lady Luck. She stood by her husband's side, and he began to win. He soon had recouped his losses, and Mr. Marden's affability began to fade.

The New Yorker heaped several stacks of chips, about $200 worth, around the number 8. The croupier, now a bit nervous under the baleful glance of Mr. Marden, gave the wheel a gentle spin and deftly he flung the little white ball into the groove. It circled the wheel a few times, and then, alack a day for Mr. Marden, it dropped into number 8.

So He Plays It Again.

"I'll have to play it again," said Mr. Irish, and he left his original stack on the number 8, drawing in only his winnings. Again the croupier flicked the ball in the groove, and woe was on his face as again it dropped in number 8.

"Good things come in threes," remarked Mr. Irish, and pulling his winnings in again he let the same stack ride once more on the number 8.

Mr. Marden and the croupier were breathing hard now, but they reasoned that this thing just couldn't happen a third time. But, to make a long story short, it did happen again. The ball, seemingly weighted with the luck of the Irish, dropped again into the notch numbered 8.

"Well, that's all," announced Mr. Irish, and he pushed over $18,000 worth of chips for collection.

Mr. Marden Does Not Pay.

Mr. Marden's look would have crushed the roulette wheel if looks could crush. He thought a while and finally he said:

"We can't pay you. How do we know you could have paid us if you lost?"

"O, that's an old gag," Mr. Irish replied, and he was not a little wrathy, for the check he had given to Marden, and had rewon, had been good as gold.

But no end of argument could make Mr. Marden cough up with the $18,000, and, finally summoning a corps of husky hangers-on in the joint, Mr. Marden caused the gentleman from New York, his lady, Mr. Byrne and his lady to be ushered out.

The Story Comes Out.

This was done, it should be said, by force of the numbers of Mr. Marden's unsavory looking henchmen, and also because Mr. Irish and Mr. Byrne were unwilling to subject their wives to embarrassment.

But they did not let the matter rest so lightly. If this were a den of welshers, instead of a de luxe club administering to the thirsts and to the epicurean as well as gaming appetites of the best people of Chicago, as it had been represented, then it was high time the best people found out about it.

So the story came out.

Last evening Attorney Morris Kaplan, who has been legal counsel for Mr. Marden and the Continental Gold Coast club, announced that it was all a mistake, that the matter had been settled to the satisfaction of all concerned.

But apparently this was not the case. It developed that Marden, fearful of the results of having the incident made public to all his elite clients, had hastened to the Ambassador East and had paid somewhat belated respects to Mr. Irish.

Marden had telegraphed the New York bank upon which Mr. Irish had drawn his check, and had discovered that Mr. Irish was a man of real standing in the eastern metropolis. He had discovered this in other ways during the day, for it soon dawned on Marden that he had picked a wrong man to trifle with, even over such a minor sum as $21,000.

Marden assured Mr. Irish that the rubber check for $3,000 would be honored, in cash, on the morrow. He gave his word that the balance of $18,000 would be delivered to Mr. Irish, in New York, Nov. 1.

Irish Doubts but Listens.

Mr. Irish was far from being convinced, but he listened. He kissed the $21,000 good-by and, although he was annoyed at being put to so much effort to win it, he didn't feel too badly. After all, it was mostly velvet, he thought.

Marden, however, was profuse in his promises. He was mixed in with a funny crowd, he said, and he was only the front for the place, which was really run by some Chicago fellows whose names Marden did not mention.

In this connection it should be recalled that the club was formerly run by Dave Ablin, better known under his racketeer title of Cock-Eyed Mulligan. Although Marden has protested that Ablin has nothing to do with the place now, it was made known that Ablin's brother originally managed the club for Marden.

Roulette Is Not Explained.

Marden has not explained, and neither has the policemen who has been assigned to inspect the place hourly, how the roulette game could be operated so openly without the policeman's knowledge.

Mr. Irish was philosophical about it all last night. Perhaps, he said, a moral would be pointed to the rest of the people who fraternize at Marden's board. Mrs. Irish, lamenting not the uncollected $18,000, nor the rubber check for $3,000, was more annoyed that Chicago could harbor such as Marden.

"But, my dear Mrs. Irish," said the Chicagoan who heard the tale last night, "don't you know that Marden has but recently arrived here, having been well trained in your iniquitous city of New York?"

As usual, a policeman under command of Capt. Moran visited the club last night and served the two customary summonses.

YEAR MORATORIUM ON MORTGAGES TRIED BY LOS ANGELES COUNTY

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The county board of supervisors today took steps toward putting into effect a one year moratorium on payments on mortgage principal by unemployed owners of small homes.

The supervisors voted unanimously and in a statement expressed hope that a considerable number of homes could be saved from foreclosures.

The action was in the form of a resolution to Gov. James Rolph, requesting an executive proclamation by the governor calling on all individual and corporation holders of trust deeds and mortgages in the state to unite in a voluntary plan to defer principal payments. Gov. Rolph has already indicated his advocacy of such plans.

SURVEY BEGUN OF CHICAGO'S MOTOR TRAFFIC

Policemen from the traffic division began a traffic survey of Chicago yesterday which, when finished, will map accurately the principal vehicular streams within the city and for a radius of fifty miles about it.

The survey was started yesterday at five points—Chicago and Michigan avenues, Chicago avenue and La Salle street, Chicago avenue and Halsted street, Milwaukee and Grand avenues, and Halsted street and Washington boulevard. The police stopped every car and truck passing those intersections, noted on cards the number of passengers or the amount of freight carried, and asked the driver of each where he had started and his destination.

The survey will be carried on along four circuits, all centering in the loop. The innermost is along Chicago avenue, Halsted street, and Roosevelt road. The second runs along the boulevard system, roughly bounded by Diversey parkway, Sacramento boulevard, and Hyde Park boulevard. The state highway department will direct two outer road surveys.

U. S. SUPREME COURT RETURNS RUM TAKEN WITHOUT A WARRANT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—John Strong's long struggle to force dry agents who raided his premises at Easton, Mass., without a search warrant to return his liquor succeeded today before the Supreme court.

Four agents appeared at Strong's home in December, 1928, and asked permission to search the premises and house. They had no search warrant and Strong said "no."

The raiders did not go into the house but insisted they had the right to search his barn and premises. They found some liquor in a cellar near the barn and carried it away.

Strong never was prosecuted.

The First Circuit Court of Appeals said that while the search and seizure were unlawful, Strong's failure to prove that he lawfully possessed the liquor gave the government the right to confiscate it.

Strong appealed to the Supreme court, which settled the matter today.

JAILS CHRONIC BANKRUPT FOR DECEIVING COURT

Abe Krecum, 2253 North Keeler avenue, a clothier who has figured in many bankruptcy cases, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail for contempt of court yesterday by Circuit Judge Michael J. Feinberg. Krecum was charged with collecting rents from an apartment building which he owns at Damen and Leland avenues after it had gone into receivership.

Last week, Krecum denied that he collected the rents amounting to $295. Yesterday, he admitted collecting rents, but insisted he had received only $150.

"Thirty days in jail for lying," said Judge Feinberg, "and the prisoner will continue to stay there after that period until he has repaid the $295 he collected. This man has gone through bankruptcy more times than any other person in the community. For years he has been drifting through the courts telling strange stories but this is the first time I have been able to catch him."

TAX BOOKS OF NINE TOWNS FINISHED BY BOARD OF REVIEW

Nine country town tax books were completed by the board of review yesterday and sent to the county clerk. Only eight more country town districts and eight city town districts remain to be completed. The comparative tables of the values placed by the board of assessors and the board of review are as follows:

Town—	Board of assessors.	Board of review.
Lemont	$ 1,920,627	$ 1,919,689
Niles	30,276,743	30,172,458
Maine	31,194,669	30,782,562
Leyden	21,023,349	20,147,801
Bloom	18,449,139	18,407,794
Stickney	12,419,921	12,391,162
Proviso	33,363,634	33,135,282
River Forest	15,436,168	15,355,382
Lyons	26,231,895	26,083,616

These figures were approximately 2 per cent lower than the assessments for the same districts for 1929.

THREE ARRESTED IN SPEAKEASY GET JAIL TERMS

Three men arrested by state's attorney's detectives April 12 in a raid on the Brokers' club, luxuriously furnished speakeasy restaurant at 1222 East 47th street, were given jail sentences for violating the prohibition act yesterday by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. The defendants pleaded guilty.

George Kramer, well known in south side night life circles, pleaded that he was only the chef in the place and was sentenced to serve five days in the Cook county jail. George Nellis, a waiter, received a similar sentence. Chris Morietis, the manager, was sentenced to sixty days in jail and fined $200.

The raid was made by Sergts. Robert Bennett and Charles Wachholz, then assigned to the grand jury investigation of the police department. The club, located in a former private residence, included a bar, dining room, private rooms, and a gambling layout, and was stocked with a large supply of whisky, liqueurs, and wines.

START HEARING PROTESTS OF 57 LOOP TAXPAYERS

A hearing on the complaints of fifty-seven loop taxpayers who claim that the 1929 assessments on their property were unfair, was started yesterday before County Judge Jarecki.

The entire day was taken up with reading of reporters' notes of meetings the property owners had with the board of review a year ago, the object being to show that the owners were denied an opportunity to produce their evidence showing why their assessments should not be increased.

Judge Jarecki will hear other evidence today.

Tax collections were reported smaller yesterday than the daily average for the past few weeks. William H. Beckman, receiver for the Lake View State bank, paid the institution's taxes of $8,509.

BABY SMOTHERED TO DEATH.

Betty Ann Moran, 10 months old, was found dead yesterday morning in bed at her home, 1500 South 57th court, Cicero. Apparently the infant had smothered under a pillow and a blanket.

Girls, don't worry about middle age

Lots to recommend it, if you keep fit

TELL a sensible woman of 50 that she looks like the older sister rather than the mother of her children, and she just laughs at you.

"I'm middle-aged," she'll declare, "and not trying to hide the fact. Why should I? Middle age has a lot in its favor—that is, if you're well and healthy. I've done a good job of raising my family and now I can enjoy myself. Do a lot of things I've always wanted to do.

"Sick? Never had a doctor in my life except when my babies came. Never had the habit of dosing myself with pills and medicines, either. I just took Nujol—all the time my babies were coming, and in between times, too. Probably I'll always depend on Nujol.

"Even the healthiest woman is better off by taking Nujol—especially at times when her system is apt to be thrown off balance and her regular functions upset. This pure substance keeps your system functioning normally and naturally even under abnormal conditions. It not only prevents an excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but aids in their removal. It's these poisons that age people prematurely. Makes them feel old and tired and useless."

Nujol isn't a medicine or drug. For this reason it can't possibly disagree with you or upset you. It is simply a pure natural product. It works effectively without being drastic. This is important to women particularly on the occasions when they cannot afford to be upset.

Start Nujol now—whether you're in your teens or approaching middle age. Keep it up for three months. At the end of that time you'll wonder how you ever got along without it. Worth a try, isn't it? You'll find Nujol at all druggists. In sealed packages only.

Delivers Detroit Customers at Lowest Actual Cost

ADVERTISING now has to do considerably more than merely mould minds or form opinions. It must follow through to sales. It must make customers reach for their pocketbooks. It must persuade people to make purchases. All of which presupposes buying power in the media used.

In the Detroit market, the circulation of this newspaper is now the most effective circulation you can purchase at any price.

Its cost of reaching potential purchasing power is less; that is, an advertising dollar invested in The Free Press will influence more actual purchasing power than a dollar spent in any other Detroit newspaper.

Furthermore, Free Press circulation permeates the market as today's space buyer prefers–not on a nose-counting basis with its attendant waste, but on the more sound foundation of selective appeal at the breakfast tables of the homes worth advertising to in Detroit.

For 79% of Free Press city circulation is concentrated in those twenty-five Detroit districts (out of a total of 40), where live the families who control 75% of the twelve hundred million dollars spent each year by Detroiters. In these same twenty-five districts are located 79% of the stores of one of the largest grocery chains—89% of all the chain drug stores, and where more than three-fourths of all new motor cars in Wayne County are now being sold.

As proof of Free Press ability to create sales and move merchandise right now, get this statement from F. L. Reiner, Sales Manager of the Maytag-Detroit Co.: "Maytag sales through community dealers in September were 40% greater than the average for the four preceding months . . . 83% greater than during August . . . 158% greater than during September, 1930." Maytag used The Free Press exclusively during this period.

With a quarter million families as its reader audience combining both volume of distribution and highest value in the reader unit–with its exclusive, non-duplicated position in the Detroit morning field, The Free Press is a necessity of first rank in order to make advertising pay a profit in the days just ahead.

67% of all FOOD SALES

Detroit families spend yearly $275,000,000 for foods. 67% of this expenditure, or $185,000,000, is made in the 25 Detroit districts in which The Free Press concentrates 79% of its circulation. Free Press families are not "bread-line" but bread-buying members. They are buying good foods freely today. An appeal to them will bring you, as a food manufacturer or purveyor, generous sales response.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE HOOVER-LAVAL ACCORD.

President Hoover and Prime Minister Laval joined in a statement as M. Laval departed from Washington. It was intended to inform the public of the decisions, if any, reached by the heads of the two consulting governments. Diplomatic caution and reservations defeated that purpose. The statement merely started new questions and raised new uncertainties. It permits the interpretation, at least the conjecture, that Mr. Hoover is prepared to recommend a restudy of the debts and that cancellation is not out of the administration's thoughts of the future.

Certainly confirmation is given the belief prevalent when the moratorium was first proposed to Europe that there would not be a return to the settlement under the Young plan, and plausibility is given the suspicion that hereafter Germany's payment to the allies, whatever it may be, will be the measure of the collection of debts to America, whatever that collection may be.

This and other possibilities must be considered in the light of a statement which covers a great deal of ground and contains little that is explicit.

Gradually the American public has been informed of the financial transactions of an episode which may remain forever astonishing. The people are learning that the basis of the whole manipulation of international debt has been American money. During the war and after it United States government funds were sluiced into nearly every quarter of the globe and there, after the war, recklessly used. The only thing which has kept this debt structure up has been more American money distributed through the channels of international banking.

The American people discover that their money has financed German reparations and German prodigality at home. What they have received back in debt settlement, after the great reductions in principal, has been their own money revolving in a mad scheme of financial jugglery. The rabbit seems to come out of the hat which in reality is full of broken eggs. And the magician is mad at the credulous gentleman whose watch he borrowed and smashed.

It can be said for debt cancellation, if that is implied in the meeting of minds in Washington, that its general popularity in this country is doubtful. It is too plainly revealed that the United States is to pay not only for the war, which was complete only when it had been pulled in without any complicity in the causes, but is to pay for the post-war insanity prevailing in Europe.

The United States is to pay for armaments and reconstruction, for doles, pensions, and pay roll paddings which are doles in another form. It is to pay for socialistic pauperising of masses of European populations and for the governmental recklessness which has broken down nine-tenths of the budgets.

It was not the war which half destroyed Europe. It was the peace beginning with the iniquities of the treaty of Versailles and continuing in the harebrained adventures of European statesmanship. For the war which the United States did not cause and for the peace which it could not abide the United States will pay the full bill if the cancellationists have come into their day at last.

For it America may be offered an illusion of peace and disarmament which will be a fatal error only in this infatuated country. The congressman who carries such a program to his constituents may find himself looking at scowling faces.

MORE OF THE LIBERAL MIND.

A liberal weekly commenting on Gandhi's fear that if he visits America he will be made ridiculous and, as his friends fear, "find his privacy violated by mobs of blockheads," says:

"To be sure, barbarous scenes will follow his arrival in New York. He will be given an official welcome by the immitigable Jimmie Walker; ticker tape will be showered upon him from the skyscrapers of lower Broadway; a regiment of cameramen will hound his steps; reporters for the tabloid press will besiege him for his opinions on everything under the sun, from the phallic turret of the Empire State building to the fox hunting hats of our stenographers. In short, all the idiotic, profane, and mercenary aspects of American life will be thrust upon him."

This will happen, but the liberal minded think Gandhi, having faced hunger, and pain, and sickness, and death under British rule in India, would survive the barbarous American scenes and his presence would do Americans enormous good. Now none of the unpleasant occurrences predicted would be the work of a malignant power in the United States, except as the ticker tape might be regarded as the pennant of the capitalistic system. It's more like the mortuary tassel. It would be thrown by the poor helots, the office boys, clerks, and stenographers.

Mr. Walker, immitigable as he may be, is not given New York by a small group intending evil to the human race, but is the choice of the city's multitudes. The cameramen and reporters do not produce what is abhorrent to these multitudes, but what they like. The phallic tower may be largely Al Smith's responsibility, but the fox hunting hats gratify what's underneath them in the stenographers' heads. In short, all the "idiotic, profane, and mercenary aspects of American life" would be revealed as directly related to the character of the multitudes of America's greatest city, who are not greatly different from masses of Americans elsewhere. The whole, in liberal opinion, is barbarous, but wait a minute. In liberal opinion these masses are instinct with wisdom and nobility. They are competent not only to give authority for the administration of New York City but for an economic revolution. They can run electric power industries and railroads. They can substitute their authority for private enterprise and their politicians for the capitalists. The perfectibility of the human scheme lies in their now repressed judgment and decisions. Whenever there is a capitalistic offense against humanity the offended masses invariably are noble, intelligent, and good, only abused and outraged.

The more conservative mind [conservative means at least as much as liberal] does not believe that the demonstrations of New Yorkers welcoming a little man in a loin cloth and shawl would be barbarous, idiotic, profane, or mercenary. It would even pass over the possibility that a loin cloth in New York in early winter might be idiotic. But if the conservative mind contained such a judgment upon the masses of the American people it would not then conclude that the perfection of human life lay in more power to their instinctive ideas and actions.

The liberal mind seems to have some relation to a fault in the gastric juices.

BREAKING THE TAX STRIKE.

More than half a million dollars has been collected from delinquent taxpayers in recent weeks as the result of a determined campaign on the part of the public authorities. The amount is not as large as it might be, but at least it indicates a more wholesome trend in tax matters. Pressure from the County court and the county treasurer, combined with persuasion from disinterested sources, is making itself felt.

Thanks in part to the efforts of tax racketeers, the notion had taken hold that it is not necessary for property owners in Cook county to pay taxes. No one ever bought real estate in this county without the clear understanding that every year the local governments collected a tax upon it. The fact that real estate must pay a tax has always been reflected in the price at which it is sold. If it were not for taxes, owners of real estate would have had to pay substantially more for it. The refusal of a property owner to pay his taxes bears a good many resemblances to smuggling merchandise. It amounts to stealing an advantage and a profit over honest men who do respect the law and their obligation to support the government.

Just as the smuggler can undersell his competitors, the man who refuses to pay his real estate taxes can afford to rent his building at less than his honest competitor must charge. No doubt the present campaign against delinquencies was fostered in part at least by persons who had come to realize that their payment of taxes was placing them at a disadvantage in relation to those who had refused to pay.

In many instances, it appears, the delinquents did not deliberately set out to steal an unfair advantage, but were badly advised. These property owners thought their assessments were too high. Instead of paying what they regarded as fair and contesting the rest in court, they paid nothing and contested the entire bill. It is in this class of delinquencies that the campaign for payment has been most successful. A continuance of pressure on this class will yield substantial sums to the treasury. It will serve, at the same time, to restore the habit of taxpaying, without which there can be no security of life and property in this or any other community.

THE MOVIE BOMBINGS.

After the bombing of numerous movie theaters Mayor Cermak was able to bring about an adjustment of the differences between the exhibitors and the operators. The mayor applied some extra pressure and the parties to the dispute found a basis for settlement. But that does not settle everything. It does not square the bombings. The crimes against the security of the city are still on the books as crimes. An adjustment of labor difficulties does not expunge them. A conciliation in the strike cannot end the city's interest in them.

Indeed the authorities should have a new interest in these bombings. If the criminal element in this strike is to be ignored simply because the controversy is ended by agreement there is more than an intimation that the way to win a dispute is by throwing bombs. That precedent would have a conspicuous place, to be consulted in other troubles. The proof that it is not a precedent can be given by the detection and prosecution of the criminals. That ought not to be a police impossibility.

Editorial of the Day

THE TAX THAT KILLS.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

Cranmore Hall, a country residence in Great Britain, may be had rent free. According to a dispatch, the owners, Sir Arthur and Lady Paget, offer it to whoever will foot the yearly bill of some £300 for taxes and upkeep.

The incident marks the arrival of a somewhat difficult point in the British system of property ownership. When taxes and upkeep take the whole obtainable revenue of a desirable property we have the single tax in a somewhat unusual sense of the word—the tax that singly and in itself eats up all the financial advantage of possession.

The finer country residence property in England has been sinking down toward this point for about 50 years. The point once reached, an owner has no further motive, outside of sentiment or the dim hope of a better break later on, to keep his property. Nor does he have any very obvious market in which to sell it.

He may, no doubt, let it revert to the state. If that happens on any large scale England will become dotted with abandoned country houses, somewhat as New England is dotted with abandoned farms.

Such a condition would afford a picture of the tax that kills. No doubt rose gardens can be turned into cabbage patches and vacant mansions into refuges for the indigent. But if that happens, the British government and the local taxing subdivisions will have to look elsewhere for revenues.

AFTER EFFECTS OF CHILLS.

A CORRESPONDENT wants to know something of the after effects of chronic malaria. These effects need to be considered under several heads. In the first place, a person who has once been thoroughly infected with malaria may have trouble in completely throwing it off.

Even though he takes enough treatment to consider himself cured, and then moves out of the malarial country and into one in which there is no likelihood of reinfection, he is liable to have occasional chills and fever for months or even for years. These attacks are quite liable to come on in the cold weather, and to follow chilling or wetting.

Exposure to great heat sometimes has the same effect. The reason is the malarial parasite is liable to hide away in some inaccessible part of the body and remain there, making itself at home, doing no immediate harm, and adjusting itself very well to the tissues around it. That this parasite can adjust itself is proved by the experience of certain individuals who become infected with malaria without being much harmed by it; by certain races, for instance, Negroes, who enjoy a good deal of racial immunity; and by the course of malarial infections in birds and monkeys. So long as the malarial parasites remain inactive in inaccessible locations in the human body, quinine does not harm them.

People who have this type of infection sometimes get chilled or wet and thus precipitate an attack of chills. When this occurs the parasites have changed to a vulnerable form and they have moved out of their strongholds. A few days of quinine and plasmochin compound are expected to kill them off. A few repetitions of the chilling, followed by treatment, should rid the system of the parasite.

The next heading is the secondary effects of chronic malaria. Malaria is very destructive to the blood. Anemia is nearly always present if malaria has persisted long. In the treatment of persisting malaria, iron and arsenic tonics rank with quinine tonics and plasmochin compound. Unless tonics to overcome anemia are given, there is great difficulty, in curing a case of malaria. They seem to be needed to make the quinine and plasmochin compound take hold of the disease in its phases other than the acute chills and fever. And then, iron and arsenic tonics are needed to "mop up" following quinine, to use a soldier's expression.

Under the third heading come people who are likely to need special dieting during treatment and afterwards. They need meat, eggs and good vegetables, especially those that are green and the yellow kinds as well.

And, finally, people with chronic malaria need to be rid of complications. Some of them are infested with worms and need a few rounds of worm medicine. Some need to have old gum and tooth troubles cleared up.

THERE ARE MANY CAUSES.

Mrs. M. J. S. writes:

1. What is the cause of glaucoma?
2. Is high blood pressure one cause?
3. What is the cure, if any?
4. When the first symptoms just begin to show, can the disease be checked?
5. How long does it take before the vision is destroyed?

REPLY.

1. There are many causes—diabetes, high blood pressure, cataract, and others.
2. Yes.
3. Since there are so many conditions that cause this eye trouble, it follows that some cases of it are cured. Some are held in check for many years or for life—and some are incurable. Removing the cause is one cure. Putting drops in the eyes is another, in a sense. Operation is required for many cases.
4. In many cases it can be.
5. Again there is variation. Given proper care, vision may be retained many years, or permanently.

POISON DUE TO EXPOSURE.

F. J. W. writes: I have had for some time a peeling of the skin on the fingers. The fingers peel for a while and then stop. When the skin appears well again it starts all over. What is this? How can it remedied?

REPLY.

The probability is that you expose your hands to something that poisons the skin. If you stop that the peeling will stop, regardless of what ointment you use.

DIVORCE DECREE.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is a marriage in Illinois legal without divorce papers? The divorce was granted by the judge, but I have no papers to show that the divorce was issued. H. S.

The marriage is legal without the divorce papers if a divorce decree was in fact signed by the judge, but it is very often the case, where parties think the divorce has been granted but have no papers, that the judge merely announced that he will be willing to sign a decree but that none has been signed.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BICYCLES ON SIDEWALKS.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Friend of the People.] — I am respectfully requesting that you see what can be done toward having the law enforced against the use of the sidewalks in our vicinity for bicycle traffic. It has become a habitual practice with overgrown youths to the extent that life and limb is endangered. Some grocery stores and others have delivery boys who use the sidewalks continually. These riders seem to think that the walks are for their use and if one objects he is subjected to abuse. It seems to me this would be a good way to train our careless youth to begin obeying the law. L. W.

This complaint was investigated by a patrolman, who reports that he has informed the boys riding bicycles not to use the sidewalks and they promised to stay off. Further attention will be given to the complaint and every effort made to remedy the condition complained of. JAMES P. ALLMAN, Commissioner of Police.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

THE MEANING OF THE TEXT.

It looks what you call cryptic at first: the text of the agreement between M. Laval and the President. Everybody's guessing what it means; some say it means this or that, but others say that if you turn it around and then read it backwards it means something else. Anyhow, it isn't a cross word puzzle, because it hasn't got any spaces to put in a word of four letters meaning a wild goat found in the mountains of Asia or a word of eight letters meaning the center of condensation of a very old substance. No, it's no cross word puzzle. Nor is it an ask me another such as who was Jeroboam's aunt's cousin on his mother's side and what would she have done to cure a toothache if she ever had the toothache? Or why does an Abyssinian hedgehog live in Abyssinia? No, it's not an Ask Me Another, no, indeed!

Let us, then, seek further; or, in other words, settum up in the other alley. Let us study the horoscope; let us seek the answer in the stars. On the day the agreement, or pact, or whatever you wish to call it, was signed, last Sunday, by M. Laval and the President, we find that Scorpio was visible in the northern horizon rearing right up on its hind legs. Jupiter was standing on his head, Saturn throwing a fit, and Mars was acting perfectly silly dashing all around the sky. This shows that anything born on that day had a fair chance of success if it was careful not to take any wooden nickels or run through the red light. With the stars acting up the way they were when the pact was issued it means it should be read zigzag, both from the middle, the ends, and the top. Anything that starts on a journey—and the little pact is certainly starting on a journey—is going to have a lot of trouble if it doesn't mind its eye. In fact, Jupiter standing on its head means that what begins on this day is liable to be taken for a ride. Tut, tut, little pact, be careful. Also the stars say look out for a dark gentleman with a sword, That would be Mussolini.

There's a whole lot more the horoscope tells, but we have to wait until we can get a bigger telescope before we know all. Meanwhile, let us wait. That's one of the best things we do these days.

THE HOMECOMING.

Youth would go a-wandering
In the month of May;
So from out the homeland gate
Swift he went his way;
"I will roam," he lightly said,
"Forever and a day."

Many months he wandered,
Wandered at his will;
But the woodland turned to brown
With November chill;
Then, with speeding footsteps,
He sought the homeland hill.

"Give to me the highway
When the world is red,
When the fields are green and gold"—
Thus the pilgrim said;
"But for me the home road
When the Summer's dead."

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

AFTER READING about the French ambassador entertaining the French and American reporters trailing the President and M. Laval around—do you know what? Well, if we had it all to do over again we'd be born in France, study hard, rise in politics, and finally get appointed ambassador to America. Then we'd sit in the front window of the French embassy in Washington, which is French soil, diplomatically speaking, and look out at dry America across the street, and we'd sip brandy, cocktails, wine, or what not and thumb our nose at the dry sleuths.

THIS IS THE TIME of year when the first hesitant Christmas cards timidly push their way down to the front and center. And oh, the agony, the grief to see so many of them inscribed "Xmas Greetings." There ought to be a law against it, but probably there isn't. And so year after year the terrible thing goes on and on. Ah, well!

AND LIKEWISE this is Radio Announcers' Diction week, and in great excitement we sat us down in front of the radio Sunday afternoon expecting to hear the king's English without one single thing to send cold shivers down our back. And what did we hear the first crack out of the box? "You are about to listen," said the announcer, "to some very dear old toones." Oh, kind heaven, give us patience! "Toones!" Ah, the pity o' it!

GEORGE OF GEORGIA! What a slogan. Jim Ham Lewis is speaking of a Democratic presidential candidate next year, says he isn't looking for the lightning to strike him; that Gov. Roosevelt, Owen D. Young, and Al Smith won't do because it would cause party contention and that likely prospects were Robinson of Arkansas, Glass of Virginia, or George of Georgia. We had never thought of it that way before—but George of Georgia. Say it over a few times and it gets hold of you—George of Georgia—or, as they say it down there, "Gahge of Gahgah."

CYCLE'S END.

October . . . and the hunter's moon!
The cycle's run again!
Comes peace and quiet noon too soon,
Comes singing in the rain.

I always thought that song absurd,
But now I know it's true,
As many other things I've heard,
Now that my sentence's through.

And after singing in the rain
Comes singing in the sun,
New light, new love, a fresh refrain,
Thank God the cycle's done!

WASHINGTON. — The state department is in possession of two reports concerning the activities of German diplomats and German agents in this country, which may result in exposures as sensational as those which culminated in President Wilson's demand for the recall of Dr. Dumba, the Austrian-Hungarian ambassador. The first report was prepared for the German government, but it never reached its destination because Franz Rintelen, by whom it was prepared, was taken from the Noordam at Plymouth and British agents took the papers from Andrew Meloy, his American companion. The other report was compiled by the department of justice and contains all the facts concerning the activities of German agents in this country which have recently been gathered by the department's agents.

LONDON.—With the junction of the German and Austrian troops in the northeast by their occupation of all Serbian forts on the Danube, the Teutons continued their drive into Serbia south of Belgrade, southeast of Semendria, and along the western border. An Athens dispatch says the Bulgarians have captured Prisland. If this is true Serbia has been divided by the Bulgarian army.

CHICAGO.—One man was killed and three injured in a riot in connection with the strike of the garment workers. The dead man is Samuel Capper, a deaf and dumb striking tailor, who was shot in the back of the head. Women and children took part in the riot.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 27, 1901.

CHICAGO.—To save the body of Leon F. Czolgosz from burial in a pauper's grave and to erect over it a $200,000 mausoleum has become the life object of Miss Henrietta Tice, a Chicago Socialist, who has a little money of her own for the cause. She has canvassed leaders of Socialists and anarchists and so enthusiastic has she become that she has the utmost faith that her plans will be fulfilled and the body and mausoleum be placed in Chicago.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—Fred Gebhard, for years the close friend of Mrs. Langtry, was given a surprise at the hearing of his suit for divorce. He secured his liberty but not in the way he desired, for the divorce was granted to Mrs. Gebhard, who, before her marriage, was Louise Morris, a Baltimore belle, on a cross bill.

CHICAGO.—The auction of boxes for the horse show was held at the Auditorium and out of the 100 boxes which the management had to dispose of 81 were sold for a total of $16,560. Sidney Love, acting for William H. Moore, got the first and second boxes for $400 each. Adrian Honoré won third choice for his brother-in-law, Potter Palmer, for $325, and John D. Kitchen took the next for John Dupee, also for $325.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 27, 1881.

CHICAGO.—Baron von Steuben and other German guests of the nation at the Yorktown centennial celebration will visit Chicago on Oct. 30 and the German-Americans of the city are preparing to give them a cordial reception. George Schneider, Washington Hesing, R. Michaelis, John Buehler, J. H. Christoph, William Vocke, George Eberhardt, Rudolph Arnbach, William Reissenegger, and Adolph Schoeninger have charge of the arrangements.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Attorney Scoville, counsel for Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield, stated in court that he would not raise the question of the jurisdiction of the court and Judge Cox postponed the trial until Nov. 14. It is believed Scoville waived the point of jurisdiction so he may raise it hereafter in case of Guiteau's conviction. He thinks that if, after the trial, it is decided that the court has no jurisdiction, Guiteau cannot again be tried for the offense. District Attorney Corkhill has received a telegram from Judge Porter of New York stating that he will assist the government counsel in the prosecution of Guiteau.

HIGHWAY FUNDS.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—In reply to a letter of mine in THE TRIBUNE on the proposal of the county board to tap the highway fund in order to pay county debts, Carl L. Hallberg states that "the money contributed by automobile owners for highway construction and maintenance is only a small part of the total which the government spends for that purpose." This statement is incorrect, as 60 per cent or more of the total road income is derived from motorists, according to the national automobile chamber of commerce.

In the second place, his suggestion that real estate should bear no part of road expense fails to take into account the fact that good roads are one of the greatest causes of increase in land values. A few years ago E. L. Gates, county engineer of Du Page county, reported that construction of hard roads in that county had increased the value of farm land 25 per cent or more. Judge O. C. Dancy of Cameron county, Tex., says that every time his county spends a million dollars for highways and irrigation projects nine million dollars is added to the selling value of the property in the county. Indeed, the importance of good roads in raising the value of real property is so great that E. N. Hines, member of the Wayne county (Detroit) board of county road commissioners, has said that the increase in land values alone has more than compensated the taxpayer for building improved roads. As both individual motorists and the owners of real estate benefit from good roads it seems logical that both should share in the expense, and the ratio of 60-40 appears a fair one to both classes.

The tax burden on real estate is heavy. It should be reduced. But the reduction should come not by diverting money from highway funds which make possible improvements that are essential to the county but by a more economical administration of government. The solution of the problem of Cook county debts is not to be found in dipping into the highway fund, but, as THE TRIBUNE recently pointed out editorially, the solution is to reduce expenditures, as would be done in private business, until they balance with the income.

FOR POLITICIANS WHO CAN'T SLEEP.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Politicians who are troubled with insomnia and get no sleep by counting sheep jumping over a fence should try counting the 6,000,000 unemployed, one per second marching single file by the White House. It will require 1,666 2-3 hours and the column or bread line will be 5,000 miles long, but you will be sound asleep long before the last man passes. M. D.

THE POETS CORNER.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Those of us that read the gushing high school girlish review on George Dillon by the former associate editor of Poetry [a magazine of verse] were astonished and with good reason. He is compared with Keats. Poor Keats! Why do these comparisons persist, year in and year out? Dead poets cannot defend themselves. Neither can Ethna Carbery arise and utter a word of protest against Dillon, who has borrowed the phrase "smells sweeter than wine" printed in his poem specimen. This phrase first saw the light of day in the 16th line of "On an Island" when her "Four Winds of Eirinn" was published in 1906.

If the editors of Poetry wish to foster their fledgling and see him showered with prizes that is their pleasure; but when that same person cribs the original lines of an earlier poet it is time that his contemporaries mention the fact and thus protect the lovers of poetry from any possible mistake in the matter. And the review says "It is his own." As 24 George Dillon is still a resident of Chicago." Be that as it may, he is still far from the company of Keats. Let the Chicago foundation take notice!

Should that foundation wish to perform a lasting service let a prize be given to Scharmel Iris, a true genius in the lyric field. It was necessary for Yeats to split his prize with Pound before the editor of Poetry was able to acquire vision. Poets come and poets go, but cliques go on forever!

THE SITUATION IN IOWA.

Ottumwa, Ia., Oct. 22.—I should like to tell you how many flowers are in bloom in our garden today. We have twenty-two salvia plants with from six to twelve blooms on each plant. Dozens of petunias, cosmos, gaillardia, several golden glow, phlox, one delphinium in bloom and two in bud, one bunch violets and a bunch of ageratum. Also have water lily and water hyacinth in bloom in our pool, and lantana and double petunia in our porch boxes. Rather a good showing for Iowa on Oct. 22 is it not?

HOME INDUSTRIES.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—I have in my employ 150 men and women. If I could get more of Chicago's business, I would have to increase my help to 200 or 400 with the result that more people will have jobs, who in turn will buy from Chicago's stores. And so the wheel goes round. The manufacturers hire factory help in large numbers, but they are helpless without the codperation of Chicago's stores. If they will get together Chicago is sure to be on the road to prosperity in no time. CHICAGO MANUFACTURER.

BOOST PLAN FOR MILLION DOLLAR CORN LOAN POOL

Expect Farm Board Will Help with Money.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.] Officers of the farm bureau of every Illinois county where the lowest corn prices since 1900 are a paramount problem voted approval here today of a plan proposed in a closed meeting by Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, to form a million dollar credit corporation to finance the holding of 30 to 50 million bushels of corn on midwest farms.

They also voted to urge that all American grain exchanges "discontinue temporarily if not permanently the short sale of grain except for legitimate hedging purposes."

A third action of the day was also intended to stimulate "more effective cooperation of grain producers and their local cooperative elevators in controlling sales of grain through their own agencies on the terminal markets."

Seek Farm Board Money.

The formation of the National Agricultural Credit corporation, with paid in capital of $1,000,000 to be subscribed jointly by the federal farm board and private commercial interests, is to be effected Wednesday or Thursday in Chicago. Farm leaders from Iowa, Nebraska, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, and South Dakota have been asked to meet with the Illinois bankers to incorporate the project.

Meanwhile, having based their grain of credit on farm warehouse receipts, the leaders were assured today that Stuart E. Pierson, state director of agriculture, would be ready in a few days to begin authorizing the sealing of corn in cribs or granaries, on Illinois farms.

Pierson announced the procedure would be for a local committee of three or five men, approved to the state director by a local banker, to make formal application to him to be authorized as the county warehousing board. This board would name a county sealer who would upon application of individual farmers measure their corn and seal it under the state warehousing act of 1927.

Bonuses Security for Loan.

A local banker acting as agent for the National Credit corporation would attach the sealer's certificate to the owner's note, provided no lien existed on the corn and the loan made by the corporation. Intermediate credit banks in St. Louis or Omaha are expected to hypothecate this collateral and sell debentures to the public, the present interest rate for which is 3½ per cent.

It was announced today, also, that provision would be made for a blanket insurance against loss by wind or fire on such grain sealed corn, which is also immune from any lien or attachment by any one except the holder of the certificate. Similar insurance with a bonding company against other loss is expected to furnish additional guarantee of the grain certificated.

Faith anticipates that with prevailing low prices of corn, the movement being set on foot, which has been under consideration by the farm business and financial interests for several weeks, may serve to prevent the "distressed sales" of corn by farmers unable to delay selling regardless of price. This, in turn, leaders said in today's meeting, "ought to serve to strengthen market prices."

No Artificial Price Pegging.

No attempt to "peg" corn prices or to attempt artificial market operations other than the possible checking of short selling except for legitimate hedging, is contemplated.

The Illinois credit plan adopted here today is expected to become effective only when approved in the other corn belt states named. Some of these states do not have a grain warehousing act and may find plans to established other local collateral necessary.

LINCOLN PARK SEETHES WITH POLITICAL TALK

Rumors of Rackets and Changes in Board.

BY PARKE BROWN.

With major politics at a standstill, Lincoln park began to stand out yesterday as the hotbed for rumors and gossip in Chicago.

There were stories of ward bosses scrambling vainly to get jobs they thought due them. There were reports of racketeers trying to break into the trucking business of the park system and there were yarns about somebody discovering an easy money scheme based on charging the park for waste material used in lake front filling.

The stories culminated in the biggest rumor of all to the effect that the disappointed spoils seekers now predict that Warren Wright, president of the park board, who has been battling against the demands made upon him, may become so irritated he will resign and give way to an administration more amenable to politics.

Patronage Orders Issued.

Most of the trouble started recently when Gov. Emmerson issued his personal orders concerning the distribution of patronage in the park system.

There were several important phases to these orders, one of them being that all patronage for the 45th and 46th wards must go to Ald. William H. Feigenbutz, Republican committeeman of the 45th ward, and to Ald. Oscar F. Nelson, whom the governor selected as his standard bearer in the 46th.

The word was spread that Lincoln park was thrown open for exploitation. This was considered a surprise since contrary to what he did in naming a west park board consisting almost entirely of professional politicians, the governor picked for Lincoln park what the politicians called a "silk stocking" group of commissioners. What is known as a business administration of the north side system had resulted.

Price of Stone Goes Up.

With the new orders out, according to one of the important park employes, truck owners who had been hauling stone for 40 cents a cubic yard suddenly announced that the price thereafter would be 65 cents, the additional 25 cents being needed to "take care of" certain matters.

The park board would not approve the increase. Then appeared on the scene two men designated by Gov. Emmerson as his ward leaders in other sections of the city. One was State Senator Daniel Serritella, former city sealer, lieutenant of Al Capone, and committeeman for the First ward on the south side, and Ald. William V. Pacelli, Emmerson leader in the Twentieth ward on the west side.

According to the story, friends of Serritella and Pacelli had some trucks formerly employed by the last city administration and they would take up the stone hauling at 40 cents a cubic yard. But before work was started Serritella showed up with the spokesman who had tried to raise the price from 40 to 65 cents and announced there had been an agreement whereby the higher price would have to be paid. The result has been that no stone has been hauled.

Same Story on Lake Fill.

Somewhat similar tactics were reported to have been used in connection with the hauling of refuse for the lake front improvement.

In the past, excavators and others having dirt to dispose of have been glad to get rid of it by dumping it on the lake front free. But recently representatives of the truck owners are said to have advanced an argument that they are entitled to as much per cubic yard as the park is paying for sand taken from Lake Michigan. The demand was rejected.

According to the gossip, the man who would succeed President Wright if he resigns, would be Sheldon Clark, all man who now holds the vice presidency. Commissioner Clark, it is said, is attempting to "handle" two wards for Gov. Emmerson, the 42d and 43d. In the former his lieutenant is Ernest W. Turner, former state representative, and in the latter it is said to be Henry P. Runkel, who ran for committeeman several years ago as a city hall candidate.

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Official returns from the presidential election of Oct. 11 established today that Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, former provisional president, had won by more than 30,000 votes over the nearest competitor. The poll gave Sanchez Cerro 117,711; Citror Hya De La Torre, 85,846; José De La Jara Y Ureta, 17,846, and Arturo Osores, 10,267.

Leader Collapses During Rehearsal of Orchestra

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Henri Verbrugghen, director of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, collapsed at a rehearsal today and was taken to a hospital. A physician said the collapse probably was caused by the high temperature in the small rehearsal room. Mr. Verbrugghen will remain at the hospital for a while for observation. His condition is not serious.

WAUKEGAN JURY INDICTS LAWYERS IN BANK INQUIRY

Two Chicagoans Named in Perjury Charges.

Two Chicago lawyers, Lewis Shaffer and Maurice J. Freedman, were indicted on perjury charges yesterday by the Lake county grand jury in connection with their activities in the closing of the Waukegan State bank.

Three minutes after the bank closed on last June 18 Shaffer and Freedman rushed into the Lake county Circuit court and filed a claim under the stockholders' liability law on behalf of Mrs. Catherine Miller of McHenry, a depositor of the bank. This was the undisputed testimony before the grand jury.

Suspected of possessing advance knowledge of the bank closing, the lawyers were summoned before the grand jury. Both declared they had gone to Waukegan on another legal matter and declared their filing of the claim in Mrs. Miller's behalf so soon after the bank's closing was a coincidence. A Waukegan cab driver, contradicting this story, declared they had paid him to stand at the bank door and signal them the instant the notice of closing was posted.

Nelson Asks Change of Venue.

Attorneys for State Auditor Oscar Nelson, who is also under indictment in connection with the closing of the bank, lost their first legal skirmish yesterday when they appeared before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady and filed a petition for a change of venue.

The attorneys contended that the auditor should be permitted to withhold his plea until Judge Dady had ruled on the venue petition. They were overruled, Judge Dady instructing them that Mr. Nelson must appear next Thursday to enter a plea.

The judge allowed the auditor until next Monday to file affidavits in support of the petition for a change of venue. Accompanying the petition were clippings from Chicago and Waukegan newspapers quoting State's Attorney A. V. Smith as attacking the auditor. The newspaper articles, together with the fact that the Waukegan State bank had 4,000 depositors and the closed Waukegan National bank 6,000 depositors, would preclude the chances of the auditor getting a fair trial in Waukegan, the petition averred.

Woodruff Also Files Petition.

Counsel for George Woodruff, former chairman of the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago, and Norman O. Geyer, former president of the Waukegan State bank, also petitioned for a change of venue. They were indicted jointly with Auditor Nelson on conspiracy charges.

Another defendant, William Miller, vice president of the National Bank of the Republic, also sought a change of venue, while a fourth, John Murray Connors, former vice president of the Waukegan State bank, elected to stand trial in Lake county. All were instructed to be prepared to enter pleas at the same time as the auditor.

The closing of another Lake county bank, the Wauconda Trust and Savings bank at Wauconda, twenty miles west of Waukegan, was announced yesterday by the state auditor's office. The bank was capitalized at $25,000, listed at $15,000 surplus, and had deposits of $105,000.

DIVORCED WHILE ON HONEYMOON WIFE CHARGES

Mrs. Gladys Nathan charged to Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday that her husband filed a divorce suit against her when they were still on their honeymoon, and kept the knowledge of the divorce from her for five years.

She was married Jan. 16, 1926, to L. A. Nathan, 1218 Winnemac avenue, former owner of a chain of dress shops. They spent their honeymoon at the Rogers Park hotel, 6500 Sheridan road, and while they were still living there Nathan filed a bill for divorce.

They did not separate until several months after the bill was filed, Mrs. Nathan charged. Nathan got a decree by default in 1928, but she did not discover it until she filed suit for divorce, Oct. 3. She asked that his decree be set aside. Judge Sabath indicated that he would do so.

PARAGUAY FACES RADICAL REVOLT; PRESIDENT QUITS

Troops Patrol Capital to Curb Disorders.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Oct. 26.—(AP) — President José Guggiari was forced out of office today by demands of students, workers, and radical elements for a voice in the republic's affairs and was succeeded by the vice president, Gonzalez Navero.

Tonight the Liberal party, which has governed Paraguay since 1906, strove with military support to retain control of the government against elements demanding a new administration. Troops were stationed at strategic points as a precaution against possible disorders.

In an effort to enable the ruling party to weather the storm, President Guggiari and his cabinet resigned after a conference with the Liberal leaders at the military school this morning and invited congress to investigate his administration.

Leaders of the anti-Guggiari movement had contended that the Liberal party became conservative during its control of state affairs. They demanded a new government in which the leftist group would be represented by two men, Paiva and Irala, attorneys.

There is also a student strike here in protest against Guggiari's attitude in the Gran Chaco boundary dispute with Bolivia, which has been smouldering for nearly 50 years. Paraguay resumed diplomatic relations with Bolivia in April of last year and Bolivia acceded several days ago to a request by 19 Pan-American governments urging peaceful settlement of the dispute.

It appeared tonight that Dr. Jeronimo Zubizareta would continue as premier in a new civilian cabinet, which had not yet been formed.

Two military officers, Maj. Bray and Gen. Rojas, refused to accept the posts of minister of war and minister of the interior, but Maj. Bray issued a manifesto that the army and navy—which in this republic consists of four gunboats—were backing the government.

CITES SHERIFF AND EX-SHERIFF FOR CONTEMPT

Accused of Giving Favors to Rum Prisoners.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday instituted contempt proceedings against the sheriff and a former sheriff of Grundy county, in whose jail at Morris Tony Rench, a Capone politician, allegedly enjoyed remarkable privileges.

JUDGE WOODWARD.

Rench is serving a sentence of one year on his conviction of violating the dry laws in his Stickney roadhouse, the La Ruth Bungalow. The alleged violations went on while he was president of the village board, an office he lost by ouster proceedings when the ballot boxes were found to have been stuffed.

Rench and Matt Blazer, an Oak Park bootlegger, who was also an inmate of the Grundy county jail, were cited with Sheriff John Perucca and former Sheriff Harry Y. Jones of Grundy county in a rule to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt, issued by Judge Woodward. The writ is returnable on Thursday.

Allowed to Leave Jail.

Former Sheriff Jones was cited because Blazer's term was served chiefly under his administration, which ended last Dec. 1. Blazer, as well as Rench, had the run of the jail and the privilege of coming and going as he pleased, according to federal department of justice agents.

When apprised last week of the contempt proceedings he faced, Sheriff Perucca said he had followed the practice of his predecessors in handling federal prisoners, putting them to work wherever possible—mowing the lawn, cleaning the garage, washing the courthouse windows. He denied that any of them, to his knowledge, ever abused the privilege of working on the outside.

Prisoner Keeps a Car.

However, the department of justice agents, after an extensive investigation ordered by Judge Woodward, reported that Rench kept his own automobile at the jail, gave Saturday night booze parties for his friends, lived in the sheriff's quarters, and never occupied a cell. Trips to Chicago, Stickney, Melrose Park, and Joliet, where a grand party was given last June, were other examples of Rench's treatment, the agents reported.

County Judge Peacock and State's Attorney Flood of Grundy county have denied that they attended Rench's Joliet party, although the federal agents said they did.

The Grundy county jail incident recalled the Druggan-Lake scandal of six years ago, which sent Sheriff Peter Hoffman and Warden Wesley Westbrook to jail for contempt of the federal court.

SINGER MARRIED

MRS. ROBERT S. ROGERS.
[Florence Easton.]

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Mme. Florence Easton, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company, and Robert Stanley Rogers, banker and broker, were married last Friday in Bedford, Westchester county, N. Y., it was learned today.

Owing to the recent illness of Mme. Easton the wedding took place at the home of a friend of the bride with a small group present.

Mme. Easton's first husband was Francis MacLennan, the noted tenor, whom she married more than twenty years ago in London. They were divorced in 1928.

EDUCATOR HERE TO OPEN SURVEY OF CITY SCHOOLS

$100,000 to Be Spent on Investigation.

In ten years of school survey work throughout the country no school system, large or small, has been found so efficient that economies could not be effected, according to Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university, who was in the city yesterday preliminary to instituting a survey in the Chicago schools.

The survey, authorized by the school board at a cost of $100,000, is to begin at once, according to Dr. Strayer. J. A. Lindsay has been placed in charge of the survey's office in the Stevens hotel and Dr. W. S. Elsbree, associate of Dr. Strayer in the educational research division at Columbia, is here to proceed with the preliminary work.

Will Be Finished June 1.

Dr. N. L. Engelhardt, who will devote most of his time to the business department, will arrive next week. With a staff that will at times number 50 school administration experts, it is planned to complete work June 1.

"Contrary to the conception of some," said Dr. Strayer, "this is not to be a grand jury investigation. It is not our purpose to fix the blame for any past abuses. Our investigation will not relieve constituted authority of its responsibility.

"It will be our business to provide expert examination into every detail of the business and educational departments. To do this we have carte blanche authority from the board of education and assurance of coöperation from every department head. If wastage or inefficiency is found it will be our job to recommend the solution.

Not Only Cash Savings.

"In ten years of work on schools from Maine to Montana and south to Texas, most of our recommendations have been adopted. The schools of Baltimore, St. Paul, Atlanta, and Fort Worth are a few of those surveyed. The savings are not always reducible to figures, because we deal in efficiency as well as cash expenditures, but all have profited."

REAR ADMIRAL FISKE LOSES PATENT SUIT ON TORPEDO PLANES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, retired, today was refused a review by the Supreme court of his claim that the navy had infringed his patent on torpedo planes.

Unable to sue the government direct, he took action against Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics, claiming Moffett was one of the officers responsible for the infringement.

The Supreme court of the District of Columbia upheld Admiral Fiske, but the Court of Appeal reversed the decision and ruled that his patent was invalid.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR CELEBRATION OF ARMISTICE DAY

Plans for an Armistice day celebration Nov. 11 were completed yesterday by the Cook County council of the American Legion at a meeting in the Hotel La Salle. Two parades, starting at the north and south ends of State street at the edge of the loop, will converge at the La Salle street entrance of the city hall at 10 a. m.

Ceremonies at the city hall, which will include the address of an official from Washington, will begin at 10 and will conclude some time after 11 a. m. Drum and bugle corps of all posts in Cook county will march in the parade, while twelve buglers will sound taps at 11 at different points in the loop, after which will follow one minute of silence.

Legion officials said 1,000 legionnaires will participate in the ceremonies, and between 50,000 and 100,000 Chicagoans are expected to crowd La Salle street to hear the address and prayers at the city hall.

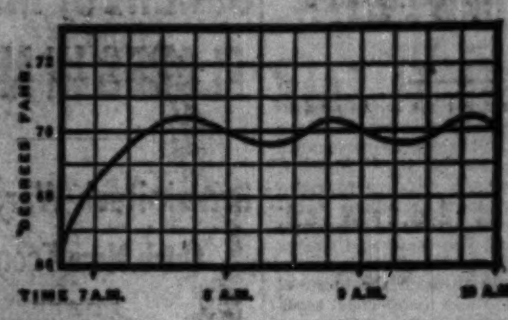

LUMBAGO MAKES JUSTICE HOLMES TAKE A DAY OFF

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Supreme court's most familiar figure, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, was missing from its bench today.

It doesn't happen often and the reply to inquiries was that he has a slight attack of lumbago. He was expected to be in his accustomed seat at the right of Chief Justice Hughes tomorrow.

Justice Holmes was ninety last March. He could have retired years ago with full pay but he didn't want to. He still retains his marvelous vitality and the ability to hand down decisions which convert the dryness of legal questions into literature.

Amazing "Kidney Laxative" Drives Out Poisons New Way

At last a method has been found to drive out the body poisons which are in the blood, and which so often cause or aggravate serious body ailments. Millions of people who try to reach these poisons choose the wrong method—they use cathartics and physics to drive them out. But these acid wastes are actually in the blood—they can be driven off only through the kidneys.

To get at these dangerous acids quickly and easily doctors often now prescribe Sleepy Water—a natural unfiltered mineral water which is delightful to drink. Doctors call it a "kidney laxative." Sleepy Water contains natural alkalines which neutralize the acid which so often causes terrible suffering in cases of rheumatism, while the kidneys, which are soothed and gently activated, carry them off. These same acid body wastes cause or aggravate 29 serious common chronic diseases, including diabetes, arthritis, neuritis, and Bright's disease.

Write or phone today for facts about Sleepy Water. You can try Sleepy Water in your own home today—it will show you, in 20 minutes, how quickly and thoroughly it acts to eliminate these body poisons. Just ask for information about the 30-minute test. Chewaukia Mineral Springs Co., Dept. MA-10, 3330 Jackson Blvd., Tel. Kedzie 1228, Chicago. North Shore Branch, Phone: Greenleaf 2058.

CYPRUS UPRISING SPREADS; REVOLT FLARES IN MALTA

British Rush Warships to Curb New Trouble.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Continued disturbances were reported officially in the Island of Cyprus today while information from reliable sources in London states that the unrest is spreading to Malta and other British islands in the Mediterranean.

The colonial office today issued a communique stating:

"The governor of Cyprus reports the situation in the island's towns is easier except at Kyrenia. Only a small detachment of police is stationed in this town which was hitherto quiet. But yesterday crowds mobilized to tear down and destroy the British flag and hoist the Greek flag. Military reinforcements were sent and the situation is in hand.

Bridge Is Destroyed.

"Reports from country districts indicate minor disturbances, including the destruction of a bridge and the cutting of telegraph wires."

Mahatma Gandhi's salt making campaign in India was adopted by a crowd at Limassol today, according to reports reaching here. Dispatches said the throng went to a lake near the town and dipped for salt. As in India, the salt manufacture in Cyprus is a government monopoly. It was also reported here that the Greek orthodox bishop of Kyrenia was arrested by troops today after he had led an attack on the British commissioner's house.

Malta is the principal center of anti-British activities outside of Cyprus, according to information secured in London. Seven prominent Maltese left the island in order to be present at Premier Mussolini's reception at Naples, where they saluted Il Duce in the name of all Maltese. It is considered significant that the sloop, the H. M. S. Bryony, which has just paid a visit to Naples, left for Malta before the Fascist celebration began.

Order Warships to Malta.

British warships cruising the Mediterranean, apart from those assigned to Cyprus, have been recalled to Malta. The submarine flotilla will be reinforced by the new vessels, Regent and Regulus, which are under orders to proceed from Portsmouth as soon as possible.

A volunteer infantry regiment, known as the "King's Own Malta Regiment," which was disbanded because of native protests against the cost of maintenance, will be reorganized and financed by parliament, according to the government at Malta. These precautionary measures are being taken to meet the activities of agitators for union with Italy.

It was also learned that Maltese organizations have called on their merchants scattered throughout the Mediterranean to join in a boycott of British goods. In this connection a Cyprus-Greek committee in London warns that an intensive boycott of all British goods, particularly liquor, has been established in Egypt and Palestine, where 85 per cent of the small restaurants are in the hands of Greeks of Cyprus. A large sum of money has been sent by wealthy Greeks in London to the heads of Cypriote Greek communities for distribution.

"Nieces" Fail to Provide Burial Uncle Counted On

Thomas McNally, 70 years old, frequently boasted that he never worried over his funeral expenses when he died. "My three nieces will take care of that," he would say. "I saw to it that they got an education." For 40 years McNally had worked as a handy man in homes on the near north side. Sunday night McNally died suddenly in a lodging house at Madison and Jefferson streets. Last night his body still lay unclaimed in the morgue, and police said that unless McNally's nieces are located he will be buried in Potters field.

ELEVATED ROAD SPONSORS GET HEARING TODAY

Emmerson to Consider Chicago Plea.

BY HAL FOUST.

Gov. Emmerson yesterday granted an appointment for this morning at Springfield for an audience with Chicagoans advocating the state's construction of the west side elevated highway as a measure to relieve unemployment this winter, to reduce the delays and hazards of motor travel west of the loop, and to give the motorists of the city an equitable return on the millions they pay to the state annually in gasoline tax and license fees.

EUGENE S. TAYLOR.

Catching the midnight train for the capital were Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club; Eugene Taylor, manager of the Chicago Plan commission; Sidney Gorham, chairman of the World's Fair traffic committee; A. C. Faeh, general manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, and George Barton, traffic engineer for the motor club.

Ask Action by Assembly.

The delegation will ask the governor to include in his call for a special session of legislature this fall consideration of an appropriation to start work this winter on the elevated highway. Without the subject being included in the call the legislators will be without legal authority to consider such an appropriation.

"I am sure that the governor will give us fair and courteous consideration," said Mr. Hayes. "His record in widening the radial highways of the metropolitan area shows his friendly interest in the traffic problems of Chicagoland. I am hopeful of the results of this interview."

Others Not So Hopeful.

Mr. Hayes, who has been a personal friend of Gov. Emmerson for many years, was more optimistic than others. The failure of the administration to support the measure caused the defeat of an elevated highway appropriation bill before the regular session of legislature last summer.

It was also pointed out that it will be easy to block the project with technical red tape since there is no precedent for the state highway department to follow in building a major traffic improvement for Chicago. Advocates of the project point out that by brushing aside this red tape the state would put from 10,000 to 30,000 men to work, and relieve the delays and reduce the fatalities of west side automobile travel.

HELD AS WOMAN'S SLAYER.

George Nichols, 45 years old, former janitor of a flat building at 1547 West Jackson boulevard in which Mrs. Margaret Maine was found strangled to death on May 9, was held to the grand jury without bail on a murder charge by Municipal Judge Samuel H. Trude in the Felony court yesterday.

SEEK DEPRESSED TRACKS ON I. C. SO. CHICAGO LINE

Fatal Crossing Accidents Cited by Business Men.

A petition for an order directing the Illinois Central railroad to depress below grade all tracks on its South Chicago branch, extending from 70th street and Kenwood avenue to Baltimore and South Chicago avenues, was filed yesterday with the Illinois Commerce commission by State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, counsel for the South Shore chamber of commerce.

The present plan would not only eliminate 28 grade crossings at which a number of serious accidents, including 55 fatalities, have occurred in the last two years, but would provide a 100 foot high speed highway, connecting with state route 42, according to the proponents of the plan.

State Ready to Pay Half.

"In return for the highway," Representative Schnackenberg said, "the state will pay one-half of the costs of the depression. Funds would be taken from the state gasoline tax. Two weeks ago H. N. Cleaveland, director of the state department of public works, approved the plan and said he would be ready to work out the details as soon as the railroad considered the proposal and formulated its plans."

Lists Dangerous Crossings.

The petition cites the congested condition of the district served by the South Chicago branch and lists all street crossings endangered by the road. According to Representative Schnackenberg and A. C. Clemensen, president of the South Shore chamber of commerce, the cost of the project, as estimated two years ago by the railroad, would be $9,500,000. Due to present low labor and material costs, they contend, the work could now be done for about $7,000,000.

Repeated appeals have been made by the residents of the districts involved, according to the petitioners, but so far no action has been obtained.

Call Off Police Detail Waiting McErlane's Return

The detail of six detectives assigned since Oct. 6 to watch for Frank McErlane in his home at 7753 Bennett avenue, was called off last night. The gangster is sought as a suspect in the murders of his common law wife, Marion Miller, and James L. Quigley, leader of a rival gang of beer peddlers, who were murdered three weeks ago. Police received information through underworld channels yesterday that McErlane is hiding somewhere in the city, and has said that he will surrender when cold weather sets in.

LOW TIN FOIL PRICE HALTS A CHARITY DRIVE

Child Hospitals of Shrine Are Losers.

Low junk prices and the slump in the market for lead and tin foil has caused the cessation of a charity campaign which for two years has been aided by men, women, and children in all walks of life throughout Illinois.

Careful and charitable minded persons who have been saving the shiny metal wrapping from cigaret and chewing gum packages to send to the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine for the benefit of ten hospitals for crippled children throughout the United States are requested to do so no longer. The price realized on the foil is not commensurate with the trouble involved.

25,000 Pounds on Hand.

Norman D. Kissick, assistant recorder of the Shrine, told of the trouble confronting the foil collectors yesterday. At the present time about 25,000 pounds of the foil is being held. The market for foil is quoted at 1 cent a pound, not enough to make continued collection worth while, he explained.

"About two years ago we started the collection," Mr. Kissick said. "Newspaper publicity brought the drive to the attention of almost every one, collection of the foil was little trouble, and soon we began to gather it from all over the state."

"At the time we started it was quoted at 12 cents a pound. We collected about 100,000 pounds, storing it in warehouses and garages belonging to members of the Shrine. When we sold it the price had dropped to 3 cents a pound. Now with the price only 1 cent we feel the trouble caused, members and people in sympathy with the hospitals is not compensated by the sum realized."

Foil Is Still Sent In.

Despite a recent request to send in no more foil hundreds of persons, not able to contribute otherwise, still send large quantities to the Shrine offices. Yesterday morning a shipment of 600 pounds was received.

Funds from other sources, however, will enable the hospitals to continue operation. Recently a couple, who were in sympathy with the charity but were not connected with the Shrine, died leaving a bequest of $250,000 to the hospital association.

Bandits Rob Office in Rail Station; Loot $1,500

AUTO DEALERS PROTEST BOOST IN GASOLINE TAX

The Chicago Automobile Trade association yesterday joined the Chicago Motor club in a protest against raising the gasoline tax two cents as proposed by James Simpson, president of the Chicago Plan commission. The additional revenue from the fuel excise, under the proposal, would be used to relieve the levy against real estate.

R. G. Tiffany, president of the car dealers' association, addressed a letter to Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission.

"Advocates of an additional tax on gasoline," the letter reads in part, "seem to ignore the fact that a tax on gasoline is in reality a tax on the operation of motor vehicles and therefore a tax on the owners of motor vehicles.

"A special tax, such as the tax on gasoline, is justified only on the ground that the revenue is used for the benefit of those paying such special tax; but a special tax for general purposes, such as the proposed increase in the gasoline tax, is unjustifiable."

Your Scalp Is Entitled to 121,630 HAIRS

Does It Have Them?

If you are a blonde your scalp should have 140,000 hairs; if a red-head, 90,000 will suffice, while a brunette needs 120,000 to meet present day requirements. The average healthy head of hair should have 121,630 hairs.

Nature provides your scalp with the necessary structure to grow this quantity of hair, but you yourself must help this hair-growing structure to function properly. If you have dandruff; if your hair is falling; or if your scalp is itchy you are surely on the road to baldness.

Let Thomas help your scalp make its quota. Thomas will overcome your falling hair and actually promote hair growth on the thin and bald spots. Each day Thomas is helping more than 1,600 persons to retain or regain their normal heads of hair—and can do the same for you. ★ The MOST EXPENSIVE tablecloth in the world—fashioned of Rosaline and Pointe D-Argetan lace in exquisite scroll design. An importation from the collection of A. E. Munyer, Inc.

Most People wouldn't know this Difference...

TO average people this is "just another tablecloth"—beautiful, of course, but no different from other lace cloths. It is the particular lace—so rare in workmanship and design as to be almost priceless—which makes the difference.

To average people, also, Pebeco is "just another tooth paste"—effective, of course, but not substantially different from others. They do not know that it contains a substance not found in others, an ingredient so helpful to the teeth that it puts Pebeco quite definitely in a class by itself.

This expensive ingredient (comprising 40% of every tube, but too costly for other tooth pastes to use) makes its presence known by a distinctive tingling sensation—a tang which confirms the fact that Pebeco is at work.

★ Pebeco is the MOST EXPENSIVE tooth paste in the world to make. But its cost to you is no higher than that of the average dentifrice.

Pebeco is not doctored with pleasant but useless flavors or loaded with foaming soap. Its formula is business-like—designed to give your teeth the help they need.

If you are a person of discernment—capable of realizing this difference, you will join the unswerving circle of Pebeco users today.

Who is today's BUYER in the St. Louis Market?

THERE is no guesswork about it.

The report of the St. Louis Survey, just issued by the American Association of Advertising Agencies, shows the real buying power of every one of the 357,256 families in St. Louis and its suburban area.

Note the chart. There is the essence of the entire report. And note how closely The Globe-Democrat parallels the real buying power in this rich, responsive, billion-dollar portion of this market.

It is the families in the four upper income groups who make the real market for any manufacturer.

And it is more than significant that as the income increases in each group, The Globe-Democrat coverage of that group also increases.

The Buyers who make the St. Louis Market so important are the readers who make The Globe-Democrat circulation such a sure path to consumer preference in this great market.

Of the $1,109,148,050 spendable income in this responsive market, 80.73%, or $895,371,150, is controlled by the four upper income groups. And in these groups, The Globe-Democrat concentrates 72.47% of its daily city and suburban circulation.

Clearly, The Globe-Democrat holds the open door to St. Louis buying power.

Here is a market that is as opportune as it is impressive—a market that awaits every manufacturer of a meritorious product. And the means of capturing it, confirmed so accurately by the AAAA Survey, are yours to command through the columns of just one newspaper—The Globe-Democrat.

The media department of your advertising agency will be glad to place a copy of this report in your hands. Be sure to read it—the very next thing you do!

Newspapers Can Sell Your Merchandise NOW!

How the A.A.A.A. INVESTIGATION* Confirms THE GLOBE-DEMOCRAT'S CONTROL of St. Louis and its Suburban Area

Under the supervision of its Research Director, Dr. Daniel Starch, the A.A.A.A. (American Association of Advertising Agencies*) has just completed its survey of the St. Louis market. This survey shows that the 357,256 families in St. Louis and its suburban area possess a total purchasing power (annual income) of $1,109,148,050. As shown below, The daily Globe-Democrat concentrates 72.47% of its city and suburban circulation in 80.73% of this billion dollar portion of the market. The higher the income group, the greater the Globe-Democrat coverage.

2.10% of the Families (income $10,000 and up) account for 15.22% of the wealth ($168,795,000)

The Daily GLOBE-DEMOCRAT is read by 93.64% of this group.

8.13% of the Families (income $5,000 to $10,000) account for 17.68% of the wealth ($196,053,750)

The Daily GLOBE-DEMOCRAT is read by 78.75% of this group.

22.74% of the Families (income $3,000 to $5,000) account for 26.37% of the wealth ($292,442,400)

The Daily GLOBE-DEMOCRAT is read by 67.95% of this group.

26.66% of the Families (income $2,000 to $3,000) account for 21.46% of the wealth ($238,080,000)

The Daily GLOBE-DEMOCRAT is read by 46.56% of this group.

Spending power lessens below this line. It is because of the high coverage of the larger income groups that The Globe-Democrat is so signally successful in developing the entire St. Louis market for one manufacturer after another.

34.77% of the Families (income $1,000 to $2,000) account for 17.92% of the wealth ($198,766,400)

The Daily GLOBE-DEMOCRAT is read by 35.67% of this group.

5.60% of the Families (income up to $1,000) account for 1.35% of the wealth ($15,010,500)

The Daily GLOBE-DEMOCRAT is read by 24.32% of this group.

★The American Association of Advertising Agencies comprises agencies placing about three-fourths of the national advertising of The United States.

This is the tenth of a series of surveys which this impartial organization has conducted under the supervision of its Research Director, Dr. Daniel Starch eminent research consultant and business analyst. The strength of this investigation lies in the fact that it was made by the AAAA, for the impartial guidance of its members in the selection of markets and advertising media.

Remember this survey covers only the Urban and Suburban portion of the 49th state. Beyond this area the Globe Democrat covers the rest of this famous 49th state market as no other paper even claims to do.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

POLAND TRIES 11 POLITICAL CHIEFS IN REVOLT PLOT

Accused of Trying to Wreck Pilsudski Rule.

BY M. NOWINSKI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Oct. 26.—The greatest political trial in the history of modern Poland opened today. Eleven political leaders appeared in the district court of Warsaw to answer to charges that they had conspired to overthrow the dictatorship of Marshal Pilsudski by force.

Among the defendants are Wincenty Witos, three times premier and who, together with Marshal Pilsudski, shared credit of the victory over the bolsheviks in 1920; Wladyslaw Kiernink, twice minister of the interior and Poland's foremost peasant leader; Hermany Liberman, who as attorney general successfully prosecuted Pilsudski's former minister of finance, Czechowicz, and Norbert Balicki, former minister of public works.

In Prison 14 Months.

All of the accused have been confined in the military fortress at Brest-Litovsk for fourteen months, where, their supporters charge, they suffered extreme hardships and were mistreated. Of the eleven defendants, seven are members of the new parliament and were elected while in prison.

The list of indictments against the defendants follows:

Organizing a plot to overthrow the Pilsudski government between 1928 and 1930; inciting the public to disobey the government and to withhold taxes; forming revolutionary centers and arming peasants and workmen; creation of a central revolutionary organistion which called a convention in Crakow and demanded President Moscicki's resignation, and mobilization of the masses for a march on Warsaw.

The prisoners are being tried under the old czarist code still in force, and face a sentence of one to ten years in prison at hard labor.

70 Lawyers for Defense.

Seventy leading lawyers of Poland are defending the eleven without fee. The battery of counsel for defense is under the direction of Attorney Berenson, former Polish chargé d'affaires in Washington. The government has called 186 witnesses and the defense more than 300.

The huge courtroom has been reconstructed to accommodate the hundreds expected to attend the trial, which, it is believed, will last two weeks.

DEMAND STATE PAY FOR COSTS OF EXTRADITION

R. W. Dvorak, assistant operating director of the Chicago crime commission, yesterday sent a letter to State's Attorney Swanson protesting against the practice of the state's attorney's office in requiring complaining witnesses to pay the costs of extraditing criminals from other states to Chicago to stand prosecution.

Mr. Dvorak cited several instances in which complainants had been compelled to lay out considerable sums in bringing criminals to justice, an expense which under the crime commission's interpretation of the law should be borne by the state.

His leter was inspired by the case of William Jeffries, 2975 Prairie avenue, who is seeking to bring Oscar Miller, a con man, to Chicago from Fort Worth, Tex., where Miller is under arrest. The state's attorney demands Jeffries pay $200 costs. Mr. Dvorak discovered that Jeffries, who had given Miller $11,500 for an interest in a supposed counterfeiting machine, had already made trips to three cities after Miller, and that in each case Miller had given a phony bond and escaped.

Slayer of Stepdaughter Gets Life Term in Prison

Sigurd Soross, 38 years old, 2224 North Lawndale avenue, pleaded guilty to murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court yesterday. He beat his stepdaughter, Ruth Einersen, 17 years old, to death with a hammer on Aug. 12 as the girl slept in her bed at Soross's home. After the slaying Soross tried to kill himself by slashing his wrists and by drowning in the lake.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Miss Ruth Nichols of Rye, N. Y., escaped injury today when she leaped from her flaming monoplane as it stood on the takeoff line for a flight to New York.

The society aviatrix, who was severely hurt when she made a hasty landing last June at St. John, N. B., was ready to complete a transcontinental flight when gasoline ignited and set fire to her $25,000 plane.

Miss Nichols said later that her plans would depend on the advice of Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic pilot, who will come here to inspect the plane.

She landed here yesterday morning after a nonstop flight from Oakland, Cal., in which she was believed to have established a nonstop distance record for women.

Miss Nichols' plane caught fire when a dump valve leaked gasoline as she prepared for the takeoff. Apparently the gasoline spray was ignited by the exhaust from the motor. Not understanding the signals of the mechanics nearby, she barely escaped injury by leaping from the window of the ship's cabin. Her jump was broken by mechanics, but her escape was made difficult by the steel corset she has worn since the St. John crack-up.

"BRIDGE WAR" IS PUT OFF A WEEK BY COURT DELAY

"Alfalfa Bill's" Troops Withdrawn.

Durant, Okla., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray's National Guardsmen pitched their tents at the Red river free bridge again today, found the "war" had been postponed and went back home—for another week, anyway.

The bellicose executive called out the guard by telegram from a dimly lit depot at Atoka, Okla., before dawn, thus beating to the draw attorneys for the Red River Bridge company, owners of a parallel toll span.

However, a mixup in dates caused Federal Judge John C. Pollock to miss hearing the toll bridge company's plea for a blockade on the free span, kept open under martial law since last July. The hearing then was tentatively set for Kansas City, Kas., next Monday.

Injunctions Sought.

The toll bridge company asks that the free structure be closed pending settlement of its claim for damages against the states of Oklahoma and Texas arising from the opening of the competitive span. An injunction restraining interference with toll bridge travel also is sought.

"The bridge will remain open," said Murray, after inspecting his nineteen soldiers at the bridge and ordering them withdrawn "for the time being." Whether the soldiers will be back on the job next Monday he wouldn't say definitely.

In shirt sleeves, "Alfalfa Bill" glanced approvingly at the tents pitched near the bridge, sat down beside the sleepy river to give his order for troop withdrawal to Capt. Don Atkinson, snapped a pair or new red "galluses" a few times and called it a day, soon leaving for Oklahoma City.

Last Fracas in July.

Both bridges have been open since an "armistice" was reached in last July's fracas, which saw federal injunctive power and Texas rangers used to keep the free bridge closed and Oklahoma Guardsmen called out to open it.

Gov. Murray retained a state of martial law at the free bridge tonight, but he made it clear he would not interfere with the toll span.

MASKED BANDIT ROBS LOOP HOTEL; FLEES WITH $600

An armed man, with a handkerchief masking his face, entered an office of the Planter's hotel, Clark street near Madison street, late yesterday afternoon and forced the bookkeeper, Mrs. Elizabeth Bedford, to hand him more than $600 in pay roll envelopes. He fled down the stairs and escaped. Employés of the hotel were being paid off during the afternoon and according to Mrs. Bedford disbursements had been made to about two-thirds of the workers before the robber appeared. A search was ordered for an ex-employé of the hotel, who was seen in the lobby shortly before the holdup.

ITALY IS WARNED AGAINST DRAWING GOLD FROM U. S.

Business Heads Say It May Cause Disorders.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 26.—With the announcement tonight that another cargo of gold from New York, destined for the Bank of Italy's vaults, is on the way to Rome, warnings were issued by some of Italy's big business men that continued migration of gold may be the cause of new financial disorders in Europe.

Neither the dollar value of this shipment nor of previous ones was made known, but it is presumed to be a continuation of the Bank of Italy's plan to increase its yellow metal coverage to 40 per cent. The coverage now is about 38 per cent.

Counseling prudence against the gold flow to Europe, Gino Olivetti, a member of the budget committee, tonight declared that countries to which gold is flowing are exposing themselves to the risk of developing capital instability.

A difference of opinion regarding the cause of economic troubles exists between Premier Mussolini and some of the big industrial leaders. Alberto Pierelli, internationally known economist, was attacked tonight by the syndicalist organ, Lavoro Fascista, for having told the International Chamber of Commerce in Paris that the present world crisis was due to a psychological "disequilibrium," and is therefore reparable.

Mussolini yesterday in his speech at Naples declared the whole economic machinery of the world has been completely smashed to pieces. Fascism, says the apper, believes Mussolini and not Pierelli.

WOMEN'S GROUP 'TO HELP VETS' UNDER INQUIRY

Leader Is Quizzed by Prosecutor.

Investigation of the Daughters of the Republic maintaining state and national offices in the Congress Bank building with the avowed purpose of aiding disabled war veterans was started yesterday by the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office. Mrs. Letitia Baldwin, national commander, was questioned by Assistant State's attorney Charles E. Lounsbury.

Lounsbury's action followed complaints of several prominent persons that their names had been given as sponsors without their approval in letterheads sent out by the organization. After a conference with representatives of the Chicago Better Business bureau, Mrs. Baldwin promised to explain her activities and show all records of financial transactions to the business bureau.

Complaint Is Investigated.

Among complaints being investigated by the racket bureau was one that Mrs. Baldwin had solicited memberships in an employment bureau from the inmates of the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital.

Business men were solicited for donations of food and flowers, which the campaign letters of the organization stated were to be sent to hospitalized soldiers. Office space is being donated by a real estate concern, Mrs. Baldwin said. She admitted using the names of prominent persons without their authorization, but said that she considered their donations a tacit approval giving the right of using their names for endorsements.

Probed by Business Bureau.

Investigation of the Daughters of the Republic has been carried on by the Better Business bureau, which has warned business men against the organization.

Mrs. Baldwin said her organization was planning to give a benefit ball at the Drake hotel on Thursday. She said the ballroom had been donated. Funds will go to the organization "to carry on," she said.

Burn Tent of Evangelist Who Figured in Riots

Jonesboro, Ark., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A tent tabernacle of the Rev. Joe Jeffers, Baptist evangelist, who was the center of a church dispute here recently that grew in violence until troops were sent to patrol the town, was destroyed early today by a fire which he accused his "enemies" of starting. Authorities concurred with him in suspecting incendiarism and began an investigation.

Chicago's Fastest Way to Wall Street

MEN of affairs, whose time is money, have learned to value the time-saving convenience of arriving in New York on one of the Pennsylvania's four 20-hour flyers.

If you have business in Wall Street, these flyers can save you many valuable minutes and the long ride uptown and back. Simply get off at Manhattan Transfer, where a train is waiting to take you to Hudson Terminal right in the financial district.

Meanwhile we will take care of your luggage—you will find it at your hotel when you register there.

Or, if you prefer to arrive in Pennsylvania Station, you can get to Wall Street from there, over the new West Side Express Highway, in less than 15 minutes.

Within a few blocks of Pennsylvania Station are New York's great hotels—famous theatres—shopping district—midtown business centers. Hudson Terminal is in the heart of the downtown business and financial region. To the two hearts of Manhattan, these Pennsylvania flyers are Chicago's fastest way.

And they lead a fleet of 17 fast trains daily.

• • •

Thirteen trains daily to Baltimore and Washington; led by the famous Liberty Limited. There's no faster way except by air.

THE BANKER

"sits in" on Advertising

THE Banker is a familiar figure at advertising discussions, today...with his requests for facts and figures, with his pertinent queries as to cost and result.

While bankers are firm believers in advertising, they have no patience with the mystery with which it is sometimes surrounded.

Audit reports of newspaper circulations show one newspaper that is outstanding, reaching ninety-one per cent. of Philadelphia homes. The Philadelphia Bulletin's circulation is entirely net paid; premiums, prizes or contests have never been used.

The Bulletin's cost is $1.16* per milline (65c an agate line). A little comparing proves that this is its lowest cost in years, that it is far lower than the cost of any other great newspaper.

There are no intangibles about advertising in Philadelphia. If the product fills a need, if the sales work is first-class and the advertising well conceived... then The Bulletin's 560,855 daily circulation will influence sales in ninety-one per cent. of Philadelphia homes at sixty-five cents a line—the greatest coverage at the lowest cost of any great market in America.

*Milline is a term denoting the cost of a line of advertising (one-fourteenth of an inch) printed in one million copies of any publication. It gives a basis upon which to compare the cost of publications with different rates and circulations. It is computed by dividing the circulation into the rate, multiplied by one million.

SUPREME COURT HEARS LIFE FOR PINT CASE TODAY

Seek to Clear Palm by Unique Appeal.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Michigan Supreme court tomorrow will hear arguments in the habeas corpus proceeding instituted by A. Stanley Copeland of Buffalo, N. Y., in behalf of Fred Palm, former liquor law lifer, whose unconditional release is being sought.

Copeland arrived in Lansing today to be ready for appearance in behalf of Palm. He is not an attorney, but is being permitted to appear by special dispensation of the court. The state's case will probably be handled by Edward A. Blittikie, assistant attorney general.

Palm Nearing End of Term.

Palm is now nearing completion of his commuted 7½ to 15 year term in Jackson prison. He was committed in the fall of 1927, following passage of the new criminal code which contained a habitual criminal section providing a mandatory life sentence for persons convicted of four felonies. A pint of gin was seized in his residence here and his plea of guilty to possession of liquor made him the first victim of the stringent law, as he had been convicted of three or more felonies previously.

Several other "life for a pint" victims were sentenced before the law was modified by the 1929 legislature, the habitual criminal section being altered so that only offenders whose fourth crime would ordinarily draw a sentence of five years or more would suffer the life penalty. As the same legislature altered the prohibition act to prevent maximum terms for liquor violators of more than four years, further extreme application of the law to this type of offender was halted.

Commuted to New Law Term.

For secondary fourth felonies, however, a term of 7½ to 15 years was provided and Fred W. Green, then governor, commuted the sentence of Palm accordingly.

Copeland is expected to present a novel case in behalf of Palm, as he attacks the validity of the state prohibition law which bans manufacture or sale of beverages with any alcoholic content whatsoever. He claims this law contravenes the scriptures and is unconstitutional since the state constitution's preamble recognizes divine law.

Michigan to Force Showdown on Hushed Up Rum Shooting

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Fed up with tactics of the United States customs service on refusing to name the two border patrolmen responsible for the wounding, Sept. 20, of Frank Ramsay, the state of Michigan took steps to force a showdown today. It got partial results immediately.

SEYMOUR LOWMAN. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dr. L. C. Linson and Roy Metz of Marine hospital, who treated Ramsay, and who also had been protected in the hushed affair, surrendered. But as yet the names of the patrolmen have not been divulged.

County Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, and his assistant in charge of the shooting investigation, George S. Fitzgerald, went into action with three major shots. They were:

1. That a telegram to Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, has been sent demanding the surrender of all federal agents concerned with the Ramsay case.

2. That if the agents are not brought in, investigators will be sent out for them and if they succeed in dodging such efforts——

3. A one man grand jury investigation will be ordered and every wheel of the state legal machinery will be put into motion to prove that federal agents and federal surgeons are not above the Michigan criminal code.

Defied by Federal Chief.

Toy and Fitzgerald wheeled into battle when their efforts to find out what happened on Sept. 20 when Ramsay was wounded met with absolute defiance on the part of Col. Helrich A. Pickert, collector of customs and chief of the border patrol.

Ramsay was wounded above the heart when two agents found him assisting in unloading eighteen cases of beer on Grosse Ile.

Fearful of the public reaction to another river shooting case on top of the wounding of Arthur Gajeski, passenger on the excursion steamer Ste. Claire government officials had Ramsay secretly treated at the Marine hospital and no report of his wounding was made as required by the Michigan criminal code.

Today when Col. Pickert had continued to ignore the demands of the state for the names of the agents, Toy sent the following telegram to Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury.

"Col. Pickert has been requested to produce officers involved in Ramsay shooting for questioning, but there has been no action by him to grant the request. His failure to act has hampered impartial investigation and precipitated controversy. We therefore request you to instruct Pickert to produce officers and others involved so the investigation can be completed speedily."

At the same time Fitzgerald was in telephone conversation with Dr. Linson, chief of staff at the Marine hospital.

He told Linson that he had failed to fulfill his promise to appear with Metz voluntarily Saturday and again this morning for questioning.

"We have tried to be broadminded in this investigation," Fitzgerald told him, "but if you don't come in we shall use the means at our command to bring you in. We've been trifling with you government people long enough. If you continue to refuse to come in of your own accord, we'll send out and bring you in."

Doctors Surrender.

It was following this that Dr. Linson and Dr. Metz appeared in company with Assistant U. S. Attorney William G. Comb, but defied efforts of Fitzgerald to question them. They said they would request permission of the surgeon general of the public health service to answer his questions. Fitzgerald, obviously angered, said:

"You knew damned well what we wanted and you have had plenty of time to request permission from your chief. The state doesn't have to await the whim or fancy of the surgeon general. If that's the way you feel about it, we will take appropriate action in the morning."

Fitzgerald indicated warrants charging the two surgeons with violation of criminal code, in failing to report treatment of a gunshot victim, will be recommended Tuesday morning.

Fitzgerald also disclosed that, following his wounding, Ramsay was driven through the chill October air 20 miles to the Marine hospital with his clothing soaking wet, subjecting him to the danger of pneumonia. This route, it was revealed, led past at least half a dozen hospitals with facilities to treat Ramsay's wound.

75 BLIND FORM A HUMAN CHAIN TO FLEE FROM FIRE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Their labors disrupted by fire, 100 men and women, 75 of them sightless, formed human chains and fled the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, at 434 Boulevard of the Allies, today.

Clouds of smoke from broom straw in the basement billowed through the five story brick building as the workers placed their hands on each others shoulders and walked in small groups to nearby refuges.

A dog, the constant companion and guide of one blind man, led one group. Employes who can see led others. Some marched out of the front entrance. Others went down a fire escape in the rear. All remained orderly as fumes filled the building from cellar to top floor and none were injured.

Firemen, donning gas masks, went through a basement trap into the basement, dragging lines of hose to battle the flames, which were extinguished.

The fire started a second time about two hours later, but was put out with chemicals. Twenty-five girls, stenographers and secretaries, fled the offices of the association and a dozen blind men, working in the chair caning department on the third floor, again were led to safety by Billie, police dog of E. F. Miller, 6340 Marchant street, their foreman.

Titus Haffa Plans Pauper Plea to Avoid U. S. Fine

Titus A. Haffa, former alderman of the 43d ward, who served 17 months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, will remain under the supervision of probation officers until Nov. 21, it was learned yesterday. Haffa was paroled from the penitentiary on Sept. 21. At the expiration of his parole on Oct. 21 he decided to remain under supervision an additional month so that he might be eligible to file a pauper's petition to avoid payment of the $10,000 fine he owes the government.

DODGE, FOE OF REMUS, IS GIVEN PRISON SENTENCE

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Franklin L. Dodge Jr., former department of justice agent, who several years ago was named in sensational charges by George Remus, former Cincinnati bootleg king, was sentenced today to thirty months in prison for perjury.

Dodge, a resident of Lansing, Mich., pleaded guilty in federal court here to the charge, which grew out of his testimony in a liquor trial at Savannah, Ga.

Remus' charges against the agent were made shortly after the liquor baron finished serving a penitentiary sentence for violating the liquor laws. Remus charged Dodge had persecuted him and that Dodge was rival for Mrs. Remus' affections.

Remus shot his wife to death in October, 1927, was adjudged insane and liberated from a state hospital shortly afterwards.

Dodge is to be held in jail here pending orders from Washington as to where he will be placed in prison.

TURN USED MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT INTO CASH!

MACHINERY and equipment of all kinds can be turned into cash quickly by advertising them for sale in the Machinery and Equipment column of the Tribune Want Ad Section, a recognized market place patronized regularly by thousands of business men.

JOBS FOR IDLE MONEY!

Plenty of profitable jobs for idle money are offered in the Partnerships and Investments column of the Sunday Tribune Want Ad Section! Firms, sound in every detail, but lacking capital for expansion, or requiring more able executive supervision, offer substantial interests to investors. The offers appearing in this column are bona fide. The Tribune investigates them thoroughly before acceptance. If you want to invest your money, or your money and services, it will pay you to watch the offers in this column.

COLLECTOR'S PARADISE

Collectors keep close watch on the Arts and Antiques column in the Tribune Want Ad Section! If you have paintings, pieces of old pottery, antique furniture, tapestries, collections of rare manuscripts, weapons, curios, or of anything else to sell, here is a good place to advertise them.

There Is No Substitute for Tribune Want Ads!

The Tribune prints 33 per cent more classified advertising than the second newspaper!

LOOKING FOR AN APARTMENT?

The quick, easy way to find an apartment is to use the columns of the Tribune Want Ad Section. Desirable apartments are listed there every day, classified for your convenience according to location and number of rooms. The kind of home you want, renting for a price you want to pay, may be in today's Tribune Want Ad Section!

HAVE YOU A WHITE ELEPHANT IN YOUR OFFICE?

Calculating machines, letter folders, letter sealers, multigraph, mimeograph, and addressograph units, check protectors, and postage stampers no longer in use must be stored somewhere. What you pay for storage space adds to the cost of your overhead. Why not sell these no longer needed devices? There's a live market place for them in the Office Devices column of the Tribune Want Ad section!

NEED SOMETHING? TRADE FOR IT!

Dozens of people use the Barter and Exchange column each Sunday to get things they want without spending one cent for them. They trade real estate for a used car; used cars for radios, washing machines, musical instruments, or personal services for apartment rent. Get what you want. Place a want ad in the Barter and Exchange column of next Sunday's Tribune.

A TIP FROM EXPERIENCE

Want to sell the family car quickly? Do as the leaders in the used car market do. Auto agencies operating large used car departments depend on Tribune Want Ads! Years of experience and success have proved to them that used car selling is an easier job when they canvass the largest number of prospects. The Tribune is read by more families in Chicago and suburbs than any other newspaper!

TO DISPOSE OF EXTRA HOUSEHOLD ARTICLES

Here's an easy way to raise cash on household articles you no longer need. For example, such things as an ice box, a sewing machine, a gas stove, furniture of all kinds, books, paintings, or rugs. Tell a Tribune Adtaker about them. She will help you word an eye-catching, inquiry-producing Tribune Want Ad!

'Sarah Defiant' Tells Story of Grand Passion

It's Latest Novel by Mary Borden.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Sarah Defiant," by Mary Borden. [Doubleday-Doran.]

THIS is not a story with a moral. It's a love story, but since its subject is the passion of love it must deal with the morals of those people, for their morals went to pieces under its influence. Love, an element of confusion in the world, disruptive, destructive, recognized as dangerous, like fire or lightning, rightly feared by those responsible for the maintenance of law and order in civilized communities and churchmen had planned to harness it, coop it up, channel and control its enormous energy, as engineers do the water power of rushing rivers and cataracts. Powerful as steam in a dynamo, propelling men and women erratically this way and that, driving them to do very unreasonable and very unjust things, and then blinding them to the iniquity of their cruel actions with visions of its own celestial beauty, it had seized on these two little individuals, and this story tells of what they did because they loved each other."

MARY BORDEN.

The Mary Borden begins chapter one of "Sarah Defiant," stating in a paragraph its theme and its plot. In the next paragraph she describes the emotions which motivates the two main characters of the book: better, it seems to me, than she makes it evident through three hundred-odd pages. It is plain that the relationship between Sir Jem and the heroine, as the author sees it, is just such a "celestial beauty," "disruptive, destructive force" all in one, but somehow it is a force which the reader sees in the printed word, rather than feels. Mary Borden describes that love and its effects upon the characters and lives of her main puppets, but she does not make the reader feel the utter inevitability of the actions which it induces. She says that Sarah knew there was no choice when she knew that the man she loved was wounded, probably fatally. Her husband might be in Paris on his last leave for two years, but John called her. The author tells you that there was no choice, but she doesn't make you know that what Sarah did was inevitable, any more than she makes you know that it was not a question of shall I or don't I when Sarah came back to be a widow and almed a revolver at her husband's mistress. The reader is prepared for abnormal actions by Mary Borden's brilliant summing up of the relationship between her heroine and her hero in that paragraph on page 77. [He has seen a few of them already.] For love is certainly not a state of normality.

By its very complete removal from the commonplace of living is it love. That is why love can both wreck and build with god-like insouciance. The reader wants to believe, as the author does, that her characters' actions are as inevitable as the tides and the sunrise—both of which natural phenomena are often and justly called upon to describe true love's power and glory. But, somehow, Sarah and her John just are not the epic characters which are swept by nature into a cosmic passion. Their story is not the great, the supreme love story. The author sees it as such and almost makes it so, but misses that most difficult of all marks.

OTTO KAHN RESIGNS; PAUL D. CRAVATH NEW METROPOLITAN HEAD

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Otto H. Kahn resigned today his dual post of president and chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Opera company, Paul D. Cravath, corporation lawyer, was elected to replace Mr. Kahn in both. Mr. Kahn is to remain a member of the board of directors.

Mr. Kahn gave as the reasons for his retirement the increased demands on his time and working capacity by the death of his partner, Mortimer L. Schiff.

"In justice to my business, my associates, my family and my health, I have had to reach the decision to divest myself of outside activities, as far as possible," Mr. Kahn's statement said. Mr. Kahn is a member of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Mr. Kahn indicated that he proposed the name of Mr. Cravath as his successor at the board meeting. He added that "no changes whatever in the direction or personnel of the Metropolitan Opera company are contemplated.

Good morning!

WAS Margot Rande wicked?

Should she not have tried to protect her husband?

Was it HER fault that the gun just went off and maimed a policeman?

Was it just to send her to jail when she was to become a mother?

Because of the magnificent acting of Elissa Landi, "Wicked" deserves your patronage. For a woman who has never been a mother, her portrayal of the distraught heroine of this story is little short of marvelous.

Irene Rich is wistfully charming as the gentle, unhappy woman who adopts Margot's baby. Theodore Von Elts' brief appearances are impressive. Una Merkel, as a chatty blond, is funny, and women portraying jail types are convincing.

Victor McLaglen looking strangely ill at ease in the rôle of romantic benefactor, and voicing noble sentiments in irreproachable language, plays his featured rôle with dogged determination. Like the law and the gospel, he is always there. Edmund Breese, as Miss Rich's husband, overdoes a diabetical tantrum or two.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

The Squeeze Again.

Again we have the depression play, more technically known as the squeeze. The chance for using the squeeze arises with surprising frequency and is almost as often missed. Yesterday's hand was:

NORTH
♥—5,4,3
♦—A,8,5

WEST
♥—K,Q,J,8,3
♦—K,7,5

EAST
♠—10,7,6,5
♥—10,7
♦—J,10,9,2
♣—K,6,3

SOUTH (Dealer).
♠—A,K,J,2
♦—Q,6,4
♣—Q,9,4

South dealt and bid a spade. He had a choice between a bid of one spade and a bid of one no trump and, of course, preferred the spade bid. West bid two hearts. North took out with a bid of three clubs. East passed and South pondered.

He could not rebid the spades (four card suits must never be rebid after denial by partner) and game did not look likely at a minor. No trump seemed the only possible, game producing declaration, though the bid was risky with but a single stop in West's heart suit. South finally decided to risk it and bid three no trumps.

West opened with the ♥ K, which held, and followed with the Q, which South took with the A. From the lead South placed the J in West's hand, and when East played the 10, decided that a further hold up of his A would be useless since he felt sure that East had no more hearts.

South then finessed the ♣ Q, on which East played the 3, allowing the Q to make. If South had held no more clubs, East's hold up of the K would have killed dummy's club suit, since the ♦ A was the only entry to dummy's hand.

South then led the ♣ 9, playing the 8 from dummy, and East took the trick with the K, leading the ♦ J. South played the ♦ 4 from his own hand and the 5 from dummy. East then led the ♦ 10. South now despairing of saving his Q played it on the 10. West covered with the K, dummy taking the trick with the A. South now played the ♠ 4 from his dummy, taking the trick with the A in his own hand. He followed with the return of the ♣ 4, which dummy took with the A. Dummy now led the ♣ J, on which South played the ♦ 6.

South now led the ♣ 10 from dummy and East discarded the ♠ 6 (if East had kept the spade and thrown the diamond, dummy's ♦ 8 would have been good). South threw the ♥ 9 and East the ♠ 8. South then led the ♠ 9 from dummy, took it with the K in his own hand, and his two remaining spades were good.

If, on the tenth trick, West had thrown the ♥ 8 in place of throwing the ♠ 8, it would have cost South a trick, but he would still have made game. In these circumstances he would not have led the ♠ 9 from dummy on the eleventh trick, but would have led the ♥ 5, putting West in the lead. West then would have been compelled to lead spades up to South's K-J.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

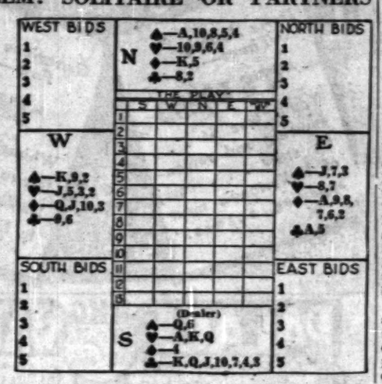

Chicago Tribune.

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card, cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 2, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

'Star Bumping Sun Started Solar System'

Dutch Astronomer Says So in Washington.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A terrific collision between the sun and a passing star was advanced tonight as the cause of the birth of the sun and other planets by Prof. Willem De Sitter, noted Dutch astronomer.

The passing star, he said, pulled material off the sun, and the larger fragments became the planets. The momentum of the star, transmitted by the collision, started the sun and planets all whirling in the same direction through space.

Such a collision, he continued, is the only satisfactory way of explaining why the sun and all the planets revolve in the same direction, and why their orbits are almost circular and on almost the same plane or level. He spoke before the Washington Academy of Sciences and the society of Sigma Xi.

The satellites of the planets—such as the moon—were born in similar fashion, he said. They were pulled off from the planets by the sun's attraction, as the planets were drawn from the sun.

After the star pulled a huge filament of matter out from the sun, the planets circled about the sun, following an elliptical path, like a flattened circle. Gradually, however, their orbits became more like a true circle, due to friction from the gaseous material out in space. This friction now has "rounded out" the planets' orbits until they are almost perfect circles.

When the planets were following their early elliptical orbits they were much nearer the sun at some times than at others. At one of these times of passing near the sun, its attraction pulled off satellites from the planets. The satellites began circling the planets as the planets circled the sun.

Through mathematics and geology the "collision theory" has been checked and found satisfactory, Prof. De Sitter said. The time required for the gaseous material out in space to "round out" the orbit of the planet Mercury from its original elliptical shape to its present circular path has been calculated by mathematicians. It corresponds, they have discovered, to the age of the earth as calculated by geologists.

The collision theory, Prof. De Sitter asserted, supplants the former belief that the sun and planets were condensed from gaseous nebulae and the planets thrown off from the sun by centrifugal force.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

IN Mrs. Fiske's new play, a comedy by Carlos Drake called "Against the Wind," which had its première at the Blackstone theater last night, you will hear Lake Forest mentioned as New Forest, you will detect an allusion to Lake Geneva as Lake Leman and you will not fail to recognize a certain well known State street department store when it is referred to as Marshall Field's. These points are not important; I mention them merely to announce the fact that this play deals with our people—our best people, if you please, in their best clothes and their best drawing room manners—and to have done with that phase of the subject.

I leave the search for the "originals" of Mr. Drake's characters to the people who cling grimly to the superstition that whenever a Chicagoan writes anything for print or public performance he infallibly puts his relatives, friends, and enemies into his work. I leave the question of the play's fidelity to Lake Forest atmosphere to specialists in the fine shades of difference between one north shore suburb and another. So far as I am concerned, "Against the Wind" is merely another comedy of manners whose locale might be any community where tennis, golf, and "dressing for dinner" are standard customs.

The questions of importance, from my point of view, are: Has Mrs. Fiske acquired a good play in "Against the Wind"? Has she found a satisfactory rôle. And does she give a performance that adds new brilliance to her illustrious career as a comedienne?

The answer in each case, I regret to say, is No.

"Against the Wind" is three acts of pleasantly written dialogue, now and then hitting off a bright line, but its story is frail and of no emphatic interest, its trend is aimless, and its stage values are vague. As a playwright's début for Carlos Drake it is mildly promising; it reveals a facility for the light conversation, graced with strokes of wit, that comedies of manners require. Mr. Drake's characters talk persuasively—and too much. From their fluent communion, moreover, the spirit of drama is too often absent.

Mrs. Fiske's rôle in "Against the Wind" is so slightly concerned with the action that the play, I suspect, might be improved by its omission. She is a worldly dowager with three husbands in her background who serves as intermediary and referee in a clash between the older and the younger generations. She merely dawdles about, saying things with a certain air of sophistication and wisdom; and whenever the dramatic incidents threaten to become acute she frustrates the situation.

Mrs. Fiske, as the famous aunt of the family, fondly called "Tawney" because her hair is like that, goes about "clearing things up," as the saying goes. But before things should be cleared up in comedy, they should be complicated. Mrs. Fiske's "Tawney" might be a prodigious diplomat, a veritable female Metternich, for all I know, if she had some important plot-sized material to work upon. But in "Against the Wind" the crises that she deals with are trivial. They never arouse the famous Fiskian flutter.

So far as Mrs. Fiske's performance is concerned, it was verbally uncertain and physically feeble last night because of her recent illness. She seemed as frail as Duse on her farewell tour, and her grip upon her material was insecure. Final appraisal of the characterization should be reserved until later in the engagement.

Mrs. Fiske brings "Against the Wind" with an excellent cast and a handsome staging.

The date for THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Cards Bridge tournament has been set. It will be held the evening of Thursday, Dec. 3.

At 8:30 o'clock on that date all the thousands of contract and auction players—the auction devotees can play the hands at their own game—who have purchased packs of cards will be asked to start play on the first hand. The signal will be given by radio station W-G-N.

Every cent of the proceeds, above the actual cost of the cards, will go for relief purposes, THE TRIBUNE caring for all other expenses. The price per pack of cards will be $2. Four hands are to be played in the tournament, and each table needs four packs at a total cost of $8. As the cards will cost less than 40 cents a deck, each table will yield approximately $6.50.

Enthusiastic responses from volunteers who wish to take part in the tournament continued to arrive yesterday. Thirteen hotels sent in notice of their intentions to cooperate after the first announcement of the Golden Cards tournament. Eight more joined yesterday—each to have a party of from twenty-five to 100 or more tables.

These hotels are the Allerton, Bismarck, Belden-Stratford, Shoreland, Webster, Parkway, Copeland and Plaisance. Several of them plan to have recognized bridge experts to lecture to their guests directly on the fine points of play in the hands.

Cooperation from other cities already has been promised. Three newspapers, the Burlington, Ia., Hawkeye, the Gary, Ind., Post-Tribune and the Danville, Ill., Commercial-News have signified their intention to give their own golden cards tournaments. They will obtain their cards from THE TRIBUNE at the manufacturers' cost and distribute the proceeds to relief organizations in their own cities. Also the Elks club at South Bend, Ind., has announced a plan to have 200 players in their quarters for the tournament.

Rules for the play will be simple. The hands themselves will not be of extreme difficulty. Charles True Adams, bridge editor of THE TRIBUNE, who will choose the problems, said yesterday that players of average ability would find them interesting and not too hard. The rules will be announced in full from time to time and any doubt that may exist in players' minds will be dissipated by information broadcast by W-G-N fifteen minutes before the playing of the first hand is started.

Those who intend to participate in the tournament are requested to make it known as soon as possible. All that is necessary is to send in the coupon that is printed daily, together with $8, and this newspaper will do the rest. As the packs of cards are to be prearranged in hands, it must be known with some degree of certainty how many packs will be required, so the card makers can get to work on the special printing and sorting.

To persons who send in their orders now THE TRIBUNE guarantees that they will receive their cards several days before the tournament date. Those intending to play in large hotels which are cooperating may obtain tickets, each good for one pack of cards, from the management.

Charity needs the money. That's why this tournament is being given; so bridge players may have the same opportunity baseball and football fans have already had to help those in distress. The players have an opportunity to settle supremacy, to get into the finals where handsome trophies will be offered and will get packs of cards and the feeling of a good deed done. Sign up now!

Late Senator M'Cormick's Portrait Shown

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE Lake Shore Athletic club has just opened an exhibition of portraits and paintings by Julius L. Olson and decorative paintings by William R. Homann which is both interesting and entertaining. Most of the entertainment is developed by Mr. Homann. He offers portraits of curious fish that in their sometimes startlingly human attitudes force willing laughter. "The Marine Stables" is as whimsical as its name, for perched upon slender blades of sea grass cling sea horses, those funny little fish that never lose their fascination in aquariums or out.

Mr. Olson is decidedly the more effective of the two painters. His portraits are superb. "Kenny" is a delightful study of a boy, but it is as a painter of men that we see the artist's powers at their best. Among the many strong and lifelike portraits is an interesting head of the late Senator Medill McCormick, a human portrait in which the eyes are particularly fine.

At the Palette and Chisel club there has just opened an exhibit of flower paintings by Max Herzog. These are charming and many of them are brilliant. They are vivid and alive, fresh in color, and painted with an awareness of technique that differentiates between the sturdy character of the zinnia, the romantic loveliness of the white peony, and the fragile softness of the violet. In this connection mark the contrasting beauties of "Flowers in Sunlight" and "The Glass Basket."

At the O'Brien galleries there opened yesterday an exhibit of paintings by Carl Wuermer, who is noted for the meticulous perfection of his foregrounds. Noted he is, too, for the exquisite tracery of his tree branches and leaves, and for the rolling depths of his landscape.

Food Talk

It's a temptation, when sausages are mentioned, not to say, "What! Sausages? Don't you mean sausages and waffles?" And sometimes we do mean just that, and yet by no means should we limit the serving of the crisp little links to the one combination.

Foods relatively high in fat content play their part in fall and winter menus, and one of the most attractive of them is fresh pork sausage. Whether you prefer to make dainty patties from the bulk sausage or to serve crisp links, both are equally good and appropriate at this time.

The success of cooking sausage is no trick if the cook remembers to place the patties or links in a cold skillet. Prick each link with a fork before cooking, and the links will keep their shape and not burst the skins. Then cover and cook over a slow fire for about ten minutes, turning frequently in the beginning to prevent the meat from sticking to the pan. Pour off the excess fat and increase the heat, and, lastly, uncover and brown the sausages. Drain on brown paper and remove to a hot platter for serving.

Though we are prone to consider pork sausage a breakfast article of diet, it has its place in luncheon and supper menus, too.

For luncheon cook the links or patties as directed and place them on a serving platter in your warming oven. Remove the skins from the number of bananas needed, allowing one banana for each person to be served; cut in halves lengthwise and squeeze a few drops of lemon juice on each half. Roll in flour and sauté in the pork drippings until a light brown color. Alternate in placing the bananas on the platter with the sausages and serve immediately. Patties rolled in cracker or bread crumbs, and topped with a slice of onion, a slice of tomato, and a mushroom cap, make a grand supper dish. Bake these in a casserole in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] for about 45 minutes.

LAMB STEW EN CASSEROLE.
Cold roast lamb, cut in cubes
8 slices of diced bacon
6 small onions, sliced
3 tablespoons of flour
3 cups of hot water
2 teaspoons of salt
Dash of pepper
4 medium carrots, diced
6 potatoes

Cook the bacon and remove from the pan. Brown the onions in the bacon fat and remove also. Dredge the meat with flour and brown in the same fat. Stir the flour into the bacon drippings; add the water and continue stirring until the gravy boils. Place the meat and other ingredients except the potatoes in a casserole; season and pour over them the gravy and bake in a slow oven [300 degrees Fahrenheit] until the vegetables are tender—about one and one-half hours. In the meantime cook and mash the potatoes. Cover the cooked stew with them and brown lightly in a hot oven.

BAKED SPINACH.
2 cups of cooked spinach
4 hard boiled eggs, sliced
½ cup of buttered bread crumbs
1 cup of milk
2 tablespoons of flour
2 tablespoons of butter
½ teaspoon of salt
⅛ teaspoon of pepper
2 tablespoons of grated cheese

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, salt, pepper, and milk. Place a few bread crumbs in the bottom of a baking dish; add half the drained spinach, then a layer of sliced eggs and half of the white sauce. Sprinkle over this one tablespoon of cheese. Repeat. Cover the top of the dish with the remaining bread crumbs. Bake in a hot oven [450 degrees Fahrenheit] until brown.

Yield: Four to six servings.

Doris Advises Woman to Build New Life if Marriage Is Failure

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Married just a short while and, for only a brief spell, happy. Then things began to happen. The husband's job is a public one. He met quite a few women, started running around with them, started drinking, then lying about business dates that lasted late into the night.

He began to complain if his wife asked him to take her anywhere. She tried to get a renewed hold on him. She took an interest in sports, fights, plays, and all the things that seemed to intrigue him, meanwhile keeping their home on a well run basis. For at time it worked. Then one day he walked out and never did return.

"The worst of my trouble is," confides the wife, "I love him. I've been faithful all my life to him. He was and is the only man in my life. I am modern enough in some ways—but toward matrimony I hold the old-fashioned belief that there should be but one marriage.

"Are all men like this today? Do none of them have ideals? Doesn't a wife mean anything? Is it only the woman who cares? Do men ever return and behave as they should?"

The most important stand to take under the circumstances is not to get sour on men and marriage and faithful wifehood. That doesn't help the disposition. And if you have to go out and blaze another trail, the best equipment you can carry along is a good disposition.

Tragic as it is, the lot of certain women seems to be that of early marriage failure. Perhaps they are to blame in part; perhaps not. Anyway, there is a life ahead that has to be lived and in order to get anything out of it one must dismiss the marital calamity as a bad break and go ahead and build up something new. No going sour on the world.

If divorce and another marriage go against the grain, then go after security and the happiness that comes with accomplishing something worth while. The world is hard on women who are abandoned by their mates and who refuse to help themselves. But it is willing to give a boost to one with the stamina to get out and build up another life for herself. It's the only way out, anyway, for one whose marriage collapses. So it had better be gone after without delay.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' COSTUME SLIP.

This cleverly cut slip will go beautifully under the fitted dresses of this season. It is given a brassiere effect, and the attached skirt is shaped with a gradual widening toward the bottom. It is held in place by shoulder straps and opens in the back. Crêpe de chine and flat silk crêpe are lovely materials for lingerie.

The pattern, 3377, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material with 4½ yards of binding.

Inferiority Complex Often Found Among Spectacle Wearers

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Irma thinks we beauty editors are unfair in the way we shy away from the problem of the girl who has to wear glasses, giving neither advice nor comfort, she holds.

"I happen to be one," she tells. "I resent the fact that no one pays any attention to us for ours is undeniably a difficult problem. It hasn't been helped any, either, by the slam from a certain well known and much quoted rhymer who advertised the fact that men "never make passes at girls who wear glasses."

"I've had to wear glasses for years and obviously must wear them for the rest of my life. It's no use to try to gloss over the feelings of the average male, or female either, concerning the girl with glasses. But I have begun to use the white gold frames that look rimless, an octagonal shaped lens. This helps some. But can't you give a word now and then to us poor eyeglassed sisterhood?"

The first word I should give would be to do something about that inferiority complex that is put on with the specs? Why indulge in it? If one wants never to get anywhere in a pictorial way, just fasten on one of those useless inferiority appendages and be sunk.

It's perfectly ridiculous to take the poetic license for a straight fact. No woman would escape if every type of individual were to take seriously the things that have been said and written about them. All of us have been attacked at one time or another. Personally, I don't see where eyeglass wearing detracts from a young woman's appearance, providing she doesn't let it act as a stop gap to her efforts to be an eye pleasure.

She may still have beautiful hair, beautifully groomed, a beautiful figure, beautiful complexion, beautiful hands, be beautifully dressed, and, as beauty is measured today, just a few of these superlatives is about all a woman needs to get by with. Then, too, the eyeglass industry has been coöperating beautifully of recent years in an effort to keep glasses from being a drawback, many of them succeeding in being quite decorative.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

S. M.: THE WHITE OF AN EGG applied as a coating to the face and allowed to dry on is a facial mask of astringent value. You may apply a second coating on top of the first. You can feel a tightening of the sagging skin.

B. C.: POTATOES ARE NOT SO fattening as generally believed unless you use large quantities of butter or rich gravies with them. They contain 75 per cent water.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Admonish Tactfully.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love sometimes acts as if he cares for me and sometimes he says and does things I do not like. ANN."

When he says or does things which displease you, call his attention to them in a tactful way.

Admit Your Fault.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I love and I split up. It was my fault. I realize I love her. How can I find out if she cares for me? LONESOME."

Admit you were at fault and ask if she won't give you another chance.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Chance to Help Woman, 75.

"I am a woman, 75 years old, with no one to help me and no income. I have a small piece of land with a barn on it, and if I could secure enough lumber, I could have this made into a couple of rooms which I would try to rent. I would need enough lumber for the floor and four windows. "MRS. A. S."

"Okay" Carves a Place for Itself in Almost Everyone's Vocabulary

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Okay.

Says who?

Says almost everybody—including the children.

What do you think of okay?

It's affirmative.

It's vigorous.

It's essentially American.

It's expressive of a certain young, gusty crispness characteristic of our people.

It's cheerful.

You can't say it with the corner of your mouth down, if you try. You might say "yes" that way—or "all right," but not okay.

I like it. I didn't use to.

At first when adults began to say it it used to sound officelike to me. I could only see it as the two letters O and K at the end of a bill, or a requisition, or a proof.

I used to get so tired of hearing it. Pretty soon I found myself using it. Then the children began to say it.

First the big lads in their teens. Then the girls and boys a little younger. And now even the really small ones have made it their own. I hear them: "Come to supper, Jeanie—right away."

"Okay Daddy!"

"Okay, Mother."

"Meet you at the mail box."

"Okay, Jim."

I even heard it in a rhythm class. A group of boys and girls were at work standing on the backs of their necks with their feet in the air.

"Now we're going to flop for three minutes. When the music changes, leap up and take places for whatever dance it plays. Understand?"

"Okay," rang out about ten voices as the feet dropped to the floor.

There's a "lift" in the word—almost a lilt in the voices that say it.

Have you been trying to step on okay in your family? If so, I hope you're more successful than the British father in Punch. Did you hear about him? He was reproving his son for his speech. He said very solemnly: "If I hear you use another word of American slang I shall forbid you ever going to another American cinema."

To which his son replied mournfully, "Okay, Chief!"

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

MUCK CROPS SHOW.

An attendance of 5,000 persons is anticipated for the annual northern Indiana muck crops show to be held at Garrett, Ind., Nov. 3, 4 and 5 with programs including the appearance of Gov. Harry G. Leslie, Dean J. H. Skinner and others from Purdue university, and George Sweet of Fort Wayne, president of the State Vegetable Growers' association.

Several new members are expected to be added to the illustrious "1,000 bushel onion club" in which growers who have produced that number or more bushels of onions per acre are eligible. Another special club is that devoted to the 400 bushel potato club. Other crops to be featured during the show will be carrots, turnips, parsnips, celery, cabbage, and mint oil,—all products of drained muck lands of the state.

Judging of the entries has been delegated to J. E. Dickerson, federal market inspector for Indiana, and H. K. Cleaver of the Purdue agricultural experiment station. An educational program will be started Wednesday, Nov. 4, following by a banquet in the evening to award prizes and for a program of speeches.

Woman's Lutheran League.

The Lutheran Woman's league of Chicago and vicinity will give a luncheon today at the Morrison hotel in observance of the twelfth anniversary of the opening of its Maywood Children's Receiving Home for Dependent Children.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Carlin, while playing a week's vaudeville engagement in Thrace, an upstate New York town, is showered with invitations by Bill Fitzroy, friend of her pianist, and Wallace Graham, a widower friend of Bill's. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's attitude to her is of a different nature. Irma marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence as his wife. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. A son is born to Irma. He becomes the center of her universe. Wallace and Irma go on a trip to Europe. Irma spoils their pleasure because of her worry over the baby. They meet Russell Byrnes, a wealthy bachelor of New York, through friends from the boat. He has a cabin on a boat sailing in two weeks which Irma persuades him to sell to Wallace. Back in Thrace they find the baby ill. Mildred planning a eugenic marriage with Scott Avery. Wallace takes Mildred out of school and appoints Irma to guard her. Mildred eludes her guard and elopes with Scott. Wallace accuses Irma of marrying Mildred off to be rid of her. They quarrel and Irma leaves, taking the baby with her to New York.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

IRMA'S INDEPENDENCE.

There had been a time when Irma could have seen a dozen people she knew on any corner of the Broadway forties. But almost three years had passed since she had last stepped briskly along the well trodden highway. There were new faces now. God alone knew what had become of the others. There were new buildings, too, and new shops.

Her heart was heavy with misgivings and fear. She went over in her mind the things that were troubling her, and, though they made a huge black mountain when piled one upon the other, there was satisfaction in knowing that she would have her baby in her arms throughout the climb. It was not going to be easy, however. There was no point in fooling oneself.

She had gone to the Hotel Rowland the preceding night. It was a small, inexpensive place in the fifties. A two act she had known years before had made it their home and Irma knew it to be reasonably respectable. The walls were thin, however. Any conversation in adjoining rooms would disturb the baby at night and his romping and high pitched young voice would awaken the sleeping adults. Besides, the dining room yielded the poorest sort of fare and charged entirely too much for it. Also, the manager had been a bit annoyed, she thought, at her request that a certified milk be always on hand for the baby. She had counted on three or four days' hunt for an apartment, but she saw that one must be found today, and there wasn't much of the day left.

She had spent the morning interviewing women for the position of nursemaid. Four agencies had sent her what appeared to be the dregs of the city. It seemed as though the agencies had sensed her immediate necessity for a nursemaid and had sent all the poor unfortunate creatures whom no one else was likely to hire.

From sixteen to sixty they came. Stupid, ugly, uneducated, blowsy looking. One knew hardly twelve words of English. Another was deaf.

Irma called the agency that had produced the least impossible array of persons.

For four hours Irma hunted apartments.

"Why waste my time?" she asked them. "Believe me, I've lots of other things to do. Send your best women and I'll really take one. Don't send any more like the ones who just left here."

"Sorry, madam, but you want some one to take complete charge of the baby and to cook his food and do everything else for him. Those are the only people we have just now who'll do all that for fifteen dollars a week."

"How much do possible women get?"

"Twenty, anyhow, madam."

She had finally hired one. A woman with a sharp, cold face who had formerly been a nurse. Miss March she wished to be called. Irma's heart sank as she saw the tight, thin lips hold their unsmiling hardness even when the baby clutched her hand. Still she, Irma, could furnish enough love, and the woman knew when and how to use a thermometer.

So now somewhere in Central park little Martin was getting his air and sunshine with the sharp faced Miss March, and Irma was on her way to find an apartment. A film of tears was very close to her eyes as she thought of the cheerful, warm hearted Rose back in Thrace who had romped and shouted with the baby. Irma was certain that Miss March would never romp and shout.

Irma walked on toward the Times Square subway entrance. She bought a paper and stepped into a north bound local. The advertisements would determine where she would leave the train.

For four hours Irma hunted apartments. Many were dismal. Many were expensive. Some were inaccessible, some not close enough to a place where the baby could take his sunshine in safety. All that she could afford were shabbily furnished and grimy looking.

At last she rented one. It was not the least grimy looking nor the most tastefully furnished. But it had a brand new ice box, was handy to the 110th street end of the park, and was one hundred dollars a month. She knew that wonders could be done with soap and water, and if one could be gay and ambitious, pale yellow voile curtains would cheerfully assist the little apartment's feeble allotment of sunshine.

The housekeeper agreed to take the double bed away and replace it with twin beds. That would fix Miss March and the baby up in the bedroom. There was a fairly decent daybed in the living room for Irma.

Riding south in the subway Irma's spirits rose. Tomorrow they would move and the baby could get decent food. Well, she had the apartment now and a nursemaid, all she needed was a job. It would take a little time for that, however. She had to get to a practice hall tomorrow.

It was almost half past five when she entered her room at the hotel. The day had not been entirely without doubts concerning Miss March's integrity. After all, in a big city one never knew whom one was hiring. She had quieted her worries through the day, begging them to remember that she had so many things on her mind. But now, entering a quiet, neatly arranged room where no baby played or even slept, her heart shook tumultuously. She looked at her watch to verify the time. From her window she viewed the sky. It was darkening rapidly. Certainly Miss March would not keep the baby out so late if she intended to return him at all.

Memories of horrible newspaper stories concerning kidnaped children flooded her mind. O, surely something terrible had happened. Nobody kept a baby out till dark. Irma picked up the phone. No use waiting till the trail was still colder. She would call the police now. But before the operator at the hotel switchboard had answered her, Irma heard the baby in the hall. He was talking unintelligibly and too loudly for general use in hotel corridors, but to Irma it sounded like the angels singing.

She flung open the door and caught the baby up in her arms. The warm, healthy fragrance of his small body made her happy and brought an entrancing sense of security and peace.

Over his shoulder she glanced at Miss March. "Where have you been so late?" she demanded. "He isn't accustomed to being out in the night air."

"We've been in the hotel an hour, Mrs. Graham. We've had our dinner. Isn't that what you gave me the money for?" Miss March's tone was cool and irritating.

"I meant you to order in the room," Irma explained.

"But you didn't say so, Mrs. Graham. I'll order in the room hereafter."

Miss March, with an obvious effort, manufactured a simple game to amuse the baby while his mother went downstairs to have her dinner. Later she bathed her new charge and went home. To save the expense of an extra hotel room it had been arranged that she "live out" till they moved to the apartment.

Irma bought a magazine with the intention of reading it through the long hours of the evening. Perhaps she did read a story or two, but mostly her eyes were fixed on a space a full inch above the topmost printed line. No doubt she would never have admitted it, but she would have liked the Grahams to drop in for bridge—if there had been a fourth hand.

Once Irma had cleaned the apartment with a fantastic zeal never before known in that apartment's experience it really did look ever so much nicer. Everything that could be made to shine was shining. Everything that was intended to be white was as dazzling white as its age and quality would permit when young Martin Graham and his nurse walked into their new home. A woman hired for the day would have done so thorough a job, and besides, Irma knew that pennies had to be counted. It was these reflections that kept her from minding the sickening fatigue which beset her.

"It will be nicer," she said to Miss March, "when I have made some curtains and things."

"Yes," Miss March answered. "I would like a bed lamp, too, and the lock on the bathroom door has to be fixed. I was thinking, Mrs. Graham, that when you get time to shop we should have some first aid things on hand. I have made a list of things. You know how children are always falling and catching cold and getting chapped lips."

"Yes," said Irma. "I'll give you money and you can lay in a supply of things and you can get your bed lamp." A warm feeling toward Miss March suddenly filled her. The baby was going to be safe with this woman. And it was good to know that she could manage him now without interference. Nobody could disregard her wishes and notions concerning him and if those wishes were disregarded the offending person could be paid off and discharged. A pleasant thought.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"I have two nieces, Jean and Joan, 3 years of age, who look as much alike as two peas in a pod. Walking down the street one day, dressed in their little overalls, they were hailed by a passing motorist with, "Hello, little boys." To which they replied, "We are not little boys." "Well, then, hello, little girls," was his next remark, and their reply was, "We are not little girls; we are twins." B. G.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Reprimand from the Judge.

My most embarrassing moment happened many years ago. I was born and reared in a small town and had never been in a court room. When I was a young woman I was called as a witness in a lawsuit and was being questioned on the stand. Hardly knowing how to answer a question put to me, I nodded my head. Quickly the judge spoke up and said: "Madam, you will be obliged to answer yes or no. This court does not hear a nod." C. S.

Cross Country Ride Planned for Wheaton

BY THALIA

MR. AND MRS. CHAUNCEY McCORMICK have invited a group of Lake Foresters to Wheaton next Sunday for a cross-country ride, followed by a hunt breakfast with the Du Page County Hunt members. The riders are to meet at 11:45 o'clock in the morning at the McCormick place, St. James farm. The Du Page County Hunt rides on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Sundays, the latter being the most popular days with the hunters.

Besides the McCormicks, Mrs. John Jay Bryant and her daughter, Miss Anne Bryant; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hooper, the Horace Wetmores, the Ralph R. Richardsons and their daughters, Mrs. Frederick Spencer and Mrs. Walter W. Crawford, and the Allen Ripleys' son and daughter, "Sonny" and Jane Ripley, are among the Hunt members.

The John Andrews Kings, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Walker, Prince Michael Cantacuzene, and Ralph Hines are among the Onwentsia Hunt members planning to go to Wheaton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. McLaughlin are to be congratulated on the birth of a son on Saturday at the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. McLaughlin was Miss Corinne Brewer before her marriage, and the baby, who is to be named Peter, is the grandson of Mrs. George D. McLaughlin and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer. The young McLaughlins, who have been living in Lake Forest, have an apartment at 70 East Cedar street for the winter.

The opening of Carlos Drake's play, "Against the Wind," described in the program notes as "a reflection of exclusive society life, as viewed by continental eyes," attracted what the theater critics call "a society audience" to the Blackstone theater last night.

Members of the young Chicago playwright's family and many of his friends filled most of the main floor and boxes, and gave vociferous applause to his first professional play.

Down in the front rows with the Tracy Drakes were the playwright's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Drake, and a few rows in back of them were the John B. Drakes Jr., Miss Katharine and Miss Elizabeth Drake, and Miss Helen Drake.

Among those in the boxes were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kennedy, Durand Smith, Miss Jean Stevens, the Byron S. Harveys Jr., Mrs. Helen Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, and their daughter, Miss Janet Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Laflin, Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour, Mr. and Mrs. Laurance Armour, Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mrs. Sherve Badger, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, Miss Margaret Carr, Hal Noble, and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie.

Following the debut reception Mrs. Charles F. Spalding is to give for her niece, Miss Louise Clarke, at the Casino on Friday afternoon, Nov. 6, Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan C. Spalding are to entertain at the Casino and a theater party for the debutante, her 25 assistants, and their escorts.

The big charity ball, for which Howard F. Gillette is to serve as general chairman, is planned for the evening of Dec. 4, I hear, and it's to be in the old Auditorium. The organization of committees and plans isn't to be announced until after the all-star theatrical benefit at the Civic Opera house under the Tavern club auspices next Sunday, proceeds of which are to go to the emergency relief fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Forsyth, who have been living in Princeton, N. J., for the last year or so, gave a buffet luncheon for Miss Theodora Shaw, Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw's debutante daughter, on Saturday before the Princeton-Navy football game. Miss Shaw went down to Princeton from the Sarah Lawrence college, where she is studying.

The Martin Ryersons received by telegraph, phone, and post the good wishes and congratulations of their friends on their golden wedding anniversary and Mr. Ryerson's 75th birthday yesterday, but they didn't have a celebration because Mrs. Ryerson hasn't been well enough for any sort of festivity. They are at their Lake Geneva residence, where they spent the day quietly.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Granger have returned from their long stay in Vienna and have taken an apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue for the winter.

The George Henry Highs are back, too, from their customary summer trip to Europe, and they've taken an apartment at the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

Mrs. Potter Palmer was unable to be present at the tea she and Mr. Palmer gave yesterday afternoon for their house guest, Miss Rose Saltonstall Movius of Boston, whose marriage to Potter Palmer III. is to take place next June following his graduation from Harvard, as she departed for the east on getting word from St. Mark's school that Gordon Palmer had been injured in a football game on Saturday.

Au courant—Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr. made all the flowered chintz "skirts" edged with green ruching on the 6 dressing tables in the first scene of the Service club's "Hit It Up," and it was quite a job. . . . Stella Webber's cunning little basement book shop on Delaware place is called "The Book Shelf." . . . Dr. and Mrs. Charles Philip Miller (Florence Lowden) sailed on the S. S. Augustus for their wedding trip abroad. . . . Mrs. E. A. Leight, back from a summer in Europe, brings word that Mrs. F. T. A. Junkin, with whom she went to Bayreuth and Carlsbad, is returning to this country by way of Italy, arriving about Dec. 1, and that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Metz, whom she stopped to visit in Lenox, Mass., aren't coming to Chicago this winter because of Mrs. Metz's health, but are going abroad in January. . . . Miss Alice Barler, Mrs. Walter Warren and Mrs. G. N. MacMurray motored to Wells college for the sophomore basketball game yesterday.

Calendar notes—The Drama league's lecture-meeting, with Will Durant speaking on "The Condition of America, Stressing Literature and the Drama," is to take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Drake hotel . . . The benefit at Carlos C. Drake's "Against the Wind" for the Chicago Nursery and Half-Orphan asylum is to be held this evening. . . . There's to be a home dressmaker's sale at the White Elephant Rummage shop on Thursday, with Mrs. D. Mark Cummings in charge.

Boxholders for Yvonne Gall's annual recital on Sunday afternoon at the Studebaker theater include the French consul general, Henri Bougearel, and Mme. Bougearel, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Andrew Sherriff, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Mrs. Ralph S. Greenlee, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Orville Thompson, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mrs. William D. McIlvaine, Mrs. Leslie Cooke, and Mrs. George A. Mason.

Practical Suit Wears No Fur This Winter

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Practical suits this season are stripped of fur. They are left without fur expressly so they may be worn under a top coat in rough weather. Paris likes them to be made of the new embossed jersey, which is heavy and closely knit, and which does not wrinkle easily. These practical suits are ofen somewhat picturesque in cut, like the Lucile Paray tailleur shown in the sketch.

This suit, made of grape-blue embossed jersey, has a little capelet and standing collar of self-material around the shoulders. This gives it a quaint air, the smart big-shoulder line, and increases the warmth of the jacket. The capelet is edged with a box plaited ruffle, which is held flat by criss-cross lines of machine stitching. Similar ruffles trim the peplum on the jacket and make the cuffs.

The jacket is fastened straight up the front from the waistline to the neck by military frogs, made of the same jersey as the suit. When the top frog is left unfastened the collar turns over like that of a sports shirt.

The jersey skirt of this suit is straight in line, but made wide by small box plaits concentrated across the front. The short sleeved overblouse that is worn inside the jacket is shown in the small sketch. It is knitted in red and blue, and has sleeves and bands of plain blue. Two wool pompoms are placed at the front of the square neckline.

British Pastor Describes Youth's Response to Church

Chicago pastors yesterday turned their attention to a religious movement for the city's youth. They met at the regular union monthly ministers' meeting at the Central Y. M. C. A. under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation and listened to an address by the Rev. Dr. Harold W. Beales of Cambridge, England. Dr. Beales' leadership in the universities of that country have given him an international reputation. He is in this country as a delegate to the world conference of Methodism being held in Atlanta, Ga.

How Endowed Causes Gather $52,500,000

New York, Oct. 26.—The first general attempt so far made to survey the flow of funds from philanthropic foundations in this country was made public yesterday, accounting for $52,500,000 paid out during the last year by 91 foundations having capital resources aggregating more than $800,000,000.

The figures largely reflect the operations of the various Rockefeller organizations with resources of $250,700,000 and the Carnegie organizations with resources of $237,000,000.

The Rockefeller foundation alone gave away $18,200,000 last year, and together with the general education board and Spelman fund, the gifts of the Rockefeller philanthropic organizations last year aggregated $26,400,000.

The Carnegie gifts through the corporation in New York, the institution in Washington and the international peace endowment aggregated $6,600,000 for the year.

Other large disbursements were made by the Duke endowment, $2,500,000; Julius Rosenwald fund, $2,400,000; Commonwealth fund, $2,000,000; Cranbrook foundation, $1,900,000; Milbank Memorial fund, $1,100,000; M. and L. Guggenheim foundation, $700,000; Russell Sage foundation, $660,000; and the Juilliard Musical foundation, $600,000.

Confronted by such annual figures, the Twentieth Century fund, a foundation which was organized to administer a capital of $2,500,000 provided by Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant, undertook, with the coöperation of the existing foundations, to supply "a picture of the methods and objectives of American public giving."

The report made by the Twentieth Century fund reveals that medicine, public health, and general education receive far more contributions and occupy the attention of far more foundations than any of the other fields.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Vice President Curtis returned from Atlanta, Ga., today.

The governor of Porto Rico and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt arrived yesterday in Washington and are at the Hotel Hamilton for a few days.

The Chilean ambassador, Señor Cuchaga, left today for Mexico, where he also is accredited as ambassador, and will be absent a month. The ambassador served as judge of the Mexican-American claims commission before being appointed ambassador at Washington.

The Netherlands minister and Mme. Van Royen were hosts at luncheon today entertaining in honor of Prof. William De Sitter, famous astronomer of Holland who has spent some weeks in this country visiting the many famous observatories. Earlier in the day the minister and Prof. Sitter were received by President Hoover.

Mrs. Fred Bohlen is spending a few days at the Mayflower where her mother, Mrs. Edwin T. Meredith, widow of the late secretary of agriculture, has lived during her recent visits in Washington. Mrs. Bohlen will return to her home in Des Moines in a few days. Mrs. Meredith is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Meredith Jr., in Tucson, Ariz.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman was hostess last evening at one of the series of Sunday evening supper parties which she gives each season.

Fight Against Blindness Given Special Impetus

The Illinois Society for Prevention of Blindness yesterday opened its annual membership drive, with 300 new members as its objective.

Russell Tyson is president of the society, and Mrs. George McKibben chairman of the membership campaign committee. The society last year obtained appropriations of more than $100,000 from the state legislature for the prevention of blindness.

It also maintains field workers, coöperates with city and state health departments in treating faulty vision, supervises twenty-eight sight saving classes in public schools, and conducts an educational campaign designed to prevent the development of blindness.

Women Visit U. S. Training Ship for Navy Day View

Celebration of Navy day, the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, which will be observed universally today, was started yesterday as members of the Women's Patriotic league climbed aboard the U. S. S. Wilmette, naval reserve ship, anchored at the foot of Randolph street, and had luncheon.

The group was headed by Mrs. Joseph L. McCarthy and was one of several patriotic societies and other representatives of civic organizations which is to visit the Wilmette. The ship will be open to public inspection all day today, and twenty-one guns will be fired at noon by the sailors of the training ship.

Out at Great Lakes naval training station 500 men will parade at 3 p. m. Wives and mothers of the bluejackets and officers will be entertained. The public is invited between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m. The activities of sea life will be exhibited in the loop at 71 West Monroe street, in photographs, flags, and motion pictures. And in the Edison building, 72 West Adams street, a cross-section model of the scout cruiser, Akron, and examples of navy defense by air will be shown.

In the schools today the life of Theodore Roosevelt will be reviewed and others as well will remember his part in promoting the development of the sea power of the United States.

Mayor Cermak, in a proclamation yesterday, urged the observance of Navy day "by all patriotic residents in this municipality by a display of our country's flag and by the direction of thoughts and speech in the interests of the United States navy."

Avoid this menace! adopt KLEENEX

Disposable Tissues

Your handkerchief during colds may carry 4,000,000 living germs—a menace to yourself and to others, unless you use this tissue you can destroy.

THE common handkerchief is now known to be an almost unbelievable source of danger during colds. Germs not only live but grow in the ordinary handkerchief. Often damp, kept in pockets at body temperature, the handkerchief is an ideal breeding place for dangerous organisms.

These germs are carried to your nose and mouth each time you use your handkerchief. They're spread through the air, they contaminate laundry bags and clothing.

Use Kleenex—destroy

There's safety in Kleenex. Kleenex is a gentle tissue that comes in convenient squares, handkerchief size. Made of rayon-cellulose, Kleenex is softer than a linen handkerchief. But here's what's important:

Kleenex costs so little that each tissue may be destroyed after a single use! Dangerous germs are destroyed before they have a chance to re-infect you. Every handkerchief that touches your face is absolutely fresh and clean. And there's no laundering. What a relief to escape from this repulsive work!

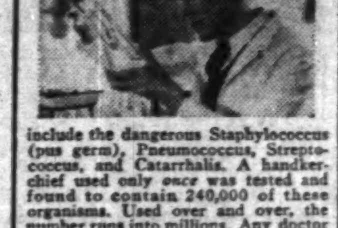

Kleenex is particularly valuable for children, who so easily contract nose and throat infections—and who are careless with handkerchiefs.

You'll soon find you can't do without these marvelous Kleenex Tissues. For removing face creams they have no equal. The absorbency of Kleenex is really necessary to blot embedded impurities of dirt and make-up from the pores.

These handy tissues

Try Kleenex for polishing spectacles. For manicuring. For applying medicines and bandaging minor wounds. Keep a package handy in the kitchen, bath and bedroom—and an extra package for the car. Kleenex is sold at all drug, dry goods and department stores.

Disease Germs Found in Handkerchiefs include the dangerous Staphylococcus (pus germ), Pneumococcus, Streptococcus, and Catarrhalis. A handkerchief used only once was tested and found to contain 240,000 of these organisms. Used over and over, the number runs into millions. Any doctor will tell you the danger of carrying such germs about with you.

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES

Dirty handkerchiefs are a menace to society!

Never before has furniture of Danersk quality been offered at prices as low as these

Hepplewhite Arm Chair in muslin — Formerly $93 — Now $46.50
Upholstered seat and tall, canted back. Open gently curved arms on supports downcurving to the front rail. Square molded and tapering legs.

1 available in red goat's hair damask — $219 — $89
1 available in blue-green brocatelle — $238 — $105

Fessenden Wing Chair in muslin — Formerly $165.00 — Now $82.50
1 available in red wool damask — $226.90 — $89.00
Designs such as this have given Danersk Craftsmen a reputation for chairs that have comfort and beauty built into them to stay.

Ives Wing Chair (at right below) — Formerly $186 — Now $93.00
Table — $39 — $18.00

Hutch
The group of which this piece forms a part was first exhibited at the Metropolitan Museum. Their design is derived from originals built in Hadley, Mass., before the American Revolution, by Colonial craftsmen famous for their beautiful chests or hutches. The mouldings and ornaments date back to Elizabethan England.

Franklin Chest
Formerly $375 — Now $187.50
An American design of New England origin, the characteristic features of which are the deep top drawer, originally used for hats, the band inlay around the base, and the interesting double valance of the apron.

Ardmore Bureau mahogany-inlaid — Formerly $300 — Now $150
With no sticking drawers to try your temper. Danersk Craftsmen don't build that kind. Every detail of design is authentic—and the construction is honestly fashioned for a lifetime of service.

Instep Table maple (above)
Formerly $33 — Now $16.50
A simple design peculiar to our own country in the period around 1690. It fits harmoniously into almost any room scheme.

Washington Desk — Formerly $672 — Now $295
An exact reproduction in every minute detail, and in method of construction, of the desk used by George Washington at the opening of the first Congress of the Original States at which he was inaugurated. The historic original is now in New York City Hall.
The convenient stationery racks at either end are dovetailed at the corners by hand. The ornamental rosettes on the posts are carved out of the solid posts by hand—as are the reeds and flutes of the legs. The wood is fine old mahogany.

Here is the opportunity of a lifetime to acquire at prices unheard of before, furniture of faultless craftsmanship and inspiring beauty.

If you have ever lived with any single Danersk piece—if you have enjoyed the charm, satisfaction and downright comfort of this supreme furniture, built by the master craftsmen of the Danersk Colony in the honest enduring way that the great furniture of the past was built—then we need not tell you that this is no ordinary furniture sale.

A collection of over 400 choice designs—everything in our stock—is included in this sale. The prices are simply breath-taking, the reductions ranging from 50% to 60%. Many of the pieces are Danersk reproductions of famous museum originals and will not be available again after the limited number in our stock is sold.

Danersk pieces have been called "heirlooms of tomorrow." The compliment is no mere figure of speech, for our three hundred Scotch and English craftsmen have preserved in our day of speed, bustle and short-cuts, the finest traditions of the great masters of the past. Many of them are sons of cabinetmakers, some are grandsons of furniture builders whose handiwork is admired in the museums today.

Don't miss this unique opportunity to collect at bargain prices some of these Danersk masterpieces. They will add pleasure and comfort to every home hour of your life—and your descendants will enjoy them too.

Business is ever so much more pleasant when transacted in offices made livable and civilized by Danersk desks and chairs. All Danersk office furniture is included in this sale.

ARMY FOOTBALL PLAYER DIES OF INJURY

BOLD COMISKEY FUNERAL RITES HERE THURSDAY

Son Brings Body Home Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The funeral of Charles A. Comiskey, who died early yesterday morning at his dead lake farm near Eagle River, Wis., will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the family home at 3356 Everett avenue, to St. Philip the Apostle Roman Catholic church, 10th street and Kimbark avenue.

The list of active and honorary pallbearers will be announced this morning following the arrival of the funeral party in Chicago. Other plans are also held in abeyance pending the arrival of J. Louis Comiskey with his father's body at 8:45 o'clock this morning.

Burial will be in the Comiskey family lot in Calvary.

Active Pallbearers Baseball Friends.

Mr. Lou Comiskey said last night that he expected the active pallbearers would be selected from his father's associates in the baseball world. The honorary pallbearers, it is presumed, will include many of the leaders in baseball politics and sports who knew the old baron during his long career.

The funeral party left Rhinelander, Wis., after a 20 mile overland trip from Eagle River at 10 o'clock last night on the Ashland limited of the North Western railroad and was due to arrive at the Madison street station of the North Western at 8:45 o'clock. The party is to proceed direct to the Comiskey home on the south side.

Never Tired of Children.

Following Mr. Comiskey's death at 12 o'clock yesterday morning, the news was flashed throughout the country and a flood of messages of condolence began to arrive at the Comiskey lake retreat where the aged baseball magnate had spent much of his time in the last decade.

In recent years Mr. Comiskey had not cared to enjoy his wooded estate with but few friends about him, a contrast with the Woodland Bard of other days.

Persons and relatives of his little grandson, Charles II., found a greater welcome there than other pilgrims who went to see the old gentleman. On the miniature playground of a group of children of whose presence Mr. Comiskey never tired.

On the estate the late Mrs. Comiskey had had her own cottage. It has been maintained much as Mrs. Comiskey left it when she died several years ago. This writer, on visiting Mr. Comiskey at Sand lake some months ago, found the Old Roman, as the center of roistering baseball parties, sitting alone on the porch of his little cottage.

Son at Deathbed.

Even with the Old Roman when he died was his son, the only immediate member of his family. His physician had left earlier when it became apparent that Mr. Comiskey had sunk into the coma from which he never was to awaken.

As soon as he had been informed of Mr. Comiskey's passing, Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox, for many years Mr. Comiskey's right hand assistant, went to Eagle River to assist in the arrangements to return his employer's body to Chicago. Mr. Grabiner is a member of the funeral party arriving this morning.

BENNY FRIEDMAN REJOINS GIANTS PRO GRID TEAM

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Benny Friedman, former Michigan all-American quarter back, signed a contract tonight to resume playing professional football with the New York Giants of the National league.

Friedman made no statement as to the extent his return to professional competition would have on his position as assistant coach at Yale. He announced his competitive activities early this fall to devote his time to coaching Albie Booth, Dud Parker, and other Eli backs in passing and other back strategy.

Friedman will return to the Giants' lineup in time to direct the club against the undefeated Portsmouth team next Sunday at the Polo grounds.

Friedman was All-American quarter back in 1926. For the last three years he has played with the Giants and was regarded as one of the best all-around performers in the pro game.

CUBS RETAIN WILLIAM VEECK AS PRESIDENT

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Chicago National League Baseball club was held yesterday at the club offices in the Wrigley building. Prior to the annual election of officers resolutions of condolence on the death of Charles A. Comiskey, the club's first owner, were adopted.

No changes were made in officers or directors for the ensuing year. The officials follow:

President and treasurer—William L. Veeck.
Vice president—William M. Walker.
Secretary and vice president—John C. Seys.
Directors—Miss Margaret Donahue.
Executive board of directors—Chairman, William M. Walker, R. A. Cavenaugh, A. E. Schneider, P. K. Wrigley, A. J. Reach, Grace Marcy, Charles McCulloch, William L. Veeck.

COMISKEY PARK, WITHOUT COMISKEY

Will Comiskey Heir Sell Sox? Buyer Ready

The estate of the late Charles A. Comiskey, consisting largely of the Chicago American league baseball franchise, the realty of which Comiskey park is a part, and player contracts, has been estimated at from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Several years ago, when many wealthy Chicagoans had their money invested in stocks and various enterprises, Mr. Comiskey was said to possess more ready cash than any man in Chicago. In his last years he did not alter his investment policies, and it is assumed that his estate will be found to include a large sum of cash.

Mr. Comiskey had indicated before his death that his son, J. Louis Comiskey, vice president and treasurer of the White Sox, was to be his sole heir. Naturally, the family has not made any comment on the estate and will not until matters take their course in regular procedure.

Future Plans Unknown.

Lou Comiskey, though a baseball enthusiast, never has taken as active an interest in baseball affairs as his father did up till his fatal illness. There has been no indication, however, as to his plans for the future conduct of the club.

In the past Charles A. Comiskey has made it clear that the White Sox would remain his property for life. So far as is known, he had no especial desire that his heirs carry on unless they were so disposed.

It is a certainty that the property would be readily negotiable if the Comiskey heir desired to dispose of it.

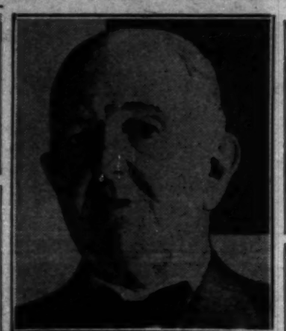

Among those who stand ready to purchase the franchise and all physical property, it is said, is Charles A. McCulloch, widely known Chicago capitalist and sportsman.

Mr. McCulloch probably would be in a position to buy the club outright without the formation of a syndicate or a stock company that would delay reorganization.

Associated with Arlington.

Mr. McCulloch, who formerly was head of the Parmelee company and who purchased John Hertz' share in the Yellow Cab company early in 1929, only to retire himself a few months later, long has been identified with sports and at present is chairman of the board of the Arlington Park Jockey club. Mr. McCulloch and a group of Chicagoans two years ago purchased the Arlington track for $2,400,000 and since have made improvements totaling many thousands of dollars.

Mr. McCulloch has been associated with William Wrigley Jr. in many enterprises, and in the event he can purchase the Comiskey baseball holdings probably would conduct the American league club with something of the spirit employed by Mr. Wrigley in his handling of the Cubs. Mr. McCulloch is a member of the Cubs' board of directors.

CALMES BEATS CON O'KELLY IN 10 ROUND BOUT

Baxter Calmes, whose home is in Duncan, Okla., now is entitled to call himself the heavyweight champion of Ireland. He whipped Con O'Kelly, who claimed that title, in the ten round windup of the White City boxing show last night before 1,500.

Calmes, who weighed only 170½ pounds, as compared to O'Kelly's 194, went after the Irishman with right crosses in the first round and just before the second round ended dropped him to one knee with a left hook. O'Kelly made his best showing in the sixth, but came out of it with a bump over the right eye from one of Calmes' blows.

In the seventh the Oklahoma boy added to O'Kelly's confusion by suddenly switching to a southpaw style of boxing. The change paid dividends in the next round, when Calmes drove his heavier opponent around the ring.

Biff Bennett, Fort Sheridan soldier boy, knocked out Joe Miller in the fifth round after bouncing Miller off the canvas three times earlier in the fight. Jud Judkins knocked out Jimmy Walthier in the first round.

Chuck Heffner, after being dropped to his knees in the opening round, came back in the second to score a technical knockout over Al Sepple. Ed Steeve beat Jack Moran and Jimmy Murphy won from George Kerwin in six rounds.

MICHIGAN CUTS PRICES OF LESS DESIRABLE SEATS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—A rule established when the Michigan stadium was built in 1927, that of maintaining a price of $3 for seats at all conference games will be broken for the Indiana game Nov. 7.

Only seats between the 20 yard lines will sell for $3. Those between the 20 yard line and the goal posts will be cut to $2 and all others will be $1.

Commy Never Forgot Face, Name or Date

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles A. Comiskey, the late owner of the White Sox, was more than a big figure in the founding of baseball as now represented by the two major leagues.

He probably was the only one connected with the game who carried into the modern era a vivid recollection of baseball happenings which even antedated the organization of the National league more than fifty years ago.

It was said of Comiskey that he never forgot a date, a face, a name or a baseball happening. He never tired of relating to his friends his experiences before he became an affluent owner and he was remarkably accurate as to time, place and characters.

Saw First Ball Game in 1870.

Comiskey always contended that he got into baseball because it was born in him. His earliest recollection of the pro game was, as he recalled it, a certain day in 1870 when as a west side kid of about 12 years he and some of his prairie lot playmates, travelled by foot and by hitching rides to Dexter park where the Chicago White Stockings were to play the then famous Cincinnati Red Stockings. Commy and his gang saw the game, probably by exercising a youth's inalienable right to sneak in without paying. It was several years after this before he made the move which fastened his life to baseball.

The elder Comiskey, a politician and contractor in moderate circumstances, decided in the fall of 1873 that son Charley should be sent away to school at St. Mary's, Kas., where Jim, an older son, had been for several years. Jim was both a boxer and a ball player. Baseball was the school's major sport and this fitted exactly Commy's ideas of what the perfect school should be like. Ted Sullivan was a student there and even at that early age displayed a penchant for organizing anything connected with baseball. It was this and his friendship with Comiskey that helped to shape the latter's career.

Dad Gives Him Job Driving Brick Wagon.

Sullivan who had played with the regular school team organized a freshman outfit, Comiskey among them. Sullivan elected himself to do the pitching and picked the tall Chicago freshman for the catcher. Gloves were a luxury not enjoyed by the team. But they did well enough in a game with the first team to be promoted into its ranks.

It was not until 1876 that Comiskey

FRANKIE GENARO IS KNOCKED OUT IN SECOND ROUND

Young Perez's Right to Jaw Drops Champion.

Fight Decisions

At New York—Tom Heeney, New Zealand, and Giacomo Bergomas, Italy, drew [10]; Steve Hamas, Passaic, N. J., knocked out Georgie Smith, Newark, N. J. [6]; Mike Kelly, Hungary, beat Kell Kain, Porto Rico [10]; Lee Williams, Harlem, beat Bert Paxton, Detroit [6].

At White City—Baxter Calmes beat Con O'Kelly [10].

At Hartford, Conn.—Earl Mastro beat Mike O'Dowd [10]; Kid Chocolate knocked out Buck Oliva [2].

At Pittsburgh, Pa.—Tuz Phillips beat Billy Rose [8].

At Wheeling, W. Va.—Primo Ubaldo beat Nick Popiel [8].

At Rochester, N. Y.—Sammy Fuller, Boston, knocked out Mickey Blair, Philadelphia [2].

At Birmingham, Ala.—Battling Bozo, Birmingham, beat K. O. Christner, Akron, O. [10].

PARIS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Young Perez, Tunis, knocked out Frankie Genaro, New York veteran recognized by the National Boxing association as world flyweight champion, in the second of a 15 round title fight tonight.

An excited French crowd that packed the arena saw Perez batter the American into submission almost before he had time to get warmed up. A right hook to the chin sent Genaro to the floor early in the second round. He struggled to his knees at the count of eight, but that was as far as he could get before the count was finished.

MASTRO BEATS O'DOWD.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Earl Mastro, Chicago challenger for the world's featherweight championship, won a ten round decision tonight over Midget Mike O'Dowd of Columbus, O. Mastro knocked down O'Dowd three times, but could not finish him.

HEENEY FIGHTS DRAW.

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Tom Heeney, New Zealand heavyweight, fought a draw in ten rounds with Giacomo Bergomas, Italy, at the St. Nicholas arena tonight. Heeney weighed 212 pounds; Bergomas, 227. The fight was a mauling affair at close quarters with neither able to gain a commanding advantage. Heeney went down for no count in the first round when a left caught him off balance, but there were no real knockdowns.

JADICK STOPS MASSEY.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Johnny Jadick, dapper young lightweight, disposed of his old rival, Lew Massey, tonight by scoring a technical knockout in the eighth round of their scheduled ten round fight. Jadick held a two pound advantage. They fought to a draw three weeks ago.

BAKER HALTS RAYMOND.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Sergt. Sammy Baker, New York, scored a technical knockout over Joey Raymond of Baltimore here tonight in the third round of their scheduled 10 round fight. Referee Charles Baum stopped the fight because of a deep cut on Raymond's lower lip. The attendance was 1,200.

ROSENBLOOM WINS.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, 174, of New York, claimant of the light heavyweight championship, won the decision over Russ Rowsey, 178, of Huntington, W. Va., in a ten round fight here tonight.

Army's Football Future in Hands of School Head

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(AP)—An army football squad, carrying on, hoping for the best, drilled with the stoicism of soldiers as Cadet Dick Sheridan died this afternon in a New Haven hospital.

His teammates did not know as they went through their maneuvers that the little end who suffered a broken neck after a diving tackle late in the Yale game had passed away. Later they met with their officers and heard the news they had been dreading to hear since Saturday night.

Second only in every mind to the sadness and regret over Sheridan's death was the conjecture as to what course Army would pursue with respect to the games remaining on the football schedule. Decision as to whether the schedule will be played out remains in the hands of Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the academy.

Probably Will Carry On.

The feeling among the officers was that Army, committed to a schedule that includes such major contests as an invasion of Pittsburgh Nov. 14 and battles with Notre Dame and Navy in New York Nov. 28 and Dec. 12, respectively, would carry on.

It is estimated that in addition to all the preparations that have been made, the inconveniences that would be done opponents, about $1,000,000 in receipts would be involved in the cancellation of the Pittsburgh, Notre Dame and Navy games, in addition t. the contests here with Colorado college Saturday, Louisiana State Nov. 7 and Ursinus Nov. 21.

Of this sum at least $400,000, the estimated receipts of the Navy game, are scheduled to be turned over to charity for the relief of the unemployed. Under the circumstances it is expected pressure will be brought to bear from all sources to have the schedule played out, despite the natural inclination of cadets and officers alike to suspend all football activities immediately out of respect for their dead comrade.

Entire Post Saddened.

Walter K. Wilson, acting superintendent of the United States Military academy, tonight issued the following statement on the death of Cadet Richard B. Sheridan.

"The officers and cadets of the United States Military academy mourn the tragic passing of Cadet Richard B. Sheridan, as the result of injuries received in the Army-Yale football game, and extend to his bereaved parents their heartfelt sympathy. His death has filled the hearts of every one on the post with grief.

"Cadet Sheridan was an outstanding member of the corps of cadets and his popularity as a leader in academic, military, and athletic activities was clearly evidenced when his classmates selected him as their president. His life exemplifies the West Pointer's code.

"The accident to Cadet Sheridan was unavoidable, and not the slightest blame in connection therewith attaches to any member of the opposing team. We appreciate that the faculty and student body of Yale university join with us in our sorrow."

MASS FOR SHERIDAN.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—There will be a requiem mass tomorrow morning in the campus church for the repose of the soul of Richard B. Sheridan Jr., Army end, whose death today was the result of injuries received in Saturday's game with Yale. The mass was requested by Capt. Tommy Yarr and members of the football team. The student body will attend.

Yale Shares Grief

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Yale University Athletic association board of control, at a full meeting tonight, adopted the following resolution:

"The Yale Athletic association records with a deep sense of sorrow the death of Cadet Richard Brinsley Sheridan and extends to the United States Military academy, to his associates and family the fullest expression of its sympathy in their grief."

George, Malcewicz to Open Stadium Wrestling Tonight

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The ceiling and walls of the Chicago stadium have echoed to the sound of fighters' gloves, the clash of hockey skates and sticks, the thud of football and basketball, but presently strange grunts and whinnyings will bounce off the inner architecture thereof, for wrestling has finally been undertaken by the stadium corporation.

The stadium will hold its inaugural show this evening with a dispute between Don George, the former University of Michigan star, and Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N. Y., heading the program. This will be conducted on the basis of two out of three falls, while the semi-windup, with Jack Sherry and John Grandovich involved, will go one fall to a finish.

Three 30 minute limit bouts complete the evening's offering. They include Len Macaluso, the one time Colgate university full back who led the country's football scorers last year, and Boris Demetroff; Karel Zbyszko and Bull Martin, with Joe Devito meeting Jack Ganson in the opener.

Lewis Meets Zbyszko for Title.

The stadium will not be concerned with the conduct of the next show, but it will be the scene of same on Nov. 2 when Ed (Strangler) Lewis and Wladek Zbyszko meet in a match, the winner of which the Illinois state athletic commission has announced will be recognized as world champion. In addition to this another championship bout, with the light heavyweight title at stake, will be transacted between Charley Fisher of Wisconsin and Zack Malkov, the north side mounted policeman.

This program has been arranged by the benefits division of the Joint Emergency Relief fund, of which J. Russell Forgan is chairman, and the proceeds will revert to the fund.

Several interesting facts in connection with the ensuing productions were revealed yesterday. For one item, Wladek, younger of the brothers Zbyszko, will receive 25 per cent of the net in his charity bout with Lewis. When the matter was brought up there were reactions in two quarters. Gen. John Clinnin, chairman of the state athletic commission, stated Zbyszko was the first wrestler to accept Strangler Lewis' challenge to meet anybody for the heavyweight championship and post a forfeit of $1,000.

It Pays to Be a Stranger.

He said that Zbyszko was granted a share of the proceeds because of the fact that he was a stranger in these parts, being a resident of Santa Monica, Cal. Gen. Clinnin pointed out that the milk fund, with its annual series of fights in New York, receives only about 50 per cent of the gate, since it is necessary to pay the fighters. Zbyszko's 25 per cent

Cut Time Out in Basketball to One Minute

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The joint basketball rules committee held its annual meeting here tonight and listened to an interpretation of various changes in the regulations by Oswald Tower, editor of the Basketball Guide.

The most important rule revision cuts the time out allowance from two minutes to one. Another prohibits high school teams from playing more than three overtime periods and still another gives the referee the right to take the ball from any player who holds it more than five seconds in the backcourt while closely guarded.

At the same time Tower pointed out that under the old rules there is nothing to prevent the referee from disqualifying a player for one flagrant personal foul and that there was no need for him to wait until the player had committed four.

L. W. St. John of Ohio State, chairman, pleaded for "sane, sensible officiating" and asked officials not to call "every little rule in the book" to the discontent of player and spectator alike.

SHERIDAN, NECK BROKEN, LOSES 49 HOUR FIGHT

Mother Wins Race to Bedside.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 26.—A dull, snoring sound, the drone of the iron lung at its work, hung in the whispering silence of the hospital corridor. A solemn little group of men, army officers in mufti, dreaded the moment when it would stop.

At nine minutes after five this evening Jack Cates of the Yale Athletic association, who had been standing in the hall, stepped into a room where the army officers sat and with a hasty, alarmed glance, summoned them from the room. They hurried out, all but Maj. Phil Fleming, the Army's graduate manager of athletics. He sat still. He knew.

A moment later Cates stepped back into the room and jerked one thumb down. He didn't speak. The snoring of the iron lung continued for a last desperate effort. Then it stopped.

Neck Broken in Tackle.

Dick Sheridan, the young West Point cadet, whose neck was broken by the fury of his own play as he tackled Bob Lassiter in the final quarter of last Saturday's Army-Yale game, was dead.

Phil Fleming's expression did not change. Lieut. Charlie Born, the assistant football coach from the military academy, backed against a wall, placed one foot on a chair and bowed his head, his face in his hands.

"What a heart; what guts," he sobbed through his fingers. "He was fighting for 49 hours without a chance. What a football player. What a man."

A nurse in white who had been stationed at the boy's head, one of several relays who had stood by to moisten his lips since Saturday afternoon, passed down the hall. Capt. W. D. De Witt, the Army surgeon from West Point, who accompanies the football team on its journeys, returned to the little office where the officers had sat since Saturday evening. His face was chalky, his eyes red from strain and the lack of sleep.

"It was hopeless," he said, "but what a fight he made."

Mother Arrives in Time.

Dick Sheridan's mother, Mrs. Richard Brinsley Sheridan, came from Greenville, S. C., to see him for a last time. She arrived at 2:12 this afternoon, after a race of 80 miles through New York City traffic and up the Boston Post road under escort of motorcycle outriders provided by the police departments of New York and Connecticut cities along the way. The motorcycle policemen picked up the big car in relays and passed it along from one group to another, sometimes reaching a speed of 80 miles an hour.

But when Mrs. Sheridan arrived in the hospital where the snoring sound of the lung signified that her boy still lived, she reached a decision not to enter the little white room. She was as calm and soldierly as Maj. Ralph Sasse, the head football coach of the Army, who had commanded and fought in the tanks in the war. She remembered her son Dick as she saw him last and she preferred to remember him so. Shortly before he died, knowing he could not live, she left New Haven for the military academy with Capt. and Mrs. W. W. Warren of the academy, who had been her friends some time ago in Augusta, Ga. Her elder son, Gerald, also was with her. Maj. Fleming, who himself had stood the ordeal with iron composure, remembered, however, that Gerald had shaken his head in commenting on his mother's courage.

"She is all right when she is talking with people," the boy had said. "But when she gets along——"

Father Too Ill to Travel.

Richard B. Sheridan Sr., the father of the little 147 pounder who outfought bigger cadets to win a place at end on the military academy's team, could not come to New Haven, being too ill to travel.

Maj. Fleming, Maj. Sasse, Capt. De Witt, the physician, and Lieut. Chuck Born, the end coach, had not had their clothes off since Saturday morning. Maj. Sasse and Capt. De Witt left the football field at the Yale bowl a few minutes after the little cadet crashed headon into Bob Lassiter's legs to make a tackle on a kickoff play in the final quarter of Saturday's game with the score tied.

Sheridan didn't get up and it was Capt. De Witt who sensed something ominous in his absolute stillness as he lay on the ground when the other members of the two teams fell in for the next play. He hurried onto the lot and, feeling no pulse, put a stethoscope to the boy's breast. Then he waved excitedly for a stretcher and he and Ralph Sasse went along to the hospital in the ambulance. Maj. Fleming and Born hurried there when the game ended a few minutes later and headquarters were established in a disused room with desks and a phone a few steps from the room where the iron lung droned on.

Crises Leave Him Weaker.

There were several crises and each one left the boy weaker. The iron lung is a metallic contraption larger than the half cylindrical stereotype castings used to print newspapers but the same general shape. It is slightly uptilted at the head end and there

BY FRENCH LANE.

When that old Hawaiian horse Uluniu gets into a running mood he stays there for quite a time. A week ago he galloped to victory at Hawthorne and it was a sign that he had reached the unconquerable form he has shown Chicago for the last three seasons. He paraded to the post yesterday with a fashionable band in the Georgian purse at a mile and a sixteenth. He had Hanford in the saddle and the folks at the track—there were some 9,500 of them there—backed him with the greatest confidence.

From the time the barrier lifted until Alex Heffernan turned off the tick-tocking electric clock Uluniu never left the result in doubt. After leading all the way he went sailing past the finish line a length in front of Masterly. Prince Atheling, owned by John Marsch of Chicago, on which there had been quite a plunge at post time, was a distant third while Sister Zoe and Abdel came home as the rear guard.

Uluniu ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46. He paid $4.78 to win for a two dollar ticket, which was a good price if one considers how easily he pulled away from the nags which trailed him.

Lewis Wins Only Twice.

Jockey M. Lewis didn't entirely desert his public. He won the first race by a marvelous ride on Black Jewel to get the decision over Zenka by a head. He was third in the second race on Prince Tommy and he won the third on My Carolyne, beating the odds-on favorite, Double Heart, by a great ride in the stretch. He was second again in the Georgian on Masterly.

It is too bad the fast Chicago filly, Supreme Sweet, from William Schmidt's Superior stable, waited so long to get into winning condition. She took another band of fliers into camp in the True Blue purse, and tied 'em in a knot to win handily at the end of the six furlong battle. If she could have turned in such races three months ago she might have established herself as one of the great sprinters in the country.

Everybody who frequents Hawthorne watched her roll up the easiest sort of victory less than a week ago. So, despite the presence of such noted horses as Tannery, Broad Meadows, Ironsides, Silver Lake, and Try It, she ruled an overwhelming favorite.

Passes Homer L.

With Hanford giving her one of his most confident rides she did not fail. Homer L enjoyed a brief lead; then Hanford shot Supreme Sweet to the front and the result was never in doubt. She wound up by beating Tannery by three-quarters of a length. Old Tannery had a bit of bad luck when Jockey Heigle guided him into a tight pocket nearing the turn. He soon recovered and showed lightning speed until a sixteenth of a mile from the finish, where he hung slightly. Broad Meadows, always up near the leaders, didn't have a last minute rally in his system, so he dropped back into third place when Tannery made his run.

Supreme Sweet ran the three-quarters in 1:12 1-5. Jockey Maier was originally assigned to ride her. He hasn't been riding well at Hawthorne this fall and the stewards, realizing Supreme Sweet would be a short priced favorite—she paid $4.18 for a two dollar ticket—took Maier out of the saddle and ordered Hanford to ride.

Augie Kieckhefer Beats Lookabaugh in Cue Match

Augie Kieckhefer defeated Earl Lookabaugh, 50 to 20, in a 28 inning three cushion billiard match yesterday at Kieckhefer's Recreation. Kieckhefer had high run of 11. Today Kieckhefer will play Harry Towle and Edward Peters, city champion.

Curate Whips Morsel by a Nose at Laurel

Laurel, Md., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Glenwood, mile and one-sixteenth feature, had a nose finish today with the judges awarding the verdict to Joseph E. Widener's Curate over the Lemar Stock farm's Morsel, after they had traveled the route in 1:46 2-5.

Jockey Robertson broke Morsel on top and the colt led his three opponents to the first turn. Swinging into the back stretch Morsell was leading Curate, with Marine and Sidney Grant well back.

As the field left the back stretch Garner moved with Curate but was unable to catch Morsel until the final sixteenth. From there to the wire they ran head and Head. Sidney Grant was up in time to take third money from The Marine.

The Faulkner, the day's secondary feature at six furlongs, found the Barry Vail Stable's Senado racing the distance in 1:12 4-5 to win by a length from the Greentree stable's Semaphore. Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Thursday finished third.

Kai Feng raced 6 furlongs in 1:11 4-5 to win the third race in a common canter from Sea Fox and Sun Memory. Sea Fox outran the field of seven until the stretch turn. At this point Willie Garner took the pacemaker very wide, enabling Fator to come through on the rail with Kai Feng to win easily.

Dempsey to Box Carnera or Campolo

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Promoter Jimmy Johnston today leaned over his desk in Madison Square Garden and whispered: "Jack Dempsey's coming back!"

Jimmy waited until he had assured himself that the idea had penetrated, then resumed: "Yessir, Jack's going to fight again. He's going to fight for me."

"I'm offering him 40 per cent to meet the winner of the Garden's Carnera-Campolo fight in Miami, Fla., next February. If he doesn't want either of them he can have Sharkey, Loughran, Schaaf, or Schmeling," Jimmy continued.

Dempsey Goes Hunting.

"Jack's meeting George Getz of the Illinois boxing commission in Moline, Ill., today and they're going hunting. When he gets out of the woods I expect to have a favorable reply. In fact, I can assure you right now he's a cinch to fight again.

"I'm also planning a Schmeling-Walker fight for Miami. There are certain reasons why this isn't the hardest match in the world to make and I think it will draw half a million.

Two Miami Shows? Sure.

"What's that? Two Garden shows for Miami? Why not? If you give the fans what they want they'll go for it. I'm going to give it to them hot in Miami.

"Schmeling and Walker would put up a whale of a battle, and just imagine Dempsey in there swinging against that big Carnera. I wonder myself if Primo would get up if Jack flattened him."

BRADLEYS WILL ADDRESS WALTON LEAGUE CHAPTER

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bradley of Chicago, who recently returned from their third expedition in Africa, will address the Chicago chapter of the Izaak Walton league tomorrow night at the first fall meeting of the organization in the Palmer house. They will tell some of their adventures among the pygmies in the Ituri forest and their visit to the land of the long-headed people, a curious tribe whose heads are the shape of watermelons. Motion pictures the Chicagoans made showing African wild animals and birds, cannibals, and savage customs will be a part of the program.

Cardinals Will Open Eastern Trip at Brooklyn

The Chicago Cardinals' pro grid team will open its eastern trip at Brooklyn Sunday. The following week-end the Cards move to Philadelphia to play the Yellow Jackets on Nov. 7, and on Nov. 8 they continue to Cleveland where they face the Indians. Plans have been made for several practice sessions along the route. The squad of 21 men will leave Friday, not to return until the Grand Rapids game, Nov. 11.

LALONDE TO COACH REDS.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Newsy Lalonde, one time hockey player and last year coach of the Ottawa Senators of the National Hockey league, has signed to pilot the Providence Reds of the Canadian-American Hockey league this year.

VICTORY MAKES ST. JOHNS CHOICE AGAINST CULVER

Delafield, Wis., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The strength shown by St. Johns in its 13 to 12 victory over the Platteville School of Mines Saturday, combined with the defeat of Culver Military academy by Lake Forest college freshmen on the same day, changes the complexion of the St. Johns-Culver clash scheduled for Soldiers' field, Chicago, on Nov. 14.

Before Saturday's contests, Culver was a strong favorite to beat St. Johns for the second consecutive year. But St. Johns showed such firmness in the line and power in its running attack against the Miners that Culver no longer is considered the choice.

Starting the second half, St. Johns was trailing by 12 points. Then its offense began. Ward Eastman and Mike Calvano went over for touchdowns. John Conrad made the extra point that won the game. Again the play of Park Wray in the line was remarkable.

NINE TEAMS SIGN FOR A. A. U. HOCKEY LEAGUE

Nine teams probably will compete in the Central A. A. U. Hockey league this year. This was announced yesterday by E. C. Delaporte, chairman of the hockey committee.

Those teams which are looked upon as contenders for honors in the league are the Raven Hockey club, the Pirates, Mount Pleasant Athletic club, Les Canadiens, the American Legion, the Shamrock Juniors, Roseland, Klee Brothers, and the Maywood Athletic club.

"We are planning for a full season of play, and have the weather man's assurance that there will be plenty of ice this year," Delaporte said.

will be the only wrestler's check subtracted from the proceeds of the Nov. 2 show, since Lewis, in his original challenge, offered to wrestle gratis, and pay all of his own training expenses. All officials and other wrestlers on the card will also work without pay. Zbyszko paid his own expenses here.

Enter now Col. John Berger, who takes an entirely different attitude on the matter of Wladek's 25 per cent. Col. Berger, in fact, is quite wrought up about the matter, so much so that the only comparison he had for such action was Jim Londos' demand for a guarantee of $250,000 for a charity championship bout, which would not seem to leave very much for charity.

Col. Berger is the central states representative of Paul Bowser, the easterner who controls 275 wrestlers operating throughout the country. Neither Lewis nor Londos is included in this number. The Bowser firm, which, Col. Berger states, operates on the same principle as a theatrical booking office, is providing the Stadium corporation with all of the talent for its own shows during the ensuing season, and at the same time holds a three year lease on the wrestling concession in the Stadium.

Claims Zbyszko Outclassed.

The burden of Col. Berger's argument, he says, is that a charity sports promotion should be for charity, and that Zbyszko is not in a class with Lewis as a championship opponent. The Bowser interests, he added, were the first to post forfeits and acceptances with the commission for a bout with Lewis. The three artists submitted in the challenges were Malcewicz, Sherry and Dan Koloff. In addition, he showed an offer to the joint emergency relief fund for any of the trio to wrestle Lewis, not only on the basis of wrestling gratis, but also to pay the officials and the rental fee on the Stadium. Col. Berger concluded with the statement that too many championship bouts are unevenly matched and that it is the aim of the Bowser firm to supply men of equal ability.

Gen. Clinnin agreed heartily with this motto and stressed the fact that the commission, after having suspended wrestling in Illinois for a year, is prepared to oversee wrestling as a sport rather than a hippodrome. If the grapplers turn to vaudeville in their efforts, wrestling will be banished from the state indefinitely, he said.

SPENCER TEAMS WITH CROSSLEY FOR 6-DAY RACE

Freddie Spencer, New Jersey star, and Al Crossley, Boston youngster, will ride as a team in the six-day bicycle race at the Stadium, Nov. 8 to 14. Followers of bicycle racing believe these two boys should form one of the strongest combinations in the race.

Spencer has won four races, finished second five times, third three times and fourth twice. He has won six-day races in Chicago and New York. Freddie also is regarded as the fastest indoor rider in the game.

There will be the usual program of professional and amateur races on the Saturday night preceding the six-day grind. Leading professional and amateurs cyclists will compete. The feature race for the amateurs will be a one hour team event, with 15 teams competing.

"WHY...UH-H"

BOXES of 5 cent cigars! . . . Boxes to the right of him . . . boxes to the left of him . . . but still he said, "WHY . . . UH-H." Men who have wanted a five cent cigar have bravely played Christopher Columbus many times over in their search for the real thing. They wouldn't believe the world was flat . . . And now their belief has been rewarded! They have discovered a new world of smoking pleasure and its name is New Bachelor!

So all you smokers, turn your rudder over, sail into the nearest cigar store and tie up to New Bachelor! You can stake out a claim for a nickel! Skilful blending of the choicest tobaccos produced this new world of smoking joy. And what a world!

N.U. RESTS, BUT IT'S NOT BECAUSE ILLINI ARE EASY

Team Battered in Game with Ohio State.

Complete rest was prescribed by Coach Dick Hanley for Northwestern's football team yesterday. Coach Hanley made it plain, however, that the extra day of rest was not because Illinois was underrated, but was due to the fact that the Wildcats were in need of considerable physical repair. Very little scrimmage is on tap for the Purple this week, since most of the regulars are nursing bumps and bruises.

The weaknesses which have been cropping up in the Wildcats' performances all season—namely, fumbling and a tendency to drop passes—will be his object of much attention on the part of the coaching staff this week. The Purple tossed away three scoring opportunities in the Ohio game as a result of fumbles, and in three previous games the same fault was evident.

Although Pug Rentner's outstanding achievement against Ohio was his ball carrying, he also was passing accurately, the only trouble being that his receivers failed to receive.

With the exception of last year's game, the Northwestern-Illinois series has produced a number of close games since Coach Dick Hanley took over the reins at Northwestern. In 1927 Illinois won, 7 to 6, and the following year the Illini were again victorious, 6 to 0. Northwestern scored its first win in 1929, by a count of 7 to 6, and last fall overwhelmed Coach Zuppke's team, 32 to 0.

ILLINI GET PEP TALK

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Pointing out that many famous Illini players had not been impressive as sophomores, Bob Zuppke today encouraged the squad of youngsters which he still believes to be a "team in the making."

It is thought that Zuppke will have a stronger lineup for Northwestern than that which faded before Michigan's rushing attack. Gil Berry, Cliff Root, and Stan Jensen had not been able to practice the week preceding the Wolverine contest, even though they did enter the game.

Dan Wilson, letterman end, who received again last week after an extended absence, will be tried at half back, which position he played in high school. Monroe Glick, sophomore who was injured last week, appeared for practice and Clark Root, veteran quarter back, also is available.

Assistant Coach Rokusek, who scouted Northwestern for the second time Saturday, told Zuppke that Pug Rentner is the best back field man he has seen since Red Grange's time, and he also praised the punting ability of Ollie Olson.

TWO GOPHERS CRIPPLED

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—There were two cripples on the Minnesota football squad today when Coach Fritz Crisler called the boys to the "X" team for a long chalk talk. They are Marshall Wells, tackle, and Jay Gee, center. Wells' right arm was injured so seriously in the Iowa game that he had to spend Saturday night and Sunday in the university hospital. It will be several days before it is known whether he will be able to continue play. Gee suffered a bruised shoulder, but will be ready for the Wisconsin game here Saturday.

Crisler warned the team against overconfidence, and by way of eliminating any cheeriness pointed out many flaws in their 34-0 win over Iowa.

Because it rained all afternoon the Gophers did little work outdoors. They heard all about Wisconsin and then listened to George Mackinnon and then loafed up for 30 minutes.

BADGERS WORK IN RAIN

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—A battered Wisconsin football squad went through an easy workout today. Rain, mud and a cold wind made speed and clean ball handling impossible. All of the regulars who played against Penn Saturday were on the field except Buckets Goldenberg, who has a pair of badly bruised eyes.

Capt. Hal Smith and Mickey McGuire were, however, excused from work. The rest of the squad plodded about in the rain and spent some time looking over Minnesota passes as demonstrated by the freshmen. Then they ran through plays for half an hour and were dismissed.

The grinding play of the Penn team last Saturday took a lot out of Wisconsin, but it is expected the team will be ready for the Minnesota game at Minneapolis Saturday.

IOWA LINE SHAKY

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Iowa first string players rested from minor injuries inflicted by the Minnesota team today. The Hawkeyes' next game is with George Washington university Saturday.

Coach Burt Ingwersen, dissatisfied with the showing of his first team in the game against the Gophers, expressed even less confidence in reserves.

Reserves were given a hard scrimmage in which Laws, quarter back, made a brilliant showing.

VACATION FOR HOOSIERS

The reserves went through a long workout.

Injured 'Chase Jockey Is in Serious Condition

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Ray Russell, Racine, Wis., jockey who was thrown from a horse in the Bridle Path hunt club's steeplechase Saturday, was reported in serious condition today at Barnes hospital.

MOON MULLINS—THE VISITING TEAM GETS THROWN FOR A LOSS

Notre Dame Has Weekly Day of Worry

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Notre Dame football team today started preparations for the contest Saturday with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh. Coach Hunk Anderson gave the varsity a vacation, but drilled the shock troops in a short dummy scrimmage on offense. He also let it be known that he is not taking Saturday's game lightly.

"They caught us by surprise twice," he said, referring to the Carnegie victories of 1926 and 1928, "and I'm not going to let that happen again."

The varsity will practice tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday, entraining Thursday night.

Anderson said that neither Steve Banab nor Nick Lukats, injured full backs, will be ready for the Carnegie game and that they may not play against Penn here, Nov. 7.

Trainers spent a busy afternoon taking care of a multitude of bruises and minor injuries received in the Pitt game Saturday, but Anderson will be able to send the full strength of his team against Carnegie.

Capt. Tommy Yarr still had his broken left hand in a cast and his cut right hand bandaged today. The cast will not be removed for a couple of weeks, but he will continue to play.

CARNEGIE TAKES DAY OFF

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Carnegie Tech's football warriors were accorded a holiday today prior to starting practice tomorrow for the Notre Dame game here next Saturday. The Plaid came through the Purdue contest of last Saturday with numerous bruises but no serious casualties.

Don Fletcher, right tackle and the giant of the squad, suffered a badly bruised shoulder and in addition played throughout the battle with a severe case of tonsilitis, which he concealed. He is expected, however, to be in shape for the Irish encounter.

NEW PLAYS AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Coach Kipke gave the Michigan football team a two hour workout on new plays and old this afternoon.

Jack Heston and Herman Everhardus were injured in Saturday's engagement with Illinois and will be worked lightly for a few days. They and Capt. Roy Hudson were included in the changing back field during the course of the afternoon, however. One back field had Newman at quarter, Hudson and Fay at halves, and Hewitt at full; and with this combination working Ted Petoskey, newly promoted to regular end, was called on to carry the ball on several plays.

Drill on the full repertory of Wolverine plays gave indication that Kipke figures Michigan will have to show plenty to defeat Princeton next Saturday. Even the Statue of Liberty play came out of the bag, though it has been given only rare trials in actual games in late years.

TROUBLE FACES MAROONS

How to keep Purdue from running up a score of high proportions is the problem which must be solved by the Maroons before Saturday.

The matter of keeping up the spirits of the men in the face of consistent drubbings is important, but Coach Stagg has been notably successful in it during the adversities of past seasons. Despite the rhythmical weekly setbacks last year Stagg believes that the season was one of the best in Maroon history.

The squad gathered on Mondays, he remarked yesterday, and simply resolved to do better the following Saturday. The value of such resolution, he believes, is more important to the players than winning games. With a bleak prospect ahead for the remainder of this season, there will apparently be need and opportunity for resolution.

Maroon players who saw extensive service against Indiana were excused yesterday after a light drill and a few observations on their shortcomings, particularly on defense against passes. The reserves, upon whom Stagg must depend to prevent another fourth quarter collapse, scrimmaged against Otto Strohmeier's freshman "Purdue" team.

The center of the Maroon line, Horwitz, Parsons and Hamberg, has been the bright spot of the team. Horwitz will be in shape for Purdue, as will Parsons, who seems indestructible despite his lack of beef. But Hamberg's wrenched shoulder will put him on the sidelines at a time when he is most needed. Bellstrom and Zimmer may also be lost to the Maroons because of shoulder injuries.

Football Player Dies of Hurts Received in Game

Rhinelander, Wis., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Antone Sarocka, 21, left tackle of the Rhinelander city football team, died in a hospital of a fractured skull received when struck by the knee of a Clintonville player in a game here Sunday. He was the sole support of a widowed mother.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

DYNAMIC COACHES.

WHAT of Bob Zuppke, quondam dynamic coach of the fighting Illini, who just suffered from Michigan from beating during the so called Zuppke coaching régime? Is Zupp still dynamic?

Well, readers, dynamic is a word we football reporters use during a period of success. On that basis the Illinois coach is not now dynamic. On any other basis he is still dynamic.

It was interesting for us to spend the evening after Saturday's game with Zuppke. He had no criticism to make of his players. He was disappointed at their defense but not surprised at their lack of offense. He was remarkably sane for the dynamic Zuppke.

Called upon to speak before about 100 fraternity men at one of the numerous homecoming gatherings, he said, in substance:

"Those boys you saw out there today were beaten by the score. They were not beaten in any other way, but they were outclassed. Don't any one dare tell me they let down in spirit. They made mistakes, they were confused, they messed up their signals, but they fought all the way to the very end against hopeless odds. I know when teams fight and those boys fought.

"After the game I did not criticize them. One boy actually said, 'Coach, were we as bad as that score?'

"Before this dinner I thought our team was about one step behind in getting the jump, in everything. After food it seems about a half step. We'll cut that half step down and if these boys remain eligible you'll see something from them yet—this year, I think; if not this year, next year.

"Illinois has been down before, not often, but it has been down. It came back. We'll be back again under natural conditions. Right now we are not getting as good material as we once had. There are reasons. Perhaps that condition will change. If we keep on losing I don't ask you alumni to come in such numbers as you have come to our games. I believe in winning our share or more than our share of games with old rivals. But don't think you didn't see a fighting team out there today."

Isn't Zuppke still dynamic?

20 Shamrocks Report for 1st Drill on Ice

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Manager Babe Dye had his first look at the American league Shamrocks today. Of the 20 players on the ice, 15 were in the league last year, but with only two or three exceptions the players were all strangers to the new Shamrock leader.

Dye is paying particular attention to four recruits: Walter Buswell and Eddie Osler, defense, and Eddie Malone and Tony Prelesnik, wings.

Buswell by reputation is the standout of the four. As a member of the leading French-Canadian sextet in the Dominion, St. Francois Xavier, he jumped straight into senior play out of the juvenile ranks. He is only 21 years old and has had two years' experience in senior hockey.

Buswell's teammate on the St. Francois team, Paul Armand, is expected to report tomorrow.

BIBLE AGAIN IS NAMED COACH OF WEST GRID TEAM

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Notified of his appointment for the second consecutive season as one of the coaches of the Western football squad in the annual East-West charity game at San Francisco, Coach Dana X. Bible today lacked only the approval of University of Nebraska athletic authorities before telegraphing his acceptance.

Last December, collaborating with Percy Locey of the Olympic club, Bible directed middle and far west grid players to a 3 to 0 victory over the East.

The game will be played Jan. 1, instead of the Saturday following Christmas, and will occur on the same date as the annual Rose bowl game at Los Angeles. Locey will work with Bible again this winter and it is expected Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate will direct the Eastern squad.

MILWAUKEE AUTO RACE DRIVER DIES OF INJURIES

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 26. — (AP) — Arthur Willison, 24, Milwaukee, died today from injuries suffered when his racing automobile overturned on the South Milwaukee speedway yesterday.

Willison's car failed to make a turn and hurtled from the track. He was pinned under the wreckage, which caught fire before attendants could extricate the race driver.

Detroit Hockey Club Asks Waivers on Noble

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Falcons, National league hockey club, announced today waivers had been asked on Reg Noble, veteran defense man. The National league waiver price is $5,000.

Ring Commission Forbids Carnera, Uzcudun Battle

The Illinois state athletic commission yesterday denied the Chicago Stadium permission to stage a ten round bout between Primo Carnera, Italian giant, and Paulino Uzcudun, Spaniard.

The commission ruled that the match was not a suitable one. The New York state athletic commission previously had denied Madison Square Garden permission to present the bout.

Barney Ross, stablemate of Earl Mastro, has been added to the featherweight championship card of Nov. 4, when Mastro battles Bat Battalino for the title at the Chicago Stadium.

Ross, who won the intercity Golden Gloves lightweight championship two years ago, has been paired with another Golden Gloves star, Lou Jallos of Cleveland. Jallos failed to get through to the finals last winter, but made such an impression that he was named an alternate in the lightweight class.

In matching Ross and Jallos, Matchmaker Nate Lewis has brought together two boys who have progressed farther than any other Golden Gloves champions who turned pro.

This bout is the fourth to be closed. Aside from the championship bout, Lewis has matched Sammy Mandell with Ralph Lenny and Louis Kid Kaplan with Harry Dublinsky. One other match will complete the card.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, will meet George Neron and Pete Wistort in two round fights at Moline, Ill., Nov. 6, according to Sol Katz yesterday. Katz is assisting in the promotion of the show with the Elks club of Moline. Two other bouts on the program will have Barney Ross, local lightweight, and Young Terry of Davenport, Ia., and Pep Justo and Young Leonard.

Barney Abel, manager of Cecil [Seal] Harris, announces that his 220 pound protégé will face Dempsey at Des Moines, Ia., three days later in a four rounder for Promoter Dave Fidler.

Mike Triolo, 1931 Golden Gloves contestant, will turn professional Friday at the West Side Eagles' arena against Johnny Sylvester. They will meet in a four round preliminary.

Spanish Forbid Football Tours Without Deposit

West Point Grid Player Dies of Injury

"Come in and see the poor kid," Lieut. Born said. He had been hovering by the room, stealing in and out every few minutes, dreading to look but unable to keep away for long ever since the fight began.

He led the way to the door and around a screen. There was an interne standing by and the nurse on duty seemed to be adjusting the pillow in the little cradle where the boy's head lay. Snore, snore, the gears of the lung toiled on in dreadful rhythm and with each snore the small, thin face worked, the mouth opened and shut as the machine forced his lungs to breathe.

Yale Man Keeps Vigil.

Jack Gates of Yale had been keeping the vigil with the Army men, Dr. Samuel Clark Harvey, chief of the surgical staff of the New Haven general hospital, and Prof. Rose of Yale were drifting in and out of the headquarters down the hall.

"Is there no miraculous chance for him to win?"

"No," Dr. Harvey said, filling his pipe from a big oiled silk pouch. "Not in such a case. In some cases there is a chance, but in this boy's case the nerves controlling the breathing are gone. I have never heard of recovery in such a case."

The droning of the lung continued and the question "Then, why?" suggested itself but was not asked.

West Point was calling every few minutes. Tired almost to exhaustion, but without a trace of sympathy for himself, Maj. Fleming answered and conversed evenly and with composure.

Cates' Thumb Down.

It was growing dark outside. The doctors and the officers were settling down to another short smoke and another few minutes of waiting, but there was an unmistakable dread and intuition that Dick Sheridan's fight was almost over. Perhaps that was what drew Cates back to the lung. He was scarcely gone when he was back at the door with the news written in his expression. The doctors stepped quickly after him.

Phil Fleming picked up the phone. "Get me West Point at once, please," he said.

Sheridan never regained consciousness. His last thought was to fire himself head on into a big, charging Yale player to prevent a repetition of the touchdown from kickoff which had just brought Yale to an even score with the Army.

He had vindicated the spirit expressed in the oft-derided "I would die for dear old Rutgers."

Funeral at West Point.

Sheridan's funeral services will be conducted at the military academy but it has not been decided whether he will be buried in the academy cemetery or elsewhere. He was the second West Point cadet to die of football injuries. Cadet Byrne was mortally hurt and died on the field at Michie stadium on the West Point reservation in a game with Harvard in 1910 as his parents looked on.

LEWIS DEFEATS MACK IN RACINE WRESTLING BOUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Racine, Wis., Oct. 26.—Ed [Strangler] Lewis, claimant of the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world, tonight beat George Mack of Chicago in straight falls at the Eagles club here. Lewis won the first fall in 20:30 with a headlock. The second fall came in 1:10 following a series of headlocks. Lewis weighed 235 pounds and Mack 204.

Won Su Cheung, a Chinese wrestler, defeated Marvin Strahota of Milwaukee in 21:30. Cheung used a body hold. Strahota weighed 189 pounds; Cheung, 200.

Al Anderson of Racine threw Larry Moffett, Milwaukee, with an armlock in 8:30. They are light heavyweights. Ivan Racee, Milwaukee, and Johnny Shoop, Racine, wrestled to a 30 minute draw. They are 170 pounders.

Southern Teachers Start Drills for Normal Game

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Sharing the lead in the Little Nineteen conference with Bradley Tech after defeating the McKendree college eleven, 7 to 0, Saturday, for their 15th consecutive victory, the Southern Illinois Teachers today turned to drills for State Normal next Saturday. Four regulars were out of the McKendree game. The Teachers' goal line has not been crossed this season.

Comiskey Never Forgot a Name or Baseball Date

made the move which definitely decided his future. The senior Comiskey looked upon baseball as something not exactly suited for any of his boys. He visioned Charley as the city's leading plumber but the course in plumbing was delayed, much to Commy's satisfaction.

Building was going on briskly after the great fire and Comiskey senior, being in the contracting business, decided the plumbing career could wait until there was less demand for Charley's services as a driver of a brick wagon. Dad Comiskey was supplying bricks for the new city hall downtown and son Charley was sent out with his first load. Commy flivvered out as a driver on his first trip. He never reached his destination.

Makes Good as Relief Pitcher.

Commy started on his new job well enough but figured no harm would be done if he drove a few blocks out of the way so as to see what was going on over at the ball field. A game was on between two of the west side teams which played regularly at Jackson and Laflin streets. The Liberty pitcher began to weaken so the ambitious Comiskey stepped down from his wagon seat and offered his services in behalf of the ailing athlete. Comiskey won the game and a job. He was in baseball then for keeps.

The story goes that the elder Comiskey, hearing that his load of bricks was without a driver, went to the ball field and himself acted as horse chauffeur for the remainder of the journey downtown. There was plenty said that evening by an irate parent on the subject of sticking to one job. But there was no warning about keeping away from the ball field, so Commy accepted the scolding as a bargain.

It was in this same year that Comiskey with others of his youthful baseball gang made almost daily pilgrimages from their west side neighborhood down to the lake front where the White Stockings were doing their spring training. These journeys provided the future baseball magnate with his first contacts with such greats as A. G. Spalding and Adrian Pop Anson.

Watched Anson and Spalding Play.

Comiskey recalled on more than one occasion that Anson was a holdout that particular spring. The big fellow wanted to be traded to an eastern club. He hung around the playing field for several days, refusing to put on a uniform. Then he suddenly weakened and abandoned his recalcitrant rôle. Comiskey, ambitious to become a pitcher, spent most of the time on these visits watching the pitching of Spalding.

Bears to Pay for Defeat in Hard Practice

By losing to Philadelphia Sunday the Chicago Bears earned themselves a tough week of practice from Coach Ralph Jones, who, while he blamed nobody in particular for the defeat, spared no words in talking to the squad yesterday.

Today the post mortems are taboo and all thoughts will be directed toward the game with Green Bay at Wrigley field next Sunday afternoon.

Packers Win First, 7-0.

Early in the season the Bears journeyed to Green Bay and were nosed out, 7 to 0. The Packers have what is claimed to be the best eleven they have entered in the National pro league race, but all of the teams in the league, with one or two exceptions, are stronger this year, so the ratio of comparative strength is about the same.

Joe Lintzenich was the only serious casualty in the Philadelphia battle, and there is doubt that he will be available for Sunday. He is a mainstay in the kicking department as well as in carrying the ball and blocking.

Nesbitt Kicks 'Em.

However, as far as punting goes, Dick Nesbitt proved he is capable of competing with the best. Against the Yellow Jackets Dick had punts of 60 and 65 yards.

The Bears' passing attack didn't function so well and Jones will give much attention to it this week. In the matter of lines, the Packers and Bears are about on a par.

FISH SUGGESTS HARVARD PLAY TIGERS FOR POOR

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A football game for charity between Harvard and Princeton either in New York or Boston on Dec. 5 was suggested today by Representative Fish of New York in a letter to the editor of the Harvard Crimson.

The New Yorker previously made the suggestion in a telegram to President Lowell of Harvard, but was told in reply it had been decided no post-season games would be played.

In his letter to the Crimson editor, Fish said he had "every reason to believe that such a game would be welcomed by the graduates of both colleges."

Harvard Football Captain Awarded Barr Scholarship

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Barry Wood, Harvard football captain, today was awarded the $775 Francis H. Barr scholarship for "combined scholastic excellency, athletic ability, and undergraduate leadership."

The Crimson quarter back, one of the outstanding football players of the present season, has made an almost perfect scholastic record for the last three years. He is Harvard's first Phi Beta Kappa football captain and is also president of both the senior class and student council.

ADMIT WOMEN FREE THURSDAY AT MILLS GAME

Women will be admitted free to the football game Thursday evening between the Cicero Boosters and Chicago Mills at Mills stadium. The Mills are building their attack around Tony Lawless and Mel Brousseau. Cornie Collins and Marv Adams, coach of the squad, will appear in the other backfield positions.

In their last five years the Mills have lost only one home contest.

COCK PHEASANTS HIT $50 HIGH IN WHEATON COURT

Pair Kills Three Out of Season; Fined $150.

BY BOB BECKER.

Cock pheasants struck a new high last week when three of these birds were quoted at $150 and the asking price had to be paid. Two hunters from Melrose Park paid this price for three birds in the court of Judge W. H. Johnson of Wheaton, Ill. They had been caught with the birds, the result of their shooting with .22 high power and .32 rifles.

The story of this stiff court fine handed out to the rifle shooters is a bit of backwash from the current ban pheasant shooting orgy which a certain class of shooters has been indulging in during the last month. The pothunters have been taking hen pheasants at a rate which will put Illinois upland game hunting back about five years.

Besides killing the hens the gunners have shot Hungarian partridges and anything else that flushed in front of their guns. From shooting hen pheasants to the taking of the brilliantly plumaged cock birds was just a step.

Shoot Birds Crossing Road.

Last week the two hunters who paid the new high of $150 for three cock pheasants were doing a little long range hunting from a highway near Addison. When birds were seen on or running across the road the gunners started their action. A call to Deputy Federal Warden R. C. Blackwell brought him into the picture. When he picked up the hunters they were carrying three cock pheasants, although everything pointed to the fact that they originally had six. It is thought that the hunters got rid of three before they were apprehended. All of the birds were shot through the head with a single rifle bullet.

The warden took these men into Judge Johnson's court and there they were assessed the $150 fines, which were paid. The season on cock pheasants in Illinois does not open until Nov. 10 and continues through Nov. 15. The limit per day is two birds.

Many New Deputy Sheriffs.

With a judge ready to go the limit against the killers of cock pheasants out of season, sniping these birds ought to decrease, especially in view of the fact that the warden force west and north of the city is backed up by many new deputy sheriffs and a federal warden who doesn't mind helping to enforce the state laws.

WESTERN WOMEN GOLFERS NAME OFFICERS FOR 1932

Officers of the Women's Western Golf association yesterday were re-elected with one exception at the annual meeting at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Mrs. C. W. Sechler, Westward Ho, replaces Mrs. John L. Pfaff, Midlothian, as corresponding secretary.

The officers renamed are Mrs. W. W. Haerther, Exmoor, president; Mrs. H. D. Raymond, Evanston, and Mrs. W. W. Hodgson, Oak Park, vice presidents; Mrs. H. A. De Witt, Beverly, recording secretary, and Mrs. H. S. Stimson, Riverside, treasurer. Mrs. Pfaff was appointed to the board of directors. Prizes were awarded to the Indian Hill team which won the par trophy event played at clubs throughout the western association. The team was composed of Mrs. H. Austin Pardue, Miss Jean Armstrong, and Mrs. C. C. Kendrick.

Announcement was made that a team picked from association clubs will meet a Canadian team in Manitoba early next June. The following years the Canadian women will play in the United States.

REPORT HURLEY OPPOSES LIBERTY FOR PHILIPPINES

Friends Say He Will So Recommend to Hoover.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley announced today following a White House conference that his final report and recommendations on the question of independence for the Philippine islands will not be completed and ready for submission to the White House until just before congress convenes early in December.

PATRICK HURLEY.

Mr. Hurley returned yesterday from the Philippines, where he made an exhaustive study for the President.

Follows Expert Opinion.

Although the war secretary declined to discuss his conference on the Philippine situation with President Hoover, it was stated in a high administration quarter that Mr. Hurley had recommended against immediate independence for the islands. Close friends of Secretary Hurley said there was no doubt that he would oppose independence for the islands under existing conditions. In taking such a view Mr. Hurley would follow the most expert opinion in the war department.

It was learned today that Gov. Gen. Dwight F. Davis will not return to the Philippines on the expiration of his next leave of absence, which begins early in November. Mr. Davis will come to the United States early in December. When the present governor general went to Manila in 1929 it was with the understanding that he would be allowed to retire this fall.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, present governor of Porto Rico has been most prominently mentioned for the Philippine post. Reports in Washington are that Mr. Roosevelt, who also has been mentioned as vice presidential timber, would rather have the governor generalship than a place on the Republican ticket in 1932.

Study Economic Phases.

Following his talk with the President, Mr. Hurley said his report would state that the groups in control of the Philippines were for independence. He admitted he had reached conclusions as to the questions involved in his study of the question of independence, but said these might be modified somewhat by further studies of the economic phases of the problem.

WOMEN'S VOTE BILL PASSED BY PHILIPPINE HOUSE

MANILA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Women would be given equal political rights with men to vote and hold office under a bill passed tonight by the insular house of representatives. The vote was 38 to 14.

Legislative circles believe, however, that the Philippine senate will not pass the bill, or, if it does, will merely give women the right to vote, not the right to hold office.

The islands will be the first country in the orient to have women suffrage if the measure finally is enacted. The question has come up every year for several political seasons, but this session the women waged a stronger campaign than ever. American women assisted the Filipino leaders.

RELATIVES SHARE $515,000 ESTATE OF MRS. STANLEY

The late Mrs. Mary Stanley, widow of a wealthy South Water street merchant of a score of years ago, left an estate of $515,000 it was disclosed yesterday. Assistant Judge Oscar S. Caplan approved her will after it had been filed with Probate Clerk Mitchell C. Robin. Mrs. Stanley died at her villa near Milan, Italy, on Oct. 21. She was 64 years old.

According to the will Mrs. Stanley's children, Mrs. Frances S. Kimball of Paris, and Edward M. Standley of Florence, Italy, share the estate equally after minor bequests. Mrs. Stanley left a $30,000 trust fund, two-thirds of the income of which was given to the Children's Memorial hospital, and the residue to the Destitute Crippled Children's home. The income of a similiar trust fund will be shared by two sisters, Mrs. James P. Lynch of Greenwich, Conn., and Gertrude Pence, who lived with Mrs. Stanley.

J. T. BRAMHALL, NEWSPAPER MAN, DIES IN COLORADO

Boulder Colo., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Funeral services were held today for John T. Bramhall, former Chicago advertising man, and veteran newspaper man. He died Sunday.

Mr. Bramhall was born in Ghent, N. Y., in 1849. From 1875 to 1891 he worked on the staffs of the Albany Times and Journal. Later he moved to Chicago, becoming advertising director for the Michigan Central railroad. Subsequently he held a similar position on the Santa Fe railroad.

Surviving Mr. Bramhall is a son, Prof. Frederick Bramhall, of the political science department of the University of Colorado, formerly attached to the University of Chicago.

OCHS OAKES, OFFICER OF NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY, DIES AT 70

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—George Washington Ochs Oakes, an officer of the New York Times company and editor of Current History magazine, died suddenly this afternoon. The cause of death was an embolism. He had fully recovered from a surgical operation and was preparing to leave the Medical Center hospital today to celebrate his seventieth birthday, when he expired.

He was the son of Julius and Bertha Ochs, and was born in Cincinnati, in 1861, while his father was serving in the United States army as captain and adjutant.

He was a carrier boy on the Knoxville Chronicle from 1868 to 1878. In 1880 he was a reporter on the Chattanooga Times, subsequently becoming city editor, night editor, and managing editor. In 1896 when his brother, Adolph S. Ochs, bought the New York Times, George became publisher of the Chattanooga Times.

Between 1890 and 1900 he was twice mayor of Chattanooga.

He came to New York in 1901 and has since been associated with the Times. He adopted the names Oakes some years ago in order to avoid confusion with his brother, Adolph, the owner of the Times.

CHIEF DENIES POLICE FAVORS TO HOSPITAL

Chief William Collins of the county highway police issued a statement yesterday denying that his subordinates favored the Des Plaines hospital by taking there persons injured in accidents nearer other hospitals. He criticized Dr. A. M. Purves of Des Plaines, one of six physicians who made charges that the police were getting fees from the hospital.

Chief Collins displayed a list of 64 accident cases from Aug. 1 to Oct. 1, showing that 24 persons were taken to the Des Plaines hospital, 9 to the Belmont hospital, 7 to the Chicago State hospital, 7 to St. Francis hospital in Evanston, 6 to the Mount Prospect hospital, and the remainder to five other hospitals in the northwest part of the county. Of the 24 patients taken to the Des Plaines hospital, 12 were taken there by civilians, according to the statement.

"Dr. Purves complained to me six months ago," Chief Collins said. "I told him if he could bring me one specific instance' I would fire the policemen responsible. I also suggested that if his criticisms of the Des Plaines hospital were true he ought to report it to the state board of health."

$500,000 Tax Suit Filed Against Hirsheimer Estate

Suit for $500,000 in back taxes was filed yesterday in the Pike County Circuit court at Pittsfield against the estate of Louis D. Hersheimer, former chairman of the old state board of equalization, who died in Chicago Sept. 29, 1929. His estate, valued at more than $1,000,000, was settled through the Cook County Probate court, but the Pike county suit charges that his real residence was at Pittsfield.

Rob Presbyterian Hospital Messenger on Way to Bank

Two gunmen yesterday held up James Bolas, 3410 Lorel avenue, a messenger for the Presbyterian hospital, and forced him to hand over a brief case containing hospital receipts of $1,344 and $2,500 in checks. The holdup occurred at West Harrison and South Paulina streets. Bolas was on his way to deposit the money in the First National bank when a black sedan appeared in front of him and the gunmen jumped out.

Woman Being Rushed to Hospital Killed in Crash

New Kensington, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Mary Zragraziano, 64, became seriously ill yesterday and her physician said she must be rushed to a hospital for an emergency operation. He bundled the woman into an automobile and sped away. Not far from the hospital the car was crowded off the road and overturned. Mrs. Zragraziano was found dead in the wreckage. Her skull was fractured. The doctor was unhurt.

PUBLISHER FALLS DEAD AS HE RUNS TO AID OF SON

Earl R. Allured, 43 years old, 318 Clinton avenue, Oak Park, publisher of two confectionery journals, fell dead early yesterday as he ran to the aid of his son, Stanley, 6 years old, who was slightly hurt as he was playing in the yard in the rear of the home. Mr. Allured, who was suffering from a heart ailment, was eating breakfast when he heard the child scream. He fell dead in the yard.

Mr. Allured was publisher of the Manufacturing Confectioner Publishing company. Born in Evart, Mich., he had been engaged in the confectionery field since 1921. Surviving him are his widow, Prudence, and two other sons, James, 8, and Allen, 4 years old. Mr. Allured was a member of the Masonic order. Funeral services will be held at the home at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow. Burial will be in Elmwood Park cemetery.

GALESBURG, Ill.—[Special.]—Roy M. Marsh, 62, prominent attorney, died following a long illness. He was a graduate of Eureka college and studied law in Macomb with the firm of which Lawrence Y. Sherman, later United States senator, was a member.

RADICAL LOSES COURT FIGHT ON USE OF MAILS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A communist's argument that the postoffice department had violated the freedom of the press in barring an issue of his party's organ from the mails had no weight today with the Supreme court.

It refused to review the claim of Benjamin Gitlow, president of the Revolutionary Age, the party's publication, that the July 15, 1930, issue had been illegally turned back from the New York City postoffice.

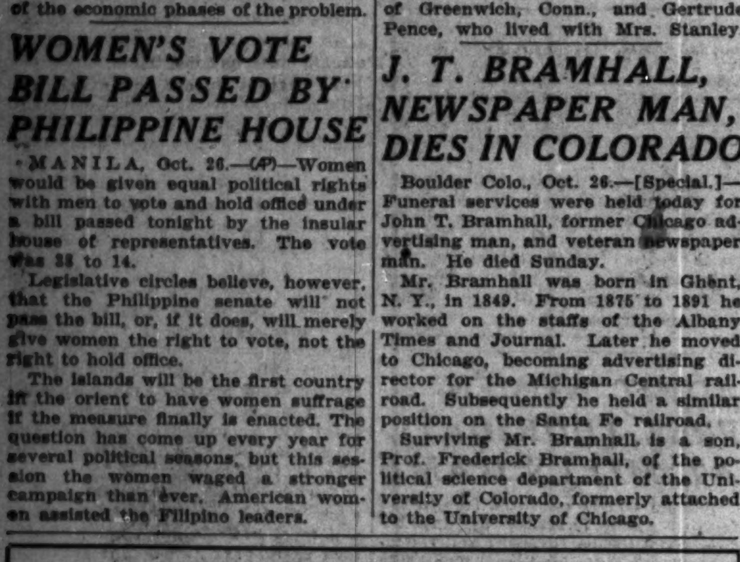

Postoffice authorities took the view the issue could not be sent through the mails because it contained matter urging treason and insurrection. The lower federal courts supported them. Gitlow tried to have the postoffice order set aside on the grounds that the federal laws were not aimed to suppress printed words which might incite to violence.

Gitlow admitted that the articles in question might sow the seeds of radical ideas and lead to some action in the future, but argued the material had "no present effect" and therefore could not be barred.

Sends Her Son, 5, Away and Ends Life with Gas

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Enid Thomas, 25, sent her 5 year old son to a neighboring relative's home, locked all the doors of her home, spread a blanket on the kitchen floor and opened three gas jets of the stove to end her own life today.

BIG AUTO FIRMS IN POSITION TO JUMP INTO HIGH

Have Cash to Start; Await Demand.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The big automobile companies are in position to make the most of better times, whenever they shall appear. The third quarter reports, while showing the generally anticipated meager earnings, also reveal that the companies are in unusually strong condition. Therefore, they have the resources to buy raw materials on a cash basis whenever demand for motor cars picks up.

The report of the Studebaker corporation, issued last night, suggests this situation, just as did the statements of the General Motors and Chrysler corporations last week. On Sept. 30, Studebaker's ratio of current assets to current liabilities was 589 per cent, compared with 284 per cent at the beginning of 1931. During this period the company paid off $5,000,000 of notes and reduced accounts payable by about $1,150,000. All told, current liabilities were reduced from $10,186,395 to $4,469,267, while current assets receded from $30,024,952 to $25,-

Earnings Hold Up.

Studebaker's earnings for the third quarter and also the nine months of this year were not a great deal lower than in the corresponding periods in 1930. Net profits for the quarter were $401,772, or 19 cents a share, compared with $514,006, or 20 cents a share a year ago. Net profits for the nine months totaled $2,496,125, or 1.00 a share, compared with $2,772,-, or $1.23 a share, for the similar period last year.

Studebaker's earnings thus far this year have more than covered dividend requirements at the reduced rate of $1.20 a share annually. Common stock dividends have totaled $1,765,271. After adjustments, surplus on September 30 was $19,129,113, compared with $17,151,494 on Jan. 1.

The Packard Motor Car company reported for the September quarter net profit of $164,000, compared with $1,151,111 in the third quarter last year.

A Drab Tale.

The drab tale of slack trade and industry in September is retold in the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Reports from both manufacturing and nonmanufacturing lines showed a considerably lower level of industrial activity than prevailed in August.

"Further layoffs reduced the number of men, while wage reductions, shorter hours and the Labor day holiday contributed to smaller pay rolls," the review says. "The downward trend in factory employment during August and September approximated that in the same period of 1930, so that the level continued to be about 17 per cent below a year ago. But pay rolls have fallen more rapidly and the September total was one-third less than in 1930."

TIME TO BUY—HARRIS

The opinion of Chicago bankers on the securities markets is epitomized by Albert W. Harris, chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, in a letter sent out to a number of the bank's customers yesterday.

"The economic, financial, and political situations," he says, "in which the world has been involved of late have been of such a character as to cause most people to slow up in every way many of the things in which they might have been engaged, expecting conditions to change back to what had been most frequently referred to as normal, before attempting any extension of activity in their business or investments.

Most Logical Time.

"It has been our experience that the most logical time to make investments is when one has funds to invest; when business is the slackest is the time to push it the hardest. This seems to be a particularly opportune time for anyone who has funds for investment, on account of the attractive return which now can be obtained on seasoned securities.

"We are not predicting any advance in prices and are not recommending investments now or at any time on that account. Our recommendations are based on the desirability, if one is in funds, of taking advantage of the present opportunity, which in the nature of things occurs only at rare intervals."

ARGENTINA BECOMES OPTIMISTIC AS PRICES OF COMMODITIES RISE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MONTEVIDEO, Oct. 26.—Prices of all Argentina's principal export products continued to rise during the week, accompanied by higher prices for all stock exchange securities, giving the country a sensation of confidence and optimism unfelt for many months. Since prices have been steadily strengthening from the middle of September, there is a feeling that the improvement is due to a definite tendency and not a momentary spurt. This, rather than the prices themselves, is responsible for the optimistic attitude.

Flaxseed touched 12.15 paper pesos a quintal, the highest price of the year and representing an increase of 14 per cent since the end of August. At the present exchange rate this is equivalent to 72½c a bu. Wheat touched 7.05 pesos a quintal, an increase of 47 per cent and equivalent to 45c a bu. Corn touched 4.60 pesos a quintal, an increase of 26 per cent and equivalent to 27½c a bu. Oats.

Charters indicate continued heavy cereal exports. There have been 111 steamers, totaling 742,000 tons, chartered to load between now and February.

The national statistical bureau's monthly report published Saturday shows a favorable trade balance of 59,514,000 gold pesos, or $57,431,010, at the end of the third quarter, compared to 41,003,000 gold pesos, or $39,-567,895, at the end of the second quarter and an unfavorable balance of $5,-023,000 gold pesos, or $82,047,195, at the end of the third quarter last year.

CANADA'S RAIL VENTURE COSTLY TO TAXPAYERS

Scrutator Points to Huge Deficit.

BY SCRUTATOR.

The participation of the Canadian government in the railroad business has proved to be an extremely costly venture for the Canadian people. In the case of the Canadian National Railways it has resulted in a total railroad debt of 2 billion 384 million dollars as of Dec. 31, 1930. For convenience in reading, this and following amounts are given in round numbers.

Inasmuch as the estimated population of Canada is 12,000,000, this means a railroad debt of approximately $199 for every man, woman, and child in the dominion, or $1,060 for each bread winner.

The operation of the Canadian National Railways as a unified system began in January, 1923. Prior to that time some of the lines were operated by the government and some in private hands. When the lines were merged the new system inherited the obligations of the many roads which it now embraces.

Deficit Now 579 Millions.

High hopes were expressed for the government control of this vast railway system which operates more than 20,000 miles of track extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. But from the day in 1923 when a deficit of 283 million dollars was inherited the line has been operated at a loss, with the obligations which the Canadian taxpayers must meet some day growing larger each year. The deficit carried in the last balance sheet was 579 million dollars—an increase of 296 million dollars from 1923.

The railroad debt of 2 billion, 384 million dollars is divided as follows: Canadian government appropriations for the lines in the Canadian National system, 403 million dollars; Canadian government loans and advances, with accrued interest, 926 million dollars; amount of securities in the hands of the public guaranteed by the dominion government, 854 million dollars; amount of securities in the hands of the public guaranteed by the provinces, 200 million dollars.

Issues Not Guaranteed.

In addition there is a sum of 114 million dollars in bonds and debentures in the hands of the public which are not guaranteed either by the dominion or by the provinces. Together with the guaranteed securities, the total amount due the public is one billion, 186 million dollars.

The total amount due the dominion government—including appropriations, loans and advances—was 1 billion, 114 million dollars in 1923. In 1930 it was 1 billion, 320 million dollars—an increase of 215 million dollars. The average annual increase in the amount due the dominion government in this period was 26 million dollars.

Then the total amount due the public, including nonguaranteed loans, increased from 823 million dollars in 1923 to 1 billion, 168 million dollars in 1930—an increase of 345 million dollars. The grand total of the system's indebtedness increased from 1 billion, 937 million dollars in 1923 to 2 billion, 498 million dollars in 1930. This was an increase of 561 million dollars, or an average annual increase of 70 million dollars.

How Deficits Are Met.

Here it must be pointed out that were the huge deficit of 579 million dollars to have been incurred by a private company bankruptcy would doubtless have been the result. In the case of the Canadian National the deficits have been met through bond issues and government advances, enabling the system to carry on.

The Canadian government has poured hundreds of millions of dollars into the railroads. Some of the huge sums spent have gone to build lines, some to purchase roads, some to improve right of way and some to buy equipment. While these expenditures have produced a first class railroad system, operation has resulted in staggering deficits.

The Canadian Pacific, a private enterprise, is operated at a profit.

Sept. Operating Income of 31 Railroads Off 43%

The first 31 railroads to report September earnings had net operating income of $28,044,000, a decrease of 42.2 per cent from $49,379,000 reported for the like month last year. The same carriers in August showed net operating income of $25,872,000, a decline of 42.3 per cent from August to the previous year.

Stewart-Warner Reports Third Quarter Deficit

Stewart-Warner corporation and subsidiaries reported for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1931, a net loss of $791,496 after all charges, against a net profit of $110,937, or 8 cents a share, earned on 1,295,882 shares of capital stock outstanding in the June quarter and net profit of $454,587, or 35 cents a share, on 1,289,590 shares for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1930. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1931, net loss was $1,012,315, compared with a net profit of $1,983,450, or $1.53 a share, on 1,289,590 shares in like 1930 period.

Would Allow Agreements for Limitation of Output

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—Proposals to qualify the workings of the Sherman anti-trust law were made today at the national conference on the relation of law and business, which opened at New York university under the auspices of its school of law and school of commerce.

Cornelius F. Kelley, president of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, speaking on "Copper and the Anti-Trust Laws," suggested that "a reasonable, constructive statute be enacted, vesting the right to protect business, and the public primarily, in the department of commerce.

"What reasonable objection could there be," he asked, "to a statute that would provide in substance that agreements made between persons engaged in producing commodities or any other goods, wares, or merchandise, whether competitors or not, for the limitation of production should be filed with the secretary of commerce, and should be exempted from the provision of the anti-trust acts until condemned by the secretary."

Would Confer Powers.

He further proposed that the secretary should have the power, upon receipt of complaint, to inquire into agreements and to decide if there has been any undue enhancement of price.

A proposal for similar opportunity for review of trade agreements was submitted by C. B. Ames, vice president of the Texas company, who favored interstate compacts among oil producing states. Mr. Ames objected to the anti-trust law as preventing proper coöperation, because "they threaten criminal prosecution without defining clearly what acts constitute violations of the law.

Other speakers at today's session of the conference were Magnus W. Alexander, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, Inc.; Fred I. Kent, president of the university council of New York university; Walter Wheeler Cook of Johns Hopkins university; James A. Emery, counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers; Charles A. Boston, former president of the American Bar association; John M. Redpath, manager of the research department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Charles O'Neill, chairman of the government relations committee of the National Coal association.

Would Avoid Extremes.

"All discussion should lead to suggested remedies," Mr. Kelley stated. "Many proposals have been made and differences of opinion will continue to exist as to the form that amendment should take. Two extremes are, in my opinion, to be avoided: [1] Advocacy of repeal, and [2] submitting industry and business to general regulation. Some proposals deal with emergency situations only. The difficulty with these is that the damage may be done before the cumbersome machinery provided may be invoked."

Mr. Alexander, who was the presiding officer at the morning conference, said in his address: "The fundamental problem which must be considered in any discussion of the anti-trust laws is the question of how far the existing restrictions may be relaxed in order to facilitate coöperation without destroying the competitive principle on which those laws are based."

Mr. Redpath and Mr. Boston both said that the organizations which they represented have been giving serious study to proposals for revision of the present laws.

Suggests Committee Inquiry.

An inquiry by a congressional committee was suggested by Mr. Emery. "Such a committee," he said, "may properly determine whether government is to remain a mere proseecutor or provide traffic police along the industrial highway.

"We want no enlargement of the detailed public supervision of private business," he said. "We do need practical improvement of our administrative machinery to determine with great expedition and efficiency the permissible limits of beneficial private business coöperation."

Supreme Court Upholds Cut in Fertilizer Rates

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—An interstate commerce commission order reducing rates on fertilizer between Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and New York points was upheld today by the Supreme court.

The attack of the Santa Fe and other western roads on an interstate commerce commission order reducing grain rates was advanced by the Supreme court today for hearing on Nov. 30. The railroads argued that the order, issued in July, 1930, and modified in April, 1931, would reduce their revenue not less than $20,000,000 yearly.

REPORT MEXICAN TEXTILE BUSINESS IN DIFFICULTY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 26.—The Mexican textile industry has gone on the rocks, according to a statement made by Evaristo Araiza, general manager of a Vera Cruz Industrial company which controls the largest part of the textile output in the republic.

Senor Araiza has petitioned the board of labor and industrial arbitration to permit his company, which controls large manufacturing concerns in the states of Puebla and Vera Cruz, to close its factories and suspend all manufacturing for six months, at least.

He said that the company had in stock, which it was unable to sell, 28,000,000 meters, about 27,824,074 yards, of various kinds of cloth, or 35 per cent more than last year. Moreover, the company has a total overdraft of 300,000 pesos with various banks, about $150,000, which is offset by stock on hand.

Pennsy Road Official Will Head Wabash

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—Election of W. S. Franklin, assistant to the vice president in charge of the operations of the Pennsylvania railroad and formerly president of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railway company, to the presidency of the Wabash railroad to succeed the late William H. Williams, was announced today.

Following his graduation from Harvard in 1906, Mr. Franklin began his railroad career as a platform clerk with the Pennsylvania and made rapid progress to important posts in the freight division of the road.

Selection of Mr. Franklin to head the Wabash indicates closer supervision of the activities of that road by the Pennsylvania, a development which is not unexpected in view of the stock control of Wabash which Pennsylvania enjoys through its investment affiliate, the Pennroad corporation. Mr. Franklin was also elected president and director of the Ann Arbor railroad, a subsidiary of the Wabash.

ASSERTS EAST TEXAS OIL PLAN IS NOT PRACTICAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—Declaring that the proration plan under which oil producers of east Texas have been operating is not workable as it places a premium on drilling, Kenneth R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil company of California, who arrived in New York from the coast today, blamed the sharp increase in Texas production for the demoralized condition of the oil industry in California. He asserted that despite adverse conditions the oil situation in California is fundamentally sound.

"We have set a production limit of 500,000 barrels a day," Mr. Kingsbury said, "and have been able to keep within that limit without the necessity of passing laws. Drilling activities are practically at a standstill with the exception of necessary operations in connection with leaseholds. Our marketing situation is not quite as well under control because of price cutting by independents. However, as soon as we are able to eliminate this disturbing element, oil companies in California should be able to make money."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—Misgivings over the outcome of some of the various important dividend meetings in store for this week caused the stock speculative community to switch to the selling side of the market again today. Recessions of 1 to 4 points were the rule in the industrial and railroad groups, with the usual scattering of volatiles doing somewhat worse.

Operations took a lazy course and the pressure was not very pronounced anywhere at any stage. The total was figured at about 1,200,000 shares. Of the pending dividend meetings the street expects rather bearish results from those of the Pennsylvania railroad board and of the Bethlehem Steel corporation. In most quarters it is believed that the United States Steel corporation will decide at its meeting tomorrow to continue its $4 annual rate even though it might have a disappointing earnings statement to issue. New York Central is also expected to cut its rate at its meeting early in December.

Kept Within Bounds.

Uncertainty over the outcome of the British elections and the failure of any really bullish news to come out of the White House conferences of President Hoover and Premier Laval also helped to keep enthusiasm in bounds. Apparently the statement put out on the Washington confab created little impression one way or the other in speculative circles here. Opinion seemed to agree that some progress had been made on the exchange of opinions between the two high executives, but that no real basis has been established for a settlement of some of the delicate problems involved, particularly those relating to international debts.

The market opened lower and excepting for a firming up around noon was on the defensive pretty well all day. The vast majority of issues registered new lows for the current movement.

Rail Issues Weaken.

Railroad shares were notable among the laggards, due of course to the dubious outlook on some of the dividend meetings. Atchison, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, New Haven, Illinois Central and

STEAL ALL BUT GRAND PIANO

Burglars today were warned by Mrs. ..... av., that they now possess everything of value the ..... had in the way of clothing, jewelry and table silver, and that they needn't come back unless they want the grand piano.

Last night two sneak-thieves gained entrance to the ..... apartment and stole articles valued at $3,000. The loot consisted of a chest of silver worth $2,500; two fur coats worth $1,000, and $1,500 in jewelry.

Mrs. ..... told police: "My daughter, ..., and I left home about 6 o'clock last night to meet Mr. ..... When we returned at 9:30 the chain had been put on the front door from the inside. We had to get in through the back porch door."

This might have been your home!

How would you like to come home some evening and find that robbers had taken all the furs, silver and jewelry you possessed? It wouldn't be so bad, however, if you had covered those valuables with Continental Residence Burglary Insurance. For you would then have the satisfaction of knowing that you would be reimbursed in cash the moment your loss was verified.

Thieves who covet your belongings are seldom stopped by "burglar-proof" locks, special alarms or even watch dogs. Thus an inexpensive Continental burglary policy is a far better safeguard than any lock, alarm or dog you can provide. CHICAGO STOCK TRADE LIMITED; PRICES DECLINE

Gardner-Denver Profits Show Shrinkage.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Traders limited their operations in the stock market yesterday pending the outcome today of the British election and the important dividend meetings which are scheduled, including that of the United States Steel directors. Professional maneuvering and scattered selling accounted for the bulk of the 41,000 share turnover on the Chicago exchange.

Unwillingness of traders to make important commitments caused a moderate depression of prices, but the selling did not appear in important volume. Commission house buying was at low ebb, with the public even more wary of making commitments than the professional operators.

Down 2 Points.

Except in the case of one or two of the higher priced shares, the net declines for the day were confined within a 1 point margin. Commonwealth Edison, the highest priced issue on the board, sold at 146¾, or 2 points under last week's final price; but the changes among the other Insull stocks were largely fractional.

Third quarter earnings statements continued to come in from corporations, but the results reported seem to have little bearing on current market action. So far the reports have shown no surprises, unless it is that some companies are making better showings than could be reasonably expected under existing conditions. These conditions and their effects were translated into market quotations months ago, in most cases.

Gardner-Denver company reported its net earnings for the first nine months of the year at $101,019, which fell short of dividend requirements for the period on the 7 per cent preferred stock. The income is equivalent to $4.98 a share on the preferred issue, against dividend requirements of $5.25 a share.

Showed Profit Last Year.

In the first nine months of 1930 the company earned net profit of $701,899, or $3.14 a share on the common after preferred requirements. September net was $2,884, against a loss of $2,362 in August and a loss of $3,796 in the same month last year.

Campbell, Wyant & Campbell Foundry company reported a net loss of $42,551 for the third quarter. For the first nine months, however, the company reported a net profit of $253,449, or 72 cents a share on 348,000 shares of capital stock outstanding.

American Colortype company and subsidiaries reported sales for the September quarter of $1,654,211, as compared with $1,986,777 in the comparable period last year. Sales for the first nine months amounted to $6,488,874, against $8,117,785 in the same months of 1930.

Dutch East Indies Rubber Shipments 21,667 Tons

Crude rubber shipments by the Dutch East Indies during September amounted to 21,667 tons, compared with 22,487 in August, advices to the New York Rubber exchange state. Shipments during September last year amounted to 20,240 tons.

U. S. SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS CHAIN STORE TAX IN NEW DECREE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—North Carolina's chain store tax was stamped "constitutional" today by the Supreme court. The decision was the second of recent months in which the tribunal had upheld the authority of the states to impose a special levy upon this type of merchandising establishment. Late last spring the court sustained such a tax as levied by Indiana.

The court also formally dismissed a case brought by Mississippi to test its tax on chain stores. The case is still pending in the lower courts and until they have disposed of it the Supreme court felt it could not take it under consideration. When the case has followed the usual channels of lower court procedure then it may be brought without prejudice before the highest tribunal.

The three state taxes, while similar in general intent, present contrasting differences in their method of application. The Indiana tax is imposed upon all stores and graduated upward as the total of stores in a chain increases. The North Carolina levy puts no tax on single stores, but imposes an annual assessment of $50 on each store when more than one is operated by a single individual or company. In Mississippi a tax of one-quarter of one per cent is levied against income derived from the sale of tangible property with the rate increased to one-half of one per cent when the income is derived from five or more stores.

COPPER MEN PIN HOPES ON RISE IN DEMAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 26.—Although it was expected that informal discussions last week among representatives of world producers here to confer on the copper situation would pave the way for a formal meeting today, so far as could be learned no meeting was scheduled.

Deliberations of the copper men were veiled in secrecy. It was known, however, that tentative arrangements made for a formal meeting today were not carried out, apparently to allow individual delegates to the conference more time to continue their private talks and for consultation with their home offices.

Although continued good demand for copper metal pointed to expectation that some sort of a curtailment arrangement would be arrived at before conclusion of the meeting, it was evident from private discussions of copper men that no drastic curtailment from present levels is expected. Copper men, it seems, now are pinning their hopes mainly on a recovery in consumption as the natural effect of present low prices to eliminate high cost mines for a remedy of the present situation.

Shows Stiffer Tone.

Unless there is an agreement for a sharp curtailment of output immediately, the belief is that prices of copper metal will not change materially until general industrial conditions improve and the industry has an opportunity to work off some of its surplus stocks. Although the metal market has shown a stiffer tone as a result of the increased demand for the metal the last week, prices held steady, with foreign shipments still moving at 7½ cents.

Sellers, however, are unwilling to supply all the demand at current price levels until it is apparent how events are shaping up. Early foreign sales today approximated 2,000,000 pounds.

At the moment, with world stocks of copper at record levels and consumption at a minimum as the result of the generally low state of industrial activity, it is held that some further curtailment of production is essential if the supply of the red metal above ground is not to be further augmented.

Receptive to Plans.

However, in the event of a cut of 20 per cent, or possibly somewhat more, in the present productive rate, it will only tend to place production and prevailing abnormally low consumption in a better state of balance, but may not lead to any substantial reduction in surplus stocks until a healthier demand from consuming industries is encountered. And, of course, the latter factor is one on which even most favorable coöperation in respect to curtailment of production can exert no influence or bearing.

Domestic copper men are naturally receptive to plans for further curtailment of production since it would pave the way for more profitable operations at a later date, but at the same time it is appreciated that even a general agreement for substantial world reduction in copper output can have little or no effect on present or near term earning prospects.

Lumber Orders Reported 2 Per Cent Above Cut

With no marked change in the production level, lumber orders rallied from the slightly unfavorable ratio of the previous week and were approximately 2 per cent above the cut during the week ended Oct. 17, reports from 811 leading hardwood and softwood mills to the National Lumber Manufacturers association indicate. Shipments of these mills were 6 per cent above their production of 173,869,000 feet for the week. A week earlier 834 mills reported orders 3 per cent below and shipments 9 per cent above a combined production of 175,799,000 feet.

Grigsby-Grunow.

Will you please inform me as to the classification of Grigsby-Grunow stock?—J. R. A.

Grigsby-Grunow company was incorporated in 1921. It was originally a small company. In 1928 with the increased purchase of radio receiving sets the company enjoyed a spectacular rise which placed it among the leading set manufacturers of the world. This comparatively new industry enjoyed unusual prosperity prior to 1930, but with the business depression it became apparent that the entire field had overexpanded. Overproduction and price cutting were acute.

Majestic Household Utilities corporation was organized as an affiliate in April, 1930, to manufacture electric refrigerators. Lack of working capital necessitated reorganization and the company was merged with Grigsby-Grunow.

Sales for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1931, were $28,350,881, against $61,330,217 for the preceding twelve months and $49,318,669 for the year ended May 31, 1929. Net loss for the latest fiscal year was $2,169,761. This was after nonrecurring charges totaling $2,010,389. Net profit for the May 31, 1930, fiscal year was $1,745,648, or 87 cents per share on 1,997,897 shares. For the fiscal year ended May 31, 1929, net income (adjusted) was $5,114,612, or $2.92 per share on 1,748,160 shares.

On May 31, 1931, current assets were $8,021,567 and current liabilities were $2,964,820. Cash was $2,364,655. Working capital was $5,056,747, against $5,632,754 the year before. Funded debt was $3,025,200. There were 2,372,897 shares of no par capital stock outstanding.

On Aug. 6, 1931, Chairman Grigsby stated orders for $11,000,000 worth of merchandise for delivery before Oct. 1, 1931, were received. On Oct. 1, 1931, production of Majestic radios was increased to 4,125 sets a day.

No dividends are being paid on the company's stock. Distributions will probably have to wait for larger earnings from the electric refrigerator division, stability of the radio industry, and strengthening of current position. The stock is a speculation.

Arizona Edison 5s.

Could you give me some information on Arizona Edison company first 5s, due 1948?—A. C. F.

Arizona Edison company supplies a population of 73,089 in Arizona, California, and Mexico with electricity and, in part, gas, water, and telephone. Charges in 1930 were earned 2.28 times, against 2.56 times in 1929. For the twelve months to July 31, 1931, gross revenues were $1,827,307, against $1,882,608 for the preceding twelve months. The first 5s, due 1948, are a business man's investment.

CORPORATION EARNINGS

CATERPILLAR TRACTOR.

Net profit for the September quarter was $185,006, against $514,336 in the third quarter of last year, per share earnings amounting to 10c and 27c for the respective periods. For the first nine months of the year net was $1,629,481 after charges and taxes, equal to 87c a share on 1,882,240 shares, as against $6,137,301 in the like 1930 period, or $3.26 a share.

U. S. DISTRIBUTING.

Reported for the first nine months of this year net profits of $289,314 after charges and federal taxes, against $349,827 in the same period last year. September quarter net was $87,849, against $121,182 in the corresponding three months a year ago.

BON AMI.

Reported third quarter earnings amounting to $324,519 after depreciation and taxes, equal to $1.50 a share on the A stock and 87 cents a share on the B stock. This compares with a net of $344,040 in the same period of last year, which was equal to $1.59 a share on the A stock, and 92 cents on the B stock. The company's net profit for the nine months ended Sept. 30 after depreciation and taxes was $975,556, or $4.50 on the A stock and $2.62 on the B stock. During the corresponding period of last year the net profit was $1,044,507, equal to $4.84 on the A stock and $2.79 on the B stock.

AMERICAN ZINC.

In the September quarter earned 86 cents a preferred share, against $1.90 a preferred share in the previous quarter and 36 cents in the September, 1930, quarter. Nine months' earnings were equivalent to $4.05 a share on the preferred, as against $3.51 in the first nine months of last year.

CERTAINTEED PRODUCTS.

In the September quarter earned 6 cents a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock, compared with 53 cents in the previous three months and a net loss of $419,228 in the third, 1930 quarter. For the first nine months of 1931 there was a net loss of $196,402, against net loss of $1,176,167 in the same period last year.

MAGMA COPPER.

Reported a net loss for the September quarter of $91,738 after expenses and depreciation, but before federal taxes, contrasted with profit of $76,358 in the preceding quarter and profit of $193,483 in the third quarter of 1930.

Nine months' profit before federal taxes was $96,045, against $604,898 in the first nine months of last year.

A. M. CASTLE.

Reported for the third quarter net loss of $43,818 after all charges, contrasted with net profit of $4,966, or 4 cents a share on 120,000 common shares, in the preceding three months and net profit of $81,111, or 67 cents a share, in the September, 1930, quarter.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30 the company reported net loss of $12,276 after all charges, compared with net profit of $352,204, or $2.93 a share, in the same period a year ago.

M. A. HANNA.

For the quarter ended Sept. 30 had a net profit of $442,982, equal after preferred dividend requirements to 19 cents a share on the common, against $701,405 net, or 44 cents a share, in the third quarter of 1930. For the nine months to Sept. 30 net was $1,171,432, equal to 43 cents a share, against $1,805,097 net, or $1.05 a share, in the first nine months of 1930.

KELLY-SPRINGFIELD TIRE.

For the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1931, operating profits was $399,082 before depreciation and other charges and net profit was $214,662 after these deductions, according to a statement issued yesterday by William H. Lalley, president. "The affairs of the company are showing a progressive improvement," Mr. Lalley stated. "We have been able to report a net profit for each month since May 1 of this year." Sales have held at a steady level; in fact, our shipments to dealers for the first nine months of 1931 exceeded those for the same period of 1930.

YELLOW TRUCK AND COACH MANUFACTURING.

Reported a consolidated net loss for the first nine months of 1931 amounting to $1,893,352, after expenses, depreciation, etc. This contrasts with consolidated net profit of $1,053,431 in the same period last year, equal to $7.02 a share on 150,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock on which there is an accumulation of unpaid dividends. After allowing for only the regular nine months' requirements, net was equivalent to 12 cents a share, par $10 on the combined 2,100,000 shares of class B and common stocks.

For the three months ended Sept. 30 the company had a consolidated net loss of $846,471, compared with net profit of $28,110, equal to 19 cents a share on the 7 per cent preferred, in the preceding quarter and net loss of $384,432 in the third quarter of 1930.

MONSANTO CHEMICAL WORKS.

In the September quarter earned 84 cents a share, compared with 97 cents in the previous three months and with 41 cents in the third quarter of 1930. Nine months' earnings amounted to $2.40 a share, as against $1.91 in the first nine months of last year.

COTTON OFF ON HEDGING

Hedging sales by the south, combined with the weakness in the stock market and a weakened technical position incident to an advance of $7.50 per bale from the recent low point, resulted in cotton prices declining steadily yesterday. The finish was at the bottom, with Chicago off 27@30 points, and other markets lost 24@28 points for the day. Coöperative brokers sold freely early, but bought on the decline.

Trade and Japanese interests were persistent buyers during the day, part of it being for price fixing purposes. Ginnings to Oct. 18, as shown by the census bureau report, aggregated 9,498,000 bales, compared with 9,255,000 bales during the same period in 1930, and 9,095,000 bales in 1929, and was somewhat above trade expectations.

Liverpool cables were 3@5 points lower than due and had some effect on sentiment. Reports from the textile trade were generally favorable. Spots in New York were 25 points lower at 6.65c, with New Orleans off 20 points to 6.45c; Galveston, 6.45c; Houston, 6.40c. Prices follow:

The Southern Sugar Company

Notice to Creditors:

Pursuant to the provisions of an order of the Circuit Court of Hendry County, Florida, in Chancery, entered October 17, 1931, in a cause therein pending entitled "Weir Kilby Corporation, a corporation, et al., Complainants, against The Southern Sugar Company, a corporation, Defendant," all creditors of The Southern Sugar Company, the defendant in said cause, are hereby required to file duly sworn statements of their claims against the said Corporation with the undersigned Receivers, appointed by said Court, at the office of the Receivers in the City of Clewiston, Florida, on or before the 20th day of November, 1931. Said statements of claims shall set forth, among other things, the nature and amount of the claim, amount and nature of any security or lien held by the claimant or to which the claimant is or claims to be entitled, and also any claim to preference or priority in payment to any other creditors of said Corporation.

Pursuant to the foregoing provisions of said order, all persons, firms, associations and corporations, who shall fail so to file their claims or demands against The Southern Sugar Company with the said Receivers on or before said date, shall be forever barred and foreclosed from making or asserting any claims against The Southern Sugar Company and from participating in the assets or properties of said Corporation or the proceeds thereof, except upon further order of the court herein granted and entered for due cause shown and upon proper application.

Dated, October 20, 1931.

BY AL CHASE.

Details of one of Michigan boulevard's most interesting and significant rental transactions were disclosed yesterday at the county recorder's office when the lease between the Liggett & Myers Tobacco company, and the Standard Office company, owner of the Railway Exchange building, was filed for record. The big tobacco concern is paying $35,000 annually for the small corner store, 30x45, with basement space.

Figuring the below street level space at about $1 per square foot, the Liggett & Meyers Tobacco company is paying approximately $25 per square foot annual rental for the boulevard shop. The lease is for five years and started May 1, 1931. It calls for termination on April 30, 1936, but contains a clause which permits the lessee to end it on April 30, 1934, or April 30, 1935, upon giving the lessor 120 days prior written notice.

Made Before Your Eyes.

The lease specifies that the lessee shall use the premises for the exhibit of the process of making cigarets and for merchandising tobacco and for no other purpose. Of course, as probably every one who ever strolls along Boul Mich knows, the small corner store is full of complicated but attractive machines where Chesterfield cigarets are made before your eyes as you stand on the sidewalk outside the big plate glass windows.

A chute leads to the basement room where the cigaret packages are placed in containers, that being the only part of the process of raw material to consumer which is not visible to the casual eye. Aldis J. Browne, of Ross & Browne, agent for the Railway Exchange building, negotiated the lease for the Standard Office company. This is the space formerly occupied by the Barnett Bros. jewelry firm. Albert H. Wetten & Co. were brokers for the tobacco firm.

Based On Advertising Value.

This unusual lease is interesting for several reasons, but especially because despite the large sum paid for such a small store the lessee figures on practically no cash return on the investment. The entire project is based on the tremendous advertising possibilities resulting from the natural curiosity of passersby for moving machinery. Throngs stands enthralled at the windows watching the intricate mechanism transform tobacco into cigarets.

The five acre tract in the Burnside Industrial district, on the south side of East 95th street, extending from Cottage Grove avenue to Ellis avenue, 1392 x 170, has been transferred by Fred E. Hummel, trustee in bankruptcy of the Niemann Furniture Manufacturing company, to Newton F. Grey, agent for the Phipps Industrial Land trust, owner of the factory district. Mr. Grey then conveyed title to the trustees of the Phipps Industrial Land trust.

To the Holders of Secured Gold Notes of Galveston-Houston Electric Company (Series A 6½% and Series B 6%) which matured June 1, 1931.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, The Atlantic National Bank of Boston, Trustee under Indenture of Galveston-Houston Electric Company dated June 1, 1926, securing said Gold Notes, has now available for distribution on and after October 30, 1931, the sum of $1,993,098.25 for payment of

1. Interest on said notes from December 1, 1930, to September 1, 1931, including interest on overdue interest to said date, at the respective rates borne by the notes, and
2. 57½% of the principal of said Notes, with the appurtenant June 1, 1931 coupon, should be presented to the undersigned for such payments and for endorsement thereof on the notes, unless noteholders desire to take advantage of the Readjustment Plan declared operative by the Committee under the Deposit Agreement dated May 18, 1931, referred to below. If noteholders desire to accept the Readjustment Plan, they should, upon delivery of these notes, instruct said Trustee to cause the notes to be deposited with the Depositary.

Unless so instructed the Trustee will distribute the above payments as aforesaid, and will retain the notes pending the sale on November 2, 1931 of the remaining securities pledged under said Indenture in accordance with the notice published as provided therein. Upon receipt of the proceeds from the sale by the Trustee, the amount distributable and the notes, endorsed, with the total amount paid thereon, will be sent forthwith to noteholders.

THE ATLANTIC NATIONAL BANK OF BOSTON, TRUSTEE.
By Charles Weston, Vice President.

Noteholders, in order to take advantage of the Readjustment Plan declared operative by the undersigned Committee, must deposit their notes, with the June 1, 1931 coupon, with The Atlantic National Bank of Boston, Depositary, 10 Post Office Square, Boston, Massachusetts. The plan, if consummated, provides for the payment on or about November 5, 1931 in cash to Depositors of at least 60% of the principal of the notes and accrued interest (including interest on overdue interest) to September 1, 1931 and new Secured Income Notes (Series A 6½% and Series B 6%, if earned) of Galveston-Houston Electric Company for the balance of the principal. Further details may be obtained by writing to the Depositary.

UNLESS AND UNTIL NOTES HAVE BEEN DEPOSITED WITH THE DEPOSITARY, HOLDERS THEREOF WILL NOT BE ENTITLED TO THE NEW SECURED INCOME NOTES.

Respectfully,

STOCKS DROP AS TRADERS SWITCH TO SELLING SIDE

others were off about 1 to 4 points. Illinois Central is expected to omit its dividend at its meeting later in the week. Dealings in the issue were small today.

Profit taking by traders who had bought Case Threshing Machine on reports that a prominent Boston operator was "bulling" the issue caused this harvester group favorite to give way about 3 points. The dip in wheat and corn prices probably contributed somewhat to the selling also.

Reports that a new pool is operating in United States Industrial Alcohol and that Air Reduction is increasing its holdings, which now total about one-sixth of the total number of shares outstanding, helped this some time speculative favorite to move against the popular trend for a gain of nearly a point.

Makes Good Showing.

Another issue to make a good showing was Chrysler. Buying here was based mainly on the earnings report put out by the corporation at the end of last week. Some traders were said to be switching to this issue from General Motors.

Arrival of President K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, here for a renewal of discussions looking to a merger of this corporation with Standard of New Jersey stimulated some support for both these issues, which had slid off earlier in the day.

U. S. DELIVERS 2,000,000 BUSHELS WHEAT TO BRAZIL

More than 2,000,000 bushels of wheat have been delivered to Brazil by the Grain Stabilization corporation, according to an announcement yesterday by George S. Milnor, chairman of the corporation. This is a part of the deliveries to be made under the contract whereby the federal farm board traded 25,000,000 bushels of wheat for 132,000,000 pounds of Brazilian coffee.

Mr. Milnor added that the Brazilian government's demands for wheat exceeded expectations and that he believed the big trade would be completed in ten months. The wheat has been moved out of the United States through South Atlantic ports and New York.

An advisory committee of the coffee trade, meeting here yesterday, started to formulate plans for the disposal of the traded coffee, which by agreement will be held in storage until September, 1932. Its recommendation will be turned over to the stabilization corporation. Mr. Milnor said that the corporation did not want to be in the coffee business and desired to disturb the coffee market as little as possible in its sales next year.

PEORIA EXPECTS BIG INCREASE OF WATER TRAFFIC

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—River craft and freight aggregating 94,944 tons passed through the La Grange locks, while the locks at Kampsville handled a total of 82,451 tons between Jan. 1 and Oct. 20, to exceed tonnage handled last year, according to reports at the United States Engineers Suboffice here.

Upstream traffic at Kampsville amounted to 11,762 tons, La Grange, 24,164 tons, while downstream tonnage at these locks was 70,699 and 67,780 tons respectively.

A survey of the carriers operating on the Illinois river during the last season shows that the greatest amount of traffic resulted from commercial barges, such as operated by the Federal Barge lines between Peoria, St. Louis and New Orleans.

Traffic on the Illinois river via the Federal Barge lines will increase ten times the volume of the season just closed when operations are resumed next spring, declares A. T. Griffith, traffic representative.

Williamson Notes Fair Pickup for Burlington

F. E. Williamson, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, said yesterday that the road has had a little better than the usual seasonal increase in loadings during the last two weeks, so that the decrease as compared with a year ago is somewhat less than during the early part of October, and also in August and September. Due to the late continuance of mild weather he said the seasonal increase in coal business has been lacking.

Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, said that so far there is no indication of a pickup in business in the road's territory and that grain traffic continues unusually light. He said the road so far has placed no orders for rails, but probably will purchase less than 10,000 tons this year, against a normal order of around 15,000 tons.

Radio City Awards Boost Construction Activity

Heavy gains, due principally to letting of contracts for three buildings for the Radio city development in New York City, marked the engineering construction field in the United States for the week, Engineering News-Record reports. The total for the week was $76,356,000, compared with $33,033,000 last week, and $58,926,000 for the like week last year.

FORM MICHIGAN UNIT OF LARGE NATIONAL POOL

Formation of a Michigan banking group as a unit of the National Credit corporation yesterday completed organization of banks throughout the Chicago federal reserve district for participation in the big national pool to "unfreeze" banking resources throughout the country. Groups already had been formed in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Iowa, the other states in this reserve district.

George M. Reynolds, Chicago financier, who is chairman of the national corporation and also director to represent the Chicago reserve district, said that subscriptions coming in from banks indicate that between 80 and 100 million dollars will be pledged in this district. He expects the national corporation will begin making loans to banks within the next fortnight.

PROFIT TAKING SALES OF WHEAT LOWER PRICES

Hear Russia Is Canceling Previous Sales.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy profit taking sales induced by weakness in the stock market and the failure of Liverpool to fully reflect the sharp advance in North American caused a reaction of around 2c in wheat yesterday. Houses with eastern connections were aggressive buyers early, but failed to follow up the bulges as was the case late last week, and at times the market acted somewhat overbrought.

Good support from the commission houses on resting orders and holders of bids checked the decline at 59⅝c for the May wheat, and the finish was on a moderate rally from the inside with net losses of ¾@1c. December closed at 55⅛ to 55¼c; March, 58⅞c; May, 60⅛ to 60¼c, and July, 60⅝ to 60¾c.

There was not the snap to the buying which was such a feature on Friday and Saturday, while houses with southwestern connections were hedging against a larger movement of cash wheat in that section of the belt. Local traders were not disposed to operate extensively on the buying side owing to the advance of around 13c from the recent low. Liverpool closed ⅝@¾c higher with December at 59⅞c figured on the basis of $3.93 for sterling.

Claim Russia Cancels Wheat.

There were numerous cross currents in the days news, but in the main foreign advices favored holders, although the export demand was not as brisk as of late, and sales of hard winters and Manitobas in all positions were finally estimated at 500,000 bu or more, with both the United Kingdom and the continent in the market.

According to seaboard advices cables from aboard said Russia was canceling previous sales of grain, but gave no details. That a serious financial crisis has developed in the latter country was indicated by London cables claiming Russian commercial bills were selling at 50 per cent discount, against 25@30 per cent recently.

An estimate that the Kansas winter wheat acreage for the 1932 crop would be reduced around 20 per cent made by E. J. Smiley, secretary of the Kansas Grain Dealers' association, attracted some attention, but the technical position of the market as regarded as having been weakened to some extent, and failed to respond to the news.

Have Little Effect.

Announcement that conferences were being held between the farm board and France regarding wheat and cotton, also failed to have a material effect. Millers were reported as buyers of futures at Minneapolis while the Farmers National was credited with having bought Duluth December durum futures.

The first sign of weakening in the position of a European country in its effort to restrict consumption was seen in the change in the Italian durum wheat quota with mills permitted to grind 25 per cent of foreign durum compared with 5 per cent previously. A decrease of 1,927,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply, making the total 225,078,000 bu against 199,880,000 bu last year. Winnipeg was under pressure and closed 1@1⅛c lower with December at 60⅛c in Canadian currency, which was quoted around 10 per cent discount as compared with American.

Corn Weakens with Wheat.

Weakness in wheat increased bearish sentiment in corn and the close was ⅝@1⅛c lower with December 37⅝c; March, 39⅝@39¾c; May, 41⅝c, and July, 43⅝c. Spreaders sold corn and bought wheat, but the difference between the May deliveries remained practically unchanged at about 18¼c. Movement of new corn is increasing with around 30 cars received here, and a little hedging pressure was apparent in the pit at times, although country offerings to arrive remain small. An increase of 307,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply during the past week and it now aggregates 67,268,000 bu, against 4,392,000 bu last year.

Buying of oats by houses with eastern connections caused a small advance early, but the late weakness in other grains combined with selling by scattered longs and locals caused a reaction and the finish was ¼@⅜c lower with December, 23⅝@23¾c; May, 26¼c, and July, 26c.

Rye traders paid little attention to the news, and the close was ¾c lower with wheat. December finished at 41c, and May at 45c. Cables intimated that Germany would probably have to buy 50,000,000 bu foreign rye this season, while the crop of 20 countries that have reported so far shows a decrease of 164,000,000 bu from last year, according to returns to the department of agriculture.

GRAIN STATISTICS

United States visible supply of wheat decreased 1,927,000 bu; corn increased 307,000 bu; oats, 961,000 bu; rye, 323,000 bu, and barley, 332,000 bu. Details follow:

Top yesterday, $6.60; average, $5.65.

Hog prices sank to new low levels under pressure of the largest receipts since last March and the largest for October since 1924. The extreme top went down to $5.30, the lowest since March, 1908. At that time top hogs sold down to $4.50, the lowest since 1903, when $4.30 for top hogs was the lowest spot since 1899. In the latter year top hogs were down to $3.80. The general average price fell 15c more yesterday, going to a new low of $5.00. Losses of 10@12c were recorded during the day and thousands of 150 @190 lb. averages were sold below the $5.00 line before the close. Armour, Swift, and Wilson obtained 8,000 good to choice 170@190 lb averages at $4.80@4.85 in midseason and later. Large local packers were more aggressive after the new low price levels had been established and only 6,000 head were left at the close. However, with the fresh meat trade weak to lower again, there was little support from smaller houses and closing sales were as low as any.

Quality of hogs is running good and is expected to increase the demand for pork some as soon as cold weather sets in. Receipts are increasing, which is seasonal at this time. The eleven leading markets yesterday handled 157,000 head. This total compares with an average of 116,000 for Mondays during the last six weeks.

Offer March Hogs at $6.

Heavy grades of hogs for delivery next March were offered at $6.00 on the futures market yesterday, but no bids for those contracts were posted. Numerous bids of $4.50 were made for all contracts for November, December, and January hogs. On the "to arrive" market, light weights for today were bid $5.00 and mediums, $5.25.

While hogs entered new low levels for the last 23 years and fat lambs hovered only a little above the bottom for the last 20 years, top steers held firm at the $11.00 line again yesterday. Sales of heavy beef cattle at that figure equaled the highest since early in the year and were more than $3.00 above the lowest spot for cattle less than five months ago. The fact that quality has been runing below standard and well finished offerings are extremely scarce, explains the strong position of the market for top steers.

Several carloads of 1,272@1,439 lb steers and a few odd head averaging 1,010 lbs reached $11.00. Sales of other cattle, however, tell an entirely different story. Thousands of common to medium grades of "grassy" steers are selling at $6.50@8.00, while only exceptionally well finished corn fed cows are eligible to more than $4.00. The kinds that have to sell at $3.00@3.50 are a drug on the market lately.

Farmers Buy $5 Lambs.

Much of the cheap feed in the corn belt states will go into thin western range lambs this year. Thousands of good to choice, 40@70 lb white face westerns were available around the $5.00 line and the outlet at that price was broad. Most of the 40,000 head on the market yesterday consisted of feeding stock of almost every variety. The selection was the best of the season and country buyers seemed to be in a better position to buy than they were a few weeks ago when feeding stock was selling at a higher price.

Only fancy black face stock is quoted up to $5.25 now and hundreds of the plainer kinds range downwards to $4.50@4.75. Slaughter stock was scarce and in fair demand at mostly steady prices, natives going to packers around $6.25 and to city butchers at $6.50 and $6.60.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 31,000 hogs, and 24,000 sheep, against 9,312 cattle, 27,043 hogs, and 13,353 sheep, the previous Tuesday, and 7,732 cattle, 29,708 hogs, and 15,455 sheep a year ago.

SUGGESTS ECONOMIC PLANNING BOARD TO END OVER-PRODUCTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—An economic planning board operated by industry but under governmental supervision was recommended as a means of stemming overproduction and stabilizing industry by Henry I. Harriman, president of the New England Power company, who testified today before the special senate committee under the chairmanship of Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. [Radical Republican, Wis.] to study proposals for the formation of a national economic council.

Mr. Harriman described as "heart breaking" the prevalent competition in industries, and told the committee of the type of economic council recommended by the United States chamber of commerce committee on continuity of business, of which he is chairman.

Formation of the council would entail some modification of the anti-trust laws, Mr. Harriman conceded, and might involve pre-determination of prices, but he said he felt that proper regulation could be established.

Mr. Harriman testified that he favored "reasonable modification of the anti-trust laws to permit private agreements among industries to regulate production under government jurisdiction." These agreements, he added, would be filed with some government agency, such as the federal trade commission, which would have authority to approve or veto them before they become operative.

"Such a council should not be political but should be appointed by business, supported by business, and be purely advisory," he said.

The council, Mr. Harriman went on, would study fundamental problems of business such as foreign trade, domestic trends, and the question of wages. Sitting as ex-officio members would be the attorney general, the secretary of commerce, and the secretary of agriculture. Acting in concert with the council would be small councils appointed by trade associations to cooperate with the parent group.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

No material weakening in the general wheat situation was seen by a majority of commission houses and local operators after the close yesterday, but sentiment was somewhat more conservative regarding the immediate trend of the market. The reaction yesterday was regarded as due largely to profit taking and was believed to have strengthened the technical position to some extent.

A strong cash wheat situation is developing throughout the west, according to people who should be in a position to know. It is claimed that relatively better than a Chicago basis is being paid over a wide area for cash wheat by mills. The increased movement in the southwest is not expected to last for any length of time.

Local operators are not inclined to get enthusiastically bullish on corn despite the prospects of a higher level for wheat ultimately. The movement of the new crop is proving somewhat in excess of expectations and hedging pressure is increasing. Decline in hog prices has also had some influence.

New buying is making its appearance in oats, and was sufficiently heavy yesterday to cause an early upturn in the market. Some export demand for barley was reported at the seaboard during the day, but nothing was heard regarding oats.

LARD LOWER WITH HOGS

Large receipts of hogs throughout the west, with prices at the stockyards 15@25c lower, led to scattered selling of lard futures yesterday which disclosed a lack of support and the close was at net losses of 15@30c, with November leading. Trade in the aggregate was not large. Bellies were dull, and nominally 5c lower. Liverpool lard futures were off 3@9d. Exports of lard from the seaboard the last week aggregated 11,491,000 lbs, against 7,024,000 lbs last year, while of meats they were 5,067,000 lbs, against 2,742,000 lbs last year. Hog receipts in the west were well in excess of those of a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

KANSAS WHEAT ACREAGE

A decrease of around 20 per cent in the Kansas wheat acreage as compared with that seeded in the fall of 1930 is estimated by E. J. Smiley, secretary of the Kansas Grain Dealers association, who has completed a trip through the central and western part of that state. According to Mr. Smiley, as quoted by J. E. Bennett & Co.'s Kansas City offices, a very small proportion of the land has been properly prepared, with most of the crop drilled in the stubble. In 16 southwestern counties not to exceed 15 per cent of the wheat has been seeded and a large part of that was destroyed by wire worms and will not be reseeded until there is a general rain. Acreage reduction in that area, he estimates, will be reduced 25 per cent with rains shortly, and 50 per cent if there is no moisture before Nov. 1. In central Kansas soil conditions average good, but there are some dry spots and as a whole the seed bed is poor.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:

The average monthly cost of a $200 loan, repaid in 20 equal monthly payments, is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

Personal, Property, and Salary.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest, at the Reduced Rate, is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
